CALL TROOPS TO OPEN MILLS

Jubilant Throng Hails Col. Roosevelt

TORCH PARADE BRINGS GAYETY AND DIN TO LOOP

Speaker Urges Curb on Wild Spending.

In the glare of an old-fashioned torchlight procession and amid the enthusiastic cheers of hundreds of young Republicans, Col. Theodore Roosevelt was welcomed to Chicago last night. He came to speak in the Hotel Sherman at the formation of the Young Republican organization of Illinois.

It was a reception which warmed the hearts of Republican leaders. The crowd stormed the La Salle Street station, where attendants held them massed in the concourse waiting the arrival of Col. Roosevelt from New York as he passed through the city en route to Des Moines.

As the engine of the New York Central train swung into view at the end of the trainshed the wildly cheering multitude burst open the doors and whooped down the platform waving banners and shouting.

Hearken Back to T. R.

The engineer slowed up so as not to endanger the men who took to the tracks in an effort to greet their guest. As he stepped from the train Col. Roosevelt's broad grin reminded old-timers of his famous father.

"We want the real Roosevelt," the crowd shouted.

The banners which waved over his head as the throng pressed close about him bore such phrases as:

"Washington, Lincoln, and the Real Roosevelt."

"No Dictatorship."

"Stop the Spenders."

On the welcoming committee were John T. Dempsey of Chicago, chairman of the Young Republican convention; Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey, Edward F. Moore, secretary of the Republican county central committee, and Attorney Emmett Byrne.

Parade Halts Trafic.

The committee members were forced almost to take Col. Roosevelt on their shoulders, so great was the press about them. Making a "flying wedge," they at length managed to get their distinguished guest to a waiting automobile, while the crowd, still cheering wildly, fell in behind as the procession moved east in Jackson boulevard.

Trafic stalled when the parade turned north in Clark street. Horns blew as motorists joined in the tumultuous reception. The flickering lights from the torches reflected weirdly from the loop canyons. To this accompaniment Col. Roosevelt was borne into the grand ballroom of the hotel.

"This is the most enthusiastic meeting I have ever seen," he declared. "I have never heard of such a reception."

Col. Roosevelt then addressed the gathering, which had swelled to more than 2,000, and attacked the New Deal with a blistering denunciation, but ended on a constructive note.

The Colonel's Speech.

"I am opposed to the so-called New Deal," he said, "because I believe it is unsound economically and subversive of our American ideals of the liberty of the people. I am opposed to it because it will bring penury, want, and disaster upon our people and will bear down with crushing force upon the poor of the community, who will ultimately have to pay for all the folly.

"If it is permitted to run its course unchecked savings bank accounts and life insurance policies will be wiped out; the savings of the small people throughout the country will be squandered on foolish schemes, unnecessary waste, and the building of a political machine.

"People do not see its danger now because the savings of generations are being literally confiscated by the government and scattered with a lavish hand.

On the NRA and Its Effects.

"Naturally this creates a fictitious well-being. The people think they are getting something for nothing. In the long run no one ever gets something for nothing. Everything is paid for and every folly and extravagance of today will be paid for by the people, by their children, and by their children's children."

Col. Roosevelt then paid his respects to the specific "remedies" sponsored by the New Dealers. Of the NRA, he said he was confident it "retards" rather than "aids" recovery. It will breed monopoly, he said, and "ruin

Dr. Edwin J. Norton, dentist, former football star and later coach at Loyola university, was held by Summerdale police last night after he had confessed striking the blow that resulted in the death of Maynard W. Lawhon, 6634 Newgard avenue, an artist employed as a guide at A Century of Progress exposition.

Dr. Norton's story that he had struck Lawhon with his fist and knocked him down during a scuffle outside the Double inn, a tavern at 1235 Devon avenue, cleared up a mystery which had baffled police for twenty-four hours.

During long hours of questioning at the station the doctor and his companions—five men and one young woman—had maintained they knew nothing of how Lawhon was injured, although they admitted seeing him outside the tavern, blood flowing from his head.

Police Happen on Clew.

Dr. Norton, who lives at the Campus Tower apartments, 1038 Loyola avenue, was brought into the affair by pure chance. Lawhon was injured on Saturday morning, shortly after midnight, and died that night in St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

Saturday afternoon police were sent to Dr. Norton's apartment to question him about his automobile, which had been stolen and was used by the thieves in two robberies on Friday night and Saturday morning.

They found a drinking party in progress there and, unable to obtain the desired information, the officers took the entire group to the Rogers Park police station. While there, one of the group, Miss Rita Grant, 21 years old, of 6628 Bosworth avenue, said to Capt. Pat Harding:

"Why are you holding all of us? Just because Dr. Norton slugged that fellow and he died?"

Describes Tavern Incident.

This was Capt. Harding's first intimation that Dr. Norton's party had any connection with the injury to Lawhon, and he sent the group to the Summerdale station, in which district the Double inn stands.

After several hours of questioning Dr. Norton finally told his story to Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis and Acting Capt. Matt Hoff. His party, he said, had been in the tavern, and as they left, Lawhon, who also had been drinking there, tried to join them.

Lawhon becomes obnoxious, Norton said, and endeavored to climb into the automobile with Dr. Norton's friends. When he was told to "stay away," the doctor said, Lawhon swung at him. The doctor hit back, knocking Lawhon to the sidewalk.

Other members of the party picked Lawhon up, and, in answer to their questions, he said he was "all right" and walked away. Dr. Norton and his friends thought nothing more of the incident until they were informed next day that Lawhon was in the hospital.

After being knocked down, it was also discovered, Lawhon went to the home of a friend, Dr. Paul J. Kullman, who lives in the same building as Dr. Norton, for treatment.

Dr. Kullman took him to the hospital and informed his father, Dr. W. M. Lawhon of 64 West Randolph street. Dr. Lawhon called a brain specialist to perform an operation, but in vain. Lawhon died of a skull fracture and a blood clot on the brain.

Jewel, 3,000 Years Old, Found in German Garden

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SPEYER, Germany, Sept. 16.—An ancient burial urn containing an amber pearl and two golden trinkets has been found by a peasant, who uncovered them while digging in his garden. All three objects were in perfect condition. Director Sprater of the museum in Speyer fixed their age at 3,000 years.

Mr. Millard Is Versatile Gent in Getting Cash

Mr. Sam Millard of 1234 South Wabash avenue is the kind of a man who just can't bear to see an opportunity go to waste.

Last night, for example, he saw thousands of citizens streaming into Soldiers' field to see the "Drama of Chicago on Parade." Admission to this great spectacle was free and this pained Mr. Millard, as he thought of the profits a nice, reasonable entrance fee would bring.

Acting on this inspiration Mr. Millard took his stand just outside the stadium and was quite busy selling gullible persons tickets to this free show at $1 the ticket.

Purchaser Halts His Racket.

Things went along nicely until a visitor from Harvey inquired of a nearby policeman where he could find gate 2, since the tickets he had purchased called for him to enter at that gate.

"You BOUGHT tickets?" demanded Sergt. Henry Hinks. "Who from?"

The victim of the sale pointed out Mr. Millard and he was soon taken to the first district police station. There the astounding discovery was made that the ticket sale had not been Mr. Millard's only source of profit.

Two girls, who did not give their names, complained that Mr. Millard had taken his stand at one of the gates for a time and began taking up the World's Fair passes of all those who entered, explaining that this was the admission and that the passes would be returned when they left.

Mythical Beauty Contest.

Naturally this created some confusion when the pageant was over, and indignant visitors tried in vain to get their Fair tickets back.

And, to top it all off, a male complainant, who also declined to identify himself, admitted that Sam had sold him, for the nominal price of $2.50, 100 votes in a purely mythical beauty contest which Mr. Millard stated was being held on the Fair grounds that night. Mr. Millard was locked up.

Police Compel Japanese Union to Call Off Strike

TOKIO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Compelled by police to submit grievances to arbitration, the Transport Workers' union has called off a strike which began Aug. 4. The workers will return to their posts at midnight.

TEXTILE HEADS IN SOUTH MOVE TO HALT STRIKE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—An attempt to break the great textile strike by opening picket closed mills under protection of bayonets was planned tonight by southern mill operators.

With 3,000 militiamen summoned to strike duty in Georgia and 2,000 more already on duty in the Carolinas, an ominous silence hung over the south. Thousands of troops, law officers, and strike pickets snapped to attention.

Troops Mass Stocks.

Guardsmen massed stocks of tear gas and were given last minute instructions for maintaining peace when employés who wish to work brave the picket lines to enter those mills which blow their whistles.

Union leaders responded with plans for widening the walkout, both in the south and north. As the strike in their jurisdiction entered a state of virtual siege, however, southern union chiefs were faced with another acute problem—that of relief for strikers. Hundreds of families were reported in actual want.

Labor leaders here adopted measures looking to an enlargement of the walkout through a call to 110,000 rug, carpet, and rayon workers to leave their machines.

Give Powers to Councils.

Representatives of local unions in those branches of the textile industry voted to vest their executive councils and the general strike committee of the United Textile Workers with authority to issue the call whenever they should feel it wise.

A vote to strike, effective tomorrow, also was taken today at a meeting of 1,500 cotton textile workers, employés of the Pepperell Manufacturing company of Biddeford, Me., and the York Manufacturing company of Saco. The two cities, heretofore unaffected by the strike, constitute one of Maine's largest textile centers.

"Mill Will Run."

Howard Whitehead, agent of the Pepperell mills, declared he believed that 90 per cent of the company's employés desire to continue work, free of "outside interference."

"The mill will continue to run," he said, "with the greatest possible protection to employés."

Nearly 4,000 other textile workers are on strike in twelve other Maine communities, drawn from ranks of silk, woolen, and cotton employés. National Guardsmen have been on duty in Biddeford for several days, after reports that "flying squadrons" of strikers from other communities were heading in that direction.

Rejects Silk Proposal.

Meanwhile, Francis J. Gorman, national strike leader, rejected a proposal that the strike issues, so far as the silk mills are concerned, be submitted to a public hearing. He proposed, instead, arbitration through the presidential mediation board, headed by Gov. Winant of New Hampshire.

From New York, Peter Van Horn, chairman of the silk code authority, issued a call for a meeting at which he intended to recommend that NRA be petitioned to conduct a public hearing.

Gov. Winant meanwhile disclosed to reporters that his board is preparing a report to the President on its unsuccessful efforts to obtain an agreement for arbitration of the controversy as it affects the entire textile industry. The report will be submitted this week.

Expect Struggle Today.

Gorman said he had been in touch with divisional strike leaders during the day and that they reported everything in "good shape," although a struggle was expected tomorrow in Georgia and other sections of the south as the strike entered its third week.

Asked if he expected "trouble" he replied that there would "be no trouble unless the troops make it." Gov. Talmadge of Georgia, he added, had taken a "definite stand on the side of the employers" since the week's primary brought him renomination.

Gorman tonight declared that he expected more mills to close tomorrow in both south and north.

"Management Weakening."

Commenting on reports of "concessions" made strikers by mill operators in various sections, he said, "We know management is weakening. What we have to do is to hold our lines tight and we shall win this strike. Every mill not now closed must be closed."

Campus Killing of Headmaster Foils Officers

Northfield, Mass., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—City, county and state authorities tonight are engaged in an effort to solve a mystery; a murder so bizarre that it seems almost unsolvable.

They are trying to find why the headmaster of an exclusive school was shot down in cold blood, killed by a shotgun charge fired into his library from the darkness of the outside. They have yet to find any person who would desire his death or any reason why his death should be desired.

The murdered man was the Rev. Elliott Speer, headmaster of the Mount Hermon School for Boys. He is the son of the Rev. Dr. Robert E. Speer, senior secretary of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions. His mother is a former president of the national council of the Y. W. C. A. His wife's parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Welles, are leaders of society in Montclair, N. J., and were present when the murder occurred.

The murder occurred in the headmaster's house of the school, founded years ago by Dwight L. Moody, who, with Sankey the hymnist, was America's leading evangelist of years ago.

Police Have Some Facts.

The police know these facts:

Mr. Speer was killed by a double shot from a twelve gauge shotgun.

The shot was fired from beneath a tree outside the window of his studio. The gun probably rested on the limb of a tree from which hung the swing on which the headmaster's children swung.

The assassin was an expert marksman, proved by the fact that the shot had to be fired into a space less than six inches square.

The murderer probably waited for hours, perhaps for days, until the headmaster had reached a position in which the shot could be fatal.

Motive Is a Mystery.

What the officials do not know includes:

Any possible reason why Prof. Speer should have been killed. No scandal, no hint of trouble was attached to his name.

He had no enemies of any sort, so far as the authorities know.

No weapon has been found which could have been used in firing the shot.

No one knows whether the murder was done by a man or a woman. A maid in the home said she thought she heard a man running down a gravel path. That is the slim clew on which to work.

Joseph T. Bartlett, Franklin county district attorney, tonight summed up in this statement:

Search for Ex-Student.

Informed that a southern student, who was graduated at Mount Hermon four years ago, had nourished grievances against the school and had uttered threats of reprisal, District Attorney Bartlett and Lieut. Albert Dacey of the state police bent all their energies seeking him, only to find a false trail.

The story of this former student, who, according to another student, had listed a series of 21 crimes he intended to commit, has been thoroughly discredited. The young man in question, a scrutiny of the records disclosed, made a brilliant record in his studies at the school. Since then he has established himself as a leader in college activities at Washington and Lee, Lexington, Va.

Police to Check Movements.

Lieutenant of Detectives Albert Dacey this afternoon by telephone established an almost perfect alibi for the youth, who was with friends in Lexington on Saturday morning, whereas the slaying occurred here on Friday night. As a matter of routine the police will check all his movements, but they said tonight that the youth, who spent part of his summer

9:15 p. m.—"America," sung by Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

9:30 p. m. — Address by former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri.

10:15 p. m.—Fireworks display.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A Century of Progress Exposition will devote all its resources today to honoring the constitution of the United States. More than 300,000 are expected to attend the Fair, which will be the center for the middle west of the nation-wide observance of Constitution day.

The Fair is regarded as a particularly fitting place for the celebration because of its dedication to the progress in science, industry, and social rights of the last one hundred years, made possible primarily because of the constitution, the great safeguard of American liberties, which was signed 147 years ago.

200,000 Tickets Already Sold.

Julius Miner, head of the Constitution day committee, announced yesterday that more than 200,000 souvenir tickets have already been sold. Not only has the historic and patriotic significance of the day served to attract the attention of the throngs, expected to break all attendance records, but the privileges of the souvenir ticket itself present an appeal to many thousands.

Admission to the Fair and gate admissions to twenty-two concessions, $6 value, are being sold for $1.

While the day is being observed here the beginning of Constitution week will be celebrated in other cities throughout the country.

One of the most important of these celebrations will be at Philadelphia, where the constitution was born. National Commander Edward Hayes of the American Legion and Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak this afternoon in historic Carpenter's hall to delegates from 30 patriotic and civic organizations. Col. McCormick will speak from 1 to 1:15 p. m. His talk will be heard locally on radio stations WMAQ and WBBM, and will be carried on the loud speaker system at the Fair.

Glenn and Reed to Speak.

Three notables in public life will speak at the Fair during the day and evening. They are Otis F. Glenn, former United States senator from Illinois; James A. Reed, former United States senator from Missouri, and Hanford MacNider, former assistant secretary of war and former national commander of the American Legion.

The formal program opens at 10:30 a. m. in the Illinois Host House with a reception followed by a luncheon for state delegates by Mrs. William Finger, chairman of the Illinois Republican women's committee. The Illinois chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will also center its activities here. The chief speaker at the D. A. R. luncheon will be Thomas J. Norton, talking on "The Basis of Successful Government."

Big Parade at 1:30 P. M.

One of the high lights of the day from the spectators' point of view will be the parade at 1:30 p. m. of army, navy, and marine corps detachments at Camp Roosevelt on the Fair grounds. Among the features at the parade will be the presentations of the American flag, carried by fifty pages, the flags of the forty-eight states, and the banner of the Illinois D. A. R.

The afternoon and evening activities will be in the Court of States. These will begin at 3 p. m. under sponsorship of the Constitution Educational association. There will be parades and music, featuring contingents from Camp Roosevelt, the D. A. R. and the Chicago public schools. Senator Glenn will be the principal speaker. After the speeches a group of New England women will present a program.

Concerts and Folk Dances.

Beginning at 3:30 p. m. will be concerts by the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club, the Cicero Grade School band, and the Byrd Memorial church of South Chicago. Later in the afternoon are concerts by the Wiswell concert band of Midlothian and the Washington Boulevard string ensemble. These ton Boulevard String ensemble. These dances of Scotland, England, Ireland, Czechoslovakia, and Poland.

The evening ceremonies will begin at 6:30 p. m. with a program of Negro spirituals and Norwegian and Italian folk dance and songs and a drill by the Joliet girl corps. This will be followed by the presentation of Jewish folk songs and by the Ha-Lavel Choral society of the Jewish People's institute and a performance by 65 ballet dancers from the same organization.

Schumann-Heink to Sing.

At 8:30 a cast of 75 will present a pageant of Constitution day. Among the tableaux will be the appearance of Miss Liberty, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson. The "Star Spangled Banner," will be sung at 9:15, led by Madame Schumann-Heink. Her voice will be carried over the amplifiers and the crowd throughout the grounds will join in the singing of the anthem.

Senator Reed will speak at 9:30 p. m. and will be followed by Mr. MacNider. The speeches will be broadcast and will also be heard on the Fair loud speakers.

Concluding the celebration will be the Century of Progress fireworks festival, the 17th and final night of this entertainment. A special program, presenting in vivid fire the events in the founding of the American nation, will be staged in the north lagoon at 10:15.

Many Organizations Aid.

Among the coöperating organizations, in addition to the D. A. R. and the Constitution Educational association, are the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Grand Army of the Republic. More than 350 disabled veterans from the Hines hospital will be guests of honor.

Commenting on the importance of the day and week, Mr. Miner said last night that Americans are coming to rely more on the constitution as they become increasingly aware of communistic activities interfering with their domestic life.

"The constitution was intended to save America in grave emergency," he said, "and it has served as marvously well in the past during numerous severe economic depressions."

The Hamilton club will observe the day at a luncheon where Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa will make the principal address. Richard A. Burke, a descendant of James Wilson, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, will be a guest of honor.

With warm weather promised for today, Fair officials are hopeful of breaking all attendance records.

At midnight last night the official attendance was 142,845.

FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT IN DYERS' LOCKOUT

Representatives of the Chicago Cleaners and Dyers' association and of the unions conferred until 3 o'clock this morning at the Stevens hotel, but failed to reach an agreement on prices and wage scales which would put an end to the strike and lockout which has tied up the industry in Chicago.

Meetings will be resumed today. While yesterday's parley was in progress, however, it was learned that two independent chain concerns—the Peacock Cleaners and Dyers and the Abarbanell Brothers, Inc.—had signed contracts with the unions and announced that they would open today.

Frank Harscher, representing Cleaners and Dyers' association, declared that members of his group would not reopen until a price stabilization had been reached.

DIES AT ELEVATED STATION.

William Xanphos, 54 years old, 4549 North Racine avenue, died yesterday when he collapsed from a heart attack while ascending the stairs of the elevated station at Wilson avenue.

THOUSANDS HAIL MIGHTY PAGEANT OF CHICAGO LIFE

Floats Depict History from City's Founding.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"The Drama of Chicago on Parade," as a vast crowd saw it in Soldiers' field last night, was well named. It was dramatic, it was a parade, and, of course, it was about Chicago.

Featured as the grand finale to the city-wide celebration of Homecoming week, it was staged under direction of a citizens' committee headed by Mayor Kelly as chairman and Barnet Hodes as secretary. For weeks it has been in preparation under the direction of Paul Ash and Ben Guy Phillips, the latter of whom wrote the book, general directors; Leo Kopp and Henry W. Woempner, musical directors; George L. Tenny, choral director, and a host of others who have worked hard and to good effect.

Vast Pictorial History.

What it turned out to be was a vast pictorial history of Chicago, a history told in pageantry, processional, scenery, music, lights, and fireworks—of pretty nearly everything of importance that happened from the arrival of Father Marquette and Joliet in the year 1673 to A Century of Progress in 1934.

It was spacious and populous; it was also vivid and scenic. Scenes on floats of the development of the city passed in rapid review across the north end of the field immediately in front of the orchestra and chorus; at times a huge, active, and disciplined throng took possession of the field to add their mass to the enormous stage picture. There were horses and vehicles as well to give point to the age before automobiles, from the covered wagon of the plains to the coach and four of the gay nineties.

Parade of Floats Tomorrow.

And, that the spectacle may be better known in Chicago, Mayor Kelly announced that tomorrow at 10 o'clock there will be a parade leaving Fourteenth Street Court featuring all the historical floats that formed the background of the pageant last night and traveling some forty miles through the south, west, and north sides. As many of the performers as possible also will be present, and will be in costume. It is estimated that it will take the procession 45 minutes to pass a given point.

The performance, conceived as it was on spacious lines, was necessarily leisurely in its progress.

Applause Is Enthusiastic.

Not that this made any difference in the general enjoyment of the spectacle. Even when a fuse blew out in the mixing panel, causing a delay of ten minutes before Fort Dearborn became visible or the audience could be told what was the matter, the applause was good natured. And as the show went on, building up climax after climax, it was enthusiastic, whether for a fine bit of scenic effect, an extra brilliant performance by chorus or orchestra, or a blazing display of fireworks. Incidentally, the pyrotechnic show that illustrated America's entry into the war in 1917 was lavish, even in these days of elaborate fireworks.

The performance began and ended on a modern note. Before the pageant proper got under way there was a drill of the Chicago police drum and bugle corps, and a monster band led in "The Star Spangled Banner" by James G. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians. Then when the history of the piece began to apply to our times, it brought in the American Legion, a modern fire drill, a modern police drill, and a final scene devoted to Chicago's children. This included the awarding of the youth contest trophies, a parade of the nations, and the culmination of all—the coronation of the king and queen of junior citizenship.

Mayor Honors Young Winners.

These young people were Abel Berland, 4702 North Drake avenue, and Dorothy Claypool, 7905 Lowell avenue. They were honored by Mayor Kelly because out of thousands of contestants they were adjudged to excel over all the others in citizenship. In the other classes there were contests in the fine arts, oratory, industrial arts, and physical prowess. This singularly impressive ceremony was followed by a parade of the floats, and "The Drama of Chicago on Parade" was over.

It had told how from a pioneer settlement Chicago had become a great center. It dealt with joys and sorrows, tragedy and rebuilding, commerce, art, music. Most of all, it was an illustration of the spirit of the city, an abstraction made concrete to eye and ear.

In class B, first place was won by Mrs. F. J. Stonek, Cudahy, Wis.; second, Frank Soothill, Chicago, and third, Mrs. M. Weberil, Oconomowoc, Wis. Mrs. Fred Allen won the prize for the best bloom.

The class C winners were Roy H. Coulter, Westville, Ind., first; Henry De Groot, Chicago, second, and Josephine Derse, Oconomowoc, Wis., third. Mr. Coulter won recognition for the most perfect bloom in this class.

In class D, first place was taken by Fred Kirschnick, Glencoe; second, by William Mellenthin, also of Glencoe, and third by A. Eide of Lake Forest. Mr. Mellenthin's exhibit contained the bloom called most perfect by the judges.

In class E sweepstakes winners were Dr. R. S. Milbee, Sullivan, Wis., first; J. F. Stonek, Racine, Wis., second, and the Modern Dahlia gardens, Milwaukee, third. Mr. Stonek won the award for the most perfect bloom.

Mrs. F. W. Banka of Park Ridge won the class F award.

LINDYS REACH CALIFORNIA IN TRIP FROM EAST

Blythe, Cal., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed here late today on their flight from the east to Los Angeles.

They flew from Roswell, N. M., today. They set their plane down at an airport about four miles out of Blythe, however, and chatted for some time at the farmhouse of Axel Olson before they were recognized. The Olsons took them to town and the Lindberghs stopped at a hotel.

They will fly to Los Angeles tomorrow morning, Col. Lindbergh said.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES

SIXTY Lincoln automobile salesmen from all parts of the United States will be guests of the Ford exhibit for three days beginning today.

"Miss Chicago," winner in the World's Fair contest to find the most beautiful girl in Chicago which ended with yesterday's balloting by visitors to the Exposition, will be presented with a season contract with Ziegfeld's Follies during the coronation ceremonies at 4 p. m. tomorrow on the Lagoon theater. The entire cast of the Follies will be present to participate in a two hour program, free to visitors.

Mrs. James Henry Jackson will discuss "famous meals in history and fiction" at 2 o'clock tomorrow when she speaks on "Dining with the Immortals" in the Illinois Host house.

John Randall Dunn of Boston will lecture at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Illinois Host house on Christian Science.

William Jones Smith will be the speaker in the Chicago Woman's club lecture series in the Illinois Host house at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Porter Heaps will preside at the organ on Swift bridge beginning today. He will play four 45 minute programs daily.

A community sing tomorrow night in the Court of States, a Venetian carnival on the Lagoons Wednesday, fire and police department celebrations and a tournament of tenors Thursday and a Celebrity night program on the Lagoon theater Friday will combine to make this week's Carnival of Fun the gayest and most colorful week of the Fair.

Officers and their wives of the 113th Engineers will be entertained tonight at the English club in Merrie England.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing through Saturday, Sept. 22, all persons who appear at the 14th street entrance to the Fair from 6 to 8 p. m. in masked costume will be admitted free. The costumes must be either comic, nationality, or costume of a period prior to 1890. Fifty persons wearing the most striking costumes will be selected throughout the grounds each evening and given a ticket to appear in a final judging of costumes Saturday night on the Lagoon theater.

Five winners of the photographic contest for the best picture taken from A Century of Progress Skyride were awarded prizes last night in the Hall of Photography. Walter J. Pfeiffer, 1447 North Dearborn street, received a silver loving cup as first prize winner; Robert W. Smith, 3831 Rokeby street, and D. G. Dunn, 6924 Cregier avenue, received cameras as winners of the second and third prizes; and fourth and fifth prizes, consisting of photographic supplies, went to Charles Robson, 1634 Granville avenue, and Lockwood Martking Jr., 239 South Cuyler avenue, Oak Park.

ATTENTION

■ To be considered the leading style house in America for gentlemen's clothing, hats and furnishings and to be acknowledged as such by a large group of manufacturers both here and abroad is not purely a matter of chance. This position has been achieved by constant study and travel in important European cities and by observation of fashionable gatherings in New York, Newport and elsewhere, where recognized style leaders are accustomed to congregate.

Finchley Wearables differ from the apparel shown by most of the shops in this country because of the extra effort made to secure exclusiveness and individuality in style. This has been achieved by bringing to this country clothes made by the most fashionable tailors in London, and adapting them to suit the American man. In addition, the woolens used are from the very best mills in Europe.

While some stores carry larger stocks than Finchley the assortments here are wide and of definite interest to discriminating buyers. They embrace the styles that one can depend on and offer a splendid opportunity for a safe and satisfactory selection. The shop itself reflects the best of traditional English architecture and appointments, and the salesmen, both capable and gracious, are extremely anxious to be of service to you.

484,000 PUPILS RE-ENTER PUBLIC SCHOOLS TODAY

New Lane Tech Dedication on Day's Schedule.

The Chicago public schools will open today with an estimated attendance of 484,000 students, an increase of more than 20,000 over last year.

The outlook for the city's educational system is the brightest in five years. The 17,000 teachers and employés of the board of education have been paid in full for the first time since 1931, and are promised regular cash pay checks; five new high schools are being added to the system, including Lane Technical High school, pronounced the finest in the country, to be dedicated this morning.

Three new junior colleges will be opened; 138 principals, demoted in 1933, have been restored to their positions, and nearly 900 teachers have been added to the day and evening school stafs. Nearly 400 iron portable buildings have been eliminated from the system, and repairs have been completed on nearly all the 457 other school buildings. The school library and text book fund has been increased by $470,000, or nearly doubled, to provide adequate supplies of such equipment.

Finds Forecasts Difficult.

Educators predict that there will be an increase of nearly 12,000 in the 333 elementary schools and forty-seven elementary branches, making a total enrollment of 352,000 in the elementary division. An increase of 4,000 is expected in the high school division, to bring the total to 127,000. In addition 4,500 students are expected to enter the three new junior colleges.

"Predictions are difficult," said Supt. William J. Bogan. "The United States census, of course, finds a large increase in Chicago population each ten years, but does not enable us to know what to expect from year to year. The recent PWA census indicates a decline in city population during the last few years.

"We are anticipating increases, however, in both elementary and high schools. Birth rate declines do not appear to equal city growth, and, while sociologists say that improving economic conditions are slowly taking people to the suburbs, I do not believe that the general city population increase has been arrested.

Mayor to Speak at Lane.

"In addition, the depression has revived interest in education, sending more persons to school, especially in the upper grades. The new high schools have added seating capacity, and, with the other improvements ready, we hope to care for all increases satisfactorily."

The dedication of Lane Technical High school, at Addison street and Western avenue, will formally begin the school opening today. The ceremonies will start with the entrance of the 7,000 pupils into the $6,000,000 building at 11:15 o'clock, after a parade on the school grounds.

At 12:30 p. m. there will be a program of addresses at a reviewing stand erected on the grounds. Mayor Kelly, James B. McCahey, president of the board of education; Supt. Bogan, and Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, will speak on the program to be broadcast over W-G-N. Bands and Reserve Officers Training corps units of seven other high schools will participate in the parade of students before the ceremony, and afterward invited guests will attend a luncheon in the Lane dining hall.

Union Row Bars Completion.

Employés under John C. Christensen, school architect, worked yesterday to complete final touches to the Lane building left unfinished by the seventy-five carpenters who went on a strike Wednesday over jurisdictional difficulties.

"The strike was caused by trouble between unions," Mr. Christensen said, "and we will do nothing about it. The building will be opened as planned and will be ready for the pupils despite the walkout.

"The carpenters demanded to lay the mastic tile flooring in the Lane corridors and foyers, despite labor board rulings that it was the work of the cement finishers' union. Christensen adhered to the labor board decision.

The new Steinmetz High school, Barry and Melvina avenues, and the new addition to the Senn High school, 59,000 North Glenwood avenue, will also be opened today. Two other new high schools, Wells and Phillips, will open on Dec. 15.

The three new junior colleges, located in the Chicago Normal college, 6800 Stewart avenue; the Wright school, 3400 North Austin avenue, and the Medill High school, 1326 West 14th place, will open today for 4,500 students. The colleges were added to the school system to replace Crane Junior college, closed last year, and will be operated at less than half the cost of Crane.

The restoration of principals and the addition of new teachers was accomplished last week after the board had reported saving sufficient sums in 1934 operating costs to allot one principal to each school without increasing the budget. Of 1,300 teachers released last year, 900 have returned to the system, replacing those promoted to principalships, adding to the night school staf, and generally increasing the day school faculties.

Appeals to Motorists.

Registration for the evening classes began last week and enrolment totals will be announced on Tuesday, according to Dr. Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent in charge. Dr. Lunak expected the registration to approximate the 37,000 total of last year.

William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, issued yesterday an appeal to all motorists to be especially careful of children on the streets today and henceforth. Last year 143 children were killed and 3,349 injured in traffic accidents.

BARONESS SLAIN BY ELECTRICIAN WHO KILLS SELF

France Sees Tragedy of Hopeless Love.

CAHORS, France, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A tragedy of hopeless love, police disclosed today, has stricken one of France's most aristocratic families in the slaying of Baroness Bertrande de Sevin, daughter of Princess Wagram, by an electrician, who took his own life.

Guy, 7 year old son of the baroness, found his mother dead in her bed yesterday morning, shot through the head. At the foot of the bed the child found Raoul Magnat, 35, who had been employed to install a radio in the château. A pistol was clutched in his hand and there was a bullet wound in his head.

Violette, a 4 year old daughter of the baroness, who shared her mother's room, cried out "Magnat shot mother."

The baroness first met the electrician in a sanitarium founded by her aunt. He was a patient there and she had volunteered as a nurse. Subsequently she put him to work doing odd electrical jobs at the château where he was given a room.

Police expressed the belief he fell in love with the baroness, entered her room during the absence of Baron de Sevin, and slew her when he was repulsed.

Tradition holds that Charlemagne was once a guest at the château D'Aynac, scene of the tragedy.

Rabbi Cecil Levy Plunges 15 Floors to His Death

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Rabbi Cecil Levy, widely known Jewish religious leader, was killed today in a fall from the 15th story of an office building. Friends said he had been despondent because of illness. Rabbi Levy was 65 years old and was shochet for the Jewish congregations here.

PAGEANT TRACES 2,000 YEARS OF GERMAN HISTORY

Crowds Hails Spectacle in Chicago Stadium.

The Chicago Stadium was filled last night by persons of German birth and descent, who gathered there to view a glamorous pageant of the Germanic peoples, given under auspices of the 400 German societies in Chicago as their 32d annual German day celebration.

Given in three acts, with a cast of 700 and a chorus of 3,000 voices, the spectacle portrayed by song, dance, tableau, and gymnastics the progress of Germany in art, culture, and science for the last 2,000 years.

Traces Romantic Progress.

It was a romantic progress, starting at the dawn of North European history, but it was a progress in which sadness mingled with gayety.

The opening scene was a processional of the 25 states of the German reich, rich with color and plangent with music, but following in the path of the personified states, each in its native costume, came two weeping women dressed in widows' weeds—the lost states of Alsace and Lorraine.

Figures of more romance and less sadness, however, were those in the second scene, in which Germany's heroes of all the ages strode up to the platform. Carl the Great was there and Barbarossa, Rudolph of Hapsburg, Maximilian, Frederick the Great, Bismarck, and Moltke, and then, last of all, Von Hindenburg.

Germany's Great in Review.

Later scenes showed the men Germany gave to religion, to literature, philosophy, science, and the fine arts—Boniface in his rough furs, Luther with his Bible, Gutenberg with a printed page, Durer with a painting, Goethe with a poem, and Bach at the head of a long line of illustrious musicians.

Popular response ran to the folk scenes, where walked again the favorites of German myth and fairy tale. Loudly applauded were Brunhilde with her golden hair, the Rhinegold daughters, and the gingerbread house of Hansel and Gretel.

Just as the first act had dealt with the past of Germany, so the second act dealt with her present, and the strides made by her descendants in America. Drills by the Turner organizations, showing the latest development in gymnastic feats, fencing, dancing, and songs by the German choral societies were features of the act. Of particular beauty was the rendition by the choir of "Die Lorelei," sung while the old, old tale was reenacted in a living picture on the stage.

Sing Old Folk Songs.

The closing act was a production called "Old Nuremberg," staged to the music of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg." It represented a market scene and gave opportunity for the singing of many folk songs.

Through it all, however, there was thunderous applause, and a warm hearted audience joined heartily into the singing of every song and clapped vigorously as each phase of German history was recalled. There were many scenes, and all were stirring; but most stirring was the last minute of it all, when the audience rose in a body and sang as one, in strains that filled the Stadium, "Die Wacht am Rhein."

FOUND DYING ON ROAD.

Canton, Ill., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Hugh McGraw, 60, was found dying on the highway four miles east of Canton early today. He died a short time later. He is believed the victim of a hit and run driver.

QUEEN FOR A DAY USES POWER TO FREE 18 PRISONERS

TIJUANA, Mexico, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Queen for a day, petite Lolita Gonzales, 18, who ruled over the Independence day celebration, used her power to free eighteen men from jail.

Like a scene from a story book, the raven haired girl, elected queen of the celebration today, stamped her foot and commanded astounded city officials to open the jail doors.

The men had been taken into custody on minor charges. They drew up a petition for leniency to the queen. The queen called the mayor and commanded the men be turned loose. The mayor scratched his head.

"Well," said he, "I'll have to carry out her command."

So the guards swung open the gates and out walked the eighteen men.

AUSTRIANS COOL TO ITALIANS AT BRENNER PASS

Il Duce Keeps Watch on Key to Lombardy Plains.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRENNER PASS, Italy, Sept. 16.—Premier Mussolini of Italy has withdrawn his troops which were sent here recently to "protect Austrian independence," but there is no relaxation of the tension along this mountainous border between Austria and Italy.

A state of tension and nervousness, easily observable along the frontier between Italy and Austria, contrasts with the conditions at Kufstein and Scharnitz on the border between Austria and Bavaria, only two hours away by train, on the other side.

At Brenner Pass there is curtness, almost surliness, noticeable in the manners of the military and functionaries, which plainly indicates latent hostility between the Austrian Tyrol and the Italians. Customs officers and passport officials go about their business with a brusqueness not found at the other Italian ports of entry. A careful examination is made for forbidden newspapers, and all passports are carefully checked.

Once Austria's Land.

The train stops about half an hour at Brenner Pass, but no one is allowed to get out even for a few minutes to exchange money. Soldiers with fixed bayonets stand guard at the fence which marks the line between Italy and Austria.

The atmosphere of uneasiness throughout this region comes from the fact that this part of what is now Italy is the former Austrian South Tyrol, which Italy got as war spoils in order to have a more strategic frontier, and, while it is ruled by Italians, it is as Austrian today as it was sixteen years ago.

The defense of this border is the chief problem of Italy's general staf, and Premier Mussolini in repeated speeches has intimated that war would come on this frontier. Excellent roads have been constructed through the whole region in recent years, and the border fortifications have been perfected. It was through this pass that invaders from the north reached the plains of Lombardy for centuries.

Scorn Italian "Guarantee."

In Innsbruck Italian unpopularity is even more noticeable. Tyrolese will openly say that they do not want the Italians to come in to "guarantee" their independence. Speaking at the celebration of the 125th anniversary of the Tyrol's winning its independence from the French at Innsbruck recently, Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg said that Austria didn't want to lose its independence from the south side any more than from the north.

On the other hand, sympathy here for the Nazis and Germany is generally universal and undisguised. Swastikas are painted on fences and houses and are in evidence everywhere in and about Innsbruck. The Tyrol long has been considered a Nazi stronghold and the enemy of the heimwehr [Austrian Fascist] movement.

As evidence of the widespread German and Nazi sympathy among all classes, it is pointed out that within a few days an Innsbruck tribunal will try a large group of most important citizens for high treason and complicity in the assassination of Chief of Police Franz Hickl on July 25. [Friederich Wurnig was hanged Aug. 1 for the murder of Hickl]. His killing was to have been the signal for a Nazi uprising. Those to be tried include an attorney, Drnz; two senior police officials and the Rev. Ludwig Mahnert, Evangelical pastor in Innsbruck.

"Freedom a Myth."

One person of importance in Innsbruck said:

"Italian support, as everyone knows, keeps up the present crazy structure of a state in Austria. Austrian independence is a myth and a mockery. The country is nothing but an Italian colony, and has been nothing but a center of disturbance since it became so. If the democratic people of the west are interested in the peace of Europe they should coöperate in restoring the rights of the Austrian people and so remove the seeds of military complications."

At Bolzano, or Bozen, as the Germans called it, in South Tyrol, a visit shows that while the region has been Italianized, it has remained intensely German. German is spoken everywhere and there are signs in German in the churches and public places. Groups of children seen in the streets were observed to be talking in German, although they must learn Italian at school. By contrast with Innsbruck, Bolzano has taken on a gaudier, more raucous air since Italian occupation.

On Jugo-Slav Border.

Another region on which the Italians are now centering their attention is between Marburg and Varazdin, on the border between Croatia and Austria, where about 2,000 pan-German or Nazi refugees are encamped, with the tolerance of the Jugo-Slavs.

Italian propaganda, newly organized as a governmental department, with an undersecretary of state at its head, is active in spreading rumors about these Austrians, who fled from their country after the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

Britain Hears Germany Has Powerful New Bombing Plane

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Unmindful of sensational revelations at Washington concerning the European armaments situation, nations in this quarter of the globe continue to intensify their national defense programs.

Testimony before the United States senate's investigators concerning Germany's alleged rearmament in defiance of the Versailles treaty was considered here little likely to occasion surprise in diplomatic quarters in London and Berlin.

Even Great Britain, staunch advocate of the cause of disarmament, recently approved an increase of 41 squadrons in the Royal Air force, and Acting Premier Stanley Baldwin not so long ago told the house of commons Britain henceforth must think of the Rhine as her frontier.

Germany's New Bomber.

A section of the British press these last few days has been presenting in sensational fashion developments in German aviation, particularly as concerns an alleged new type of transport plane which can be converted quickly into a bomber.

This ship, London newspapers report, can carry 1,000 pounds of bombs, will fly 250 miles an hour, and has a cruising range of 1,000 miles. It can be manufactured by mass production methods, they assert, at low cost.

Authoritative quarters in London said today little comment regarding the revelations as to Germany's air plans can be expected from Berlin, because two foreign correspondents who recently delved too deeply into this field of news have been banned from the country.

Military Reports Banned.

Diplomatic circles in Berlin know well that correspondents may cable detailed reports of such distasteful news events as Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's "blood purge" of June 30, but the moment they approach military questions they are on dangerous ground.

Foreign observers reaching London from Berlin say it is common talk in that capital that Germany is working intensively to perfect her air technique. Should trouble occur with foreign nations, these observers assert, German authorities consider they are in position to give a good account in the air.

Political circles here expect the Washington inquiry will have its British aftermath when parliament reconvenes late in October. Sensational public hearings such as those at Washington are not anticipated, however, because implications affecting foreign governments probably would create more delicate and complicated situations for Downing street than the inquiry has created for Secretary Hull and the American state department.

ARCHDUKE OTTO MADE AN HONORARY CITIZEN OF CITY IN AUSTRIA

EISENSTADT, Austria, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Archduke Otto, Hapsburg pretender to the Austrian throne, today was made an honorary citizen of this capital of Bergenland. A diploma conferring the citizenship was presented to the Archduke Eugene—the only representative of the exiled Hapsburgs thus far allowed to return to Austria.

[Dispatches from Brussels Friday said former Empress Zita, with Otto and the others of her eight children, was preparing to return to Austria. They would reside in that country as private citizens, the Brussels report said.]

Addresses at today's ceremony emphasized that Eisenstadt was the first important city to follow the example of the more than 300 villages that have thus honored the claimant to the throne.

"This is a turning point in the history of Austria," one speaker told the jubilant gathering.

A national leader of the legitimists, however, was not so optimistic.

"I see no possibility of Otto's return within a year," he said.

Enthusiasm of the orators was hardly shared by the city's population which for the most part remained away from the celebration.

Philippine Police Arrest Japanese Forced Ashore

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 17.—[Monday]—(AP)—Forced ashore by a storm, the crews of two Japanese motorboats were seized today by members of the Philippine constabulary and held on charges of illegal entry. The incident occurred at Laoag, in Ilocos Norte province, said constabulary reports reaching here. Officials intended to send the 21 prisoners to Manila.

SENATORS PRESS ARMS INQUIRY ON SECRET DEALS

Seek More Data About German Actions.

Washington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—In the face of increasing protests against what they already have disclosed, senate munitions investigators today said they will stuff the record full of information in a hurry for fear outside pressure might clamp down the lid.

The committee members expect tomorrow to add to revelations concerning shipments of war materials into Germany, despite the Versailles treaty.

Indicates Secret Arming.

Evidence already put into the committee records quotes munitions salesmen as reporting that Germany has been busy preparing land and sea war equipment.

Now the committee, in summoning leading American aviation company officials, hopes to deal with reports that Germany secretly has assembled a large air fleet, in violation of the Versailles treaty.

The committee will question, concerning foreign business, Donald L. Brown, president, and C. W. Deeds, treasurer, of the Pratt & Whitney company, and Francis H. Love, president of the United Export company, of the United Aircraft and Transport company.

Previous questioning has drawn out statements that the Curtiss-Wright Export corporation met some of its stiffest competition in Europe from the United corporation.

Franco-German Scare.

An indication of why the French government purchased a quantity of half finished and reportedly worthless guns in Holland in 1932 through a "war scare" against Germany in the French press was told in another report laid before the committee.

K. K. V. Casey, du Pont's retail sales manager, said: "It turned out that this whole French newspaper row was originated by Vlessing & Haegen [armament firm] in order to sell this stock. It was a vast publicity farce which the French newspapers fell for due to their desire for anti-German news."

UNION OFFICIAL DIES OF WOUNDS; EX-CLERK HELD

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—William Schneider, union labor leader, died today from bullet wounds suffered Thursday night. He was shot by an assailant who broke into a conference between truck drivers and employers in an east side meeting room.

After Schneider's death a charge of felonious assault against Sam Tratner, 21, of New York, an unemployed clerk, was changed to one of homicide. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

Schneider was president of Local 138, International Union of Teamsters, Truckmen, Chauffeurs and Helpers.

JOBLESS 12 YEARS, KILLS SELF.

TOOTS OF HORNS DISAPPEAR FROM BRITAIN'S NIGHT

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 17 [Monday].—Hardly a single toot of a motor horn could be heard in any city, town, or village of Britain after 11:30 o'clock last night.

At that hour every built up area in the country became a silent zone by order of Maj. Leslie Hore-Belisha, minister of transport. The regulation applies to all districts with lamp posts less than 200 yards apart and is effective through the night hours until 7 a. m.

"Remember to be silent for the sake of the sick and weary," Hore-Belisha said in a last minute appeal to motorists. "It is as easy to put your foot on the brake as your hand on the horn."

The success of the new system will depend on the coöperation of motorists, he explained, and there will be no attempt to impose fines on noisy drivers. The experiment has been in operation in London for the past three weeks.

TORRENTIAL RAIN FLOODS CAPITAL; BREAKS RECORD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Another torrential storm today added 2.03 inches to the new all-time record of September rainfall in the capital, which tonight stood at 13.42 inches as against a previous "high" of 10.81 inches, recorded for September, 1876.

House Topples Into Ocean.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 16.—(AP)—High tides and heavy ground swells which have torn relentlessly at southern California beaches recently, inflicting heavy damage, were in evidence today at West Newport beach, where a house was toppled into the surf and dashed to pieces.

Other homes in the area were endangered as the waves continued to pound at pilings and foundations. Fourteen cottages have been moved away from the beach in this area.

Frost in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Iowa experienced frost in several areas last night as a cool wave of below normal temperatures visited the state.

GERMANS TOLD THEY WILL NOT SUFFER HUNGER

Winter Relief Plans Under Way, Goebbels Says.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—"No German shall go hungry, no German shall freeze, and no German shall be in want during the coming winter."

This promise was made today by Dr. Joseph Paul Goebbels, minister of propaganda, in an address to 30,000 Storm Troopers assembled at the Templehof airdrome. He assured his audience that plans for winter relief were occupying the attention of Nazi authorities.

The propaganda minister took occasion to again remind the Germans "to bear hardships with Spartan patriotism."

Switching to politics, Goebbels shouted that the 4,000,000 Germans who voted their disapproval of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's assumption of presidential powers at the August plebiscite must be won over to the Nazi cause, "with love and patience."

Bars "Force and Terror."

"We will not compel them to join us through force and terror," he said. "We know there are some whom we never can hope to win over. These few never could be fitted into any social organization of the nation. But we will win the remainder through the example of our actions and through the effects of our achievements. This task is dedicated to you."

Other Sunday rallies included that of the reich union of former war prisoners. The session was held at Muelhausen. Baron von Lersner, president of the organization, declared that the "world is fighting against us with all its means." Touching upon what he called "the difficulties of Germans abroad," the baron said:

"Just like prisoners of war, the groups of Germans throughout the world now gaze steadfastly toward the fatherland. Every failure at home is a blow for the Germans abroad. Every achievement in reconstruction holds out new hopes for them."

Catholic Leaders Assailed.

Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi philosophic dictator and director of Weltanschauung [World Outloook], vigorously attacked former Catholic Centrist leaders. Speaking at Muenster, Rosenberg accused them of using pulpits as political platforms, now that they are deprived of speaking in the reichstag.

"If all the events leading up to the 1918 revolution were investigated," he said, "I believe that not only communists and Marxist conspirators would be found involved, but a number of Centrist leaders as well."

Congregation Defies Nazis.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Sept. 16.—A bitter demonstration against the Nazi church government flared in Munich today. The demonstration started after Bishop Hans Meisser of Bavaria, recent target of Nazi attacks, discussed the Protestant church conflict in a sermon at St. Matthew's church.

A resolution of protest against the dismissal of Bishop Theophil Wurm of Wuerttemberg was read to the congregation. The resolution, which was adopted by Bavarian pastors, also protested the Nazi attacks against Bishop Meisser.

(Meisser, last dignitary of the Protestant church to oppose Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller and his Nazi church dictatorship, was called a Judas and a traitor to Chancellor Hitler on Friday by the South German Federation of Evangelical Christians, a Nazi body. The federation demanded his immediate removal.)

After the resolution was read the congregation rose to their feet and marched from the church into the streets singing Martin Luther's battle song, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our Lord." The demonstrators paraded to the residence of Bishop Meisser, who addressed them from a window. He thanked the Protestants for their support.

"Hold fast, come what may," he admonished the crowd.

Two police squads arrived within a few minutes and with obvious reluctance dispersed the demonstrators. A group of demonstrators proceeded to the Brown house, Nazi headquarters, where they continued to sing.

WRITER BACK IN PULPIT

Life Just Big Movie

Life is just one big motion picture, the Rev. Henry Scott Rubel, radio scenarist and clergyman, told his former parishioners at St. Michael and All Angels Episcopal church in Berwyn in a homecoming sermon yesterday.

"In Hollywood they create their heroes and make them glamorous, but real heroes are not always that way," he said. "More often they are the unsung heroes of the household who drudge through life without realizing they have made a moving picture that is eternal and immortal."

Dr. Rubel, a former rector of St. Michael and All Angels' church, now is pastor of a mission at Highlands, N. J., but writes continuities for radio stars on the side. He conducted three services yesterday—a celebration of the holy communion at 7:30, baptism at 10, and morning service at 11. With his wife and sister-in-law, the former Deuell Sisters of Broadway dancing fame, he will leave today for their home in Highland, N. J.

GERMANS OFFER TO SIGN PACT OF NONAGGRESSION

Submit New Proposal to Secure Peace.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associat Press.]

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—Germany will not sign the proposed eastern security agreement—the so-called "eastern Locarno"—because she refuses to risk having French and Russian armies treading the soil of the fatherland.

Nevertheless, Germany would be willing to accept an eastern agreement embodying the ideas "of collective nonaggression obligations and consultation between interested powers in periods of political crisis."

That, in brief, is what the reich told the world's powers in reply to their recommendation that she sign the French sponsored "eastern Locarno," it was learned today.

World Peace at Stake.

Delegates to the league of nations assembly here described the Berlin government's position as vitally important to the world peace at this moment when the political lineup of the whole world stands to be modified, they said, by Russia's election to the league, expected to take place Wednesday.

[Moscow yesterday received and accepted an invitation, signed by more than 30 league members, to join the international organization. The assembly this week will go through the formality of ratifying Russia's admission and will approve, as well, her election to permanent place on the league council.

In refusing to join Russia, Czechoslovakia and the Baltic states in the proposed "eastern Locarno," Berlin rejected the basic feature of the pact as drafted at Paris—the proposal that all signatories unite to lend military assistance to any signatory attacked.

Germany "does not wish altogether to reject the idea of multilateral pacts," her reply to the powers said.

Germans Propose "Other Methods."

An earnest suggestion was added to the effect that if other governments wish to pursue this idea, "stress be laid not on an agreement for immediate military assistance in case of war but rather on other methods of securing peace."

German circles here said the reich prefers an agreement for consultation with submission of conflicts to peace tribunals without commitments to extend immediate military assistance.

Statesmen here predicted that Russia's election to the league would be followed immediately by resumption of active negotiations for an "eastern Locarno." They regarded the German reply, while shattering France's dream of a powerful military pact, as not excluding the possibility of some security agreement.

The Berlin communication, it is understood, is in the hands of the governments at Washington and Tokio, as well as those of the great powers of Europe, Spain, and all proposed signatories of the pact.

After rejecting the treaty as drawn, the Nazi government said:

"Germany does not wish to evade joint examination of the question whether—and what—new guarantees of security can be created for Europe."

Suggests Bilateral Accords.

Asserting that the best results might be achieved through bilateral accords and voicing willingness, nevertheless, to consider some multilateral pact, the reply suggested nonaggression obligations and intergovernmental consultation as means of preserving peace.

"These ideas," the reply continued, "might be developed along various lines so that real guarantees for peace would be created. Other possibilities need not be excluded. They would have to be considered only from the viewpoint that the best guarantee of peace will ever be not to prepare for war against war but to extend and strengthen the means apt to prevent any possibility of outbreak of war."

The German government's reply revealed that under the draft of the eastern Locarno pact transmitted by the British government, Germany, Poland, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania would be signatories.

Would Lend Armed Aid.

In any crisis these countries would jointly consult and in the event of an attack by one party against another they would lend immediate military assistance to the victim.

This eight-power treaty was to be supplemented, under the original draft, by an additional treaty between France and Russia whereby Russia, like France and Italy, would become guarantor of the existing western Locarno agreement which safeguards the peace of the Rhine.

France, furthermore, would be considered as a signatory of the eight-power pact, in so far as Germany and Russia were concerned, and would participate in consultations among the eight powers.

Calls Proposal Uncalled For.

This additional agreement, the German reply asserted, is uncalled for, commenting:

"Whatever may be the idea of the other powers with regard to the part to be played by France and Russia, Germany can not see how she might gain thereby. Even if the additional treaty were so drawn that guarantees given by France and Russia were to act equally in favor of Germany, this would only constitute formal equality.

"The German government cannot consider it a practical reality that Germany one day should be defended in her own territory by soviet Russian troops against an attack from the west, or by French troops against an attack from the east."

JUBILANT THRONG AT TRAIN GREETS COL. ROOSEVELT

Speaker Denounces Wild Spending of New Deal.

the backbone of the country, the small businesses."

The AAA, the panacea for agriculture, Col. Roosevelt believes, is based upon the theory that the way to restore prosperity is by destroying wealth. "Under it," he said, "crops are plowed up, animals are slaughtered, and men paid for letting their land lie idle."

The son of the first President Roosevelt is opposed to the PWA program because, "It has wasted billions of dollars."

Debauchery of Maine.

"Armies of government employés have been created," he declared. "More than 100,000 have been given federal government positions. These positions have been filled by a strict spoils system. The civil service has been debased and broken down. The merit system for which we have struggled for generations has been prostituted by Mr. Farley, who is trying to Tammanyize the entire United States."

Col. Roosevelt charged flatly that "the money spent in Maine [before last week's election] was spent to buy the electorate and it did. That money was raised in large measure by government loans and those loans will have to be paid by our children."

Col. Roosevelt proposed a program of a "constructive nature." Its first tenet was a drastic curtailment of governmental borrowing, which he described as "merely paying ourselves at the expense of our children."

A Constructive Program.

He further insisted that the country should demand:

1. Rigid economy in our national government by abandonment of the NRA and the AAA; the discharge of the 100,000 "political appointees" of the present administration.

2. Cutting down of the public works program to "such projects as are demonstrably valuable as a medium of production or are vital necessities."

3. Care for the unemployed with these specific recommendations: (a) Extension, expansion, and reorganization of the CCC camps; (b) a restricted public works program; (c) "Direct cash aid with a means test to prevent those who can get work and won't take it and those who have other means of support from continuing on government bounty."

For Sound Money.

Col. Roosevelt declared such a program would be possible under existing basic laws and would cost, according to the best authorities he has been able to consult, not more than 50 per cent of the present outlay.

As a further recommendation for the conduct of a sound government, Col. Roosevelt declared that we "must stop monkeying with our monetary system so that the rank and file of our citizens will know where they stand."

In closing Col. Roosevelt asserted gravely that "our form of democratic government is the best ever devised by man, in spite of its acknowledged failings.

"We should therefore strive to correct the failings within the scheme of government and not deliberately set out to destroy it as the Tugwells, Frankfurters, and so forth in Washington are doing. Liberty for every individual, no matter how humble, is essential for the development of the people, and for progress, both morally and spiritually."

After Col. Roosevelt, C. Wayland Brooks, a leader in the youth movement, and Republican nominee for congressman at large, urged the Young Republicans to "put their shoulders to the wheel" at the November elections.

"The party needs young men as it never did before," he said. "We inherited a government, like none other in the world, and the New Dealers are trying to change it."

At business sessions earlier in the day, the Young Republicans merged into one coherent society the fifty organizations which they represented. They pledged allegiance to the Constitution of the United States and adopted a platform which denounced New Deal policies and stressed the fundamental character of personal liberty.

Stand By Constitution.

"We stress the adherence to a system of government liberal in its conception of the need and requirements of the people," the platform declares, "yet demanding that we retain the constitutional blessing of liberty through a rule of laws rather than a domination by men. America will tolerate neither the abuses of the past nor the regimentation of the present. We, therefore, propose the elimination of useless bureaus and departments that sap the vitality of industry and commerce and deprive citizens of their freedom under the guise of protection.

"Unless we heed this challenge and make the Republican party crusaders for the liberties guaranteed by the constitution, we lose for many years to come that freedom insured to us and to our posterity."

The Society's Officers.

The following officers were elected: President, Evan Howell of Springfield; vice presidents, William Erickson of Evanston, Heine Engleson of Moline, Oscar S. De Priest of Chicago, son of the only Negro congressman, and Noble Johnson of Paxton; secretary, Howard West of Chicago: treasurer, George R. Murphy of West Chicago, and financial secretary, Bernard McDebitt of Chicago.

2 POLISH PILOTS WIN EUROPEAN FLYING CONTEST

German Touches Finish Line Third.

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Two Polish aviators swooped in at the head of 18 finishing participants in the fourth international air challenge for sporting planes today, winning the race for Poland a second consecutive time.

Capt. Jerzi Bajan and Stanislaus Plonczynski, both flying Polish planes with Polish Skoda motors, finished first and second after the final speed tests today. Hans Seidemann of Germany touched the finish line third.

The winners were greeted with scenes of wild enthusiasm. The challenge is one of the most important sporting events of Europe. Poland and Germany each are now credited with two victories, with an equal chance for permanent possession of the trophy in 1936.

Thirty-one planes started from Warsaw Aug. 28, covering 5,900 miles, with 27 landings in nine countries. They passed through Berlin, Koenigsberg, Cologne, Brussels, Paris, Bordeaux, Pau, Madrid, Seville, Casablanca, Mekkes, Sidi-Belabbes, Algiers, Biskra, Tunis, Palermo, Naples, Rome, Rimini, Zagreb, Vienna, Brno, Prague, Katowice, Lwow, Vilna, and Warsaw.

Technical tests demonstrating construction of the machines and ability of the flyers played an important rôle this year in grading the contestants. The start, the landing, maximum and minimum speeds, fuel consumption all were taken into account in the final ratings.

France, Italy, Austria, and Great Britain were represented in the race, although the latter country was represented on the Polish team.

MEET TOMORROW TO FILL RAINEY'S PLACE ON BALLOT

Jacksonville, Ill., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Chairmen of ten county Democratic organizations will meet at Carrollton on Tuesday to name a successor to the ballot place made vacant by the death of Henry T. Rainey after his renomination from the 20th congressional district.

Those who appear to lead for nomination at the convention are: Scott Lucas of Havana and William N. Hairgrove of Jacksonville. There are others, however, who have the backing of their counties as favorite sons. They are: Judge C. C. Worthy of Hardin, Calhoun county; Judge C. Funk of Winchester, Scott county; Walter I. Manny of Mount Sterling, Brown county; Albert M. J. Dolan of Jersey county.

The county chairmen who will constitute the convention are:

Brown county, Edward Teefey; Calhoun county, Paul R. Durr; Cass county, Frank H. Trussell; Green county, Charles P. Casey, Jersey county, Fred D. Peters; Mason county, John Pemberton; Menard county, Harry Hofing; Morgan county, Warren E. Brockhouse; Pike county, W. R. Donohoo; Scott county, John M. Woodall.

There is some talk that persons other than the chairmen will be permitted to place names before the convention.

MRS. LORETTA MOLONEY,
6026 NICKERSON AVENUE,
CHICAGO . . . .

$68.48 WAS THE GAS BILL FOR ONLY 3 MONTHS IN THE SPRING

"We have a six room brick bungalow with storm windows, weather stripping and a Celotex insulated attic."

The frank letter of Mrs. Moloney

"We have burned coke in our furnace for the past ten years and have always found it highly satisfactory. The latter part of last winter, however, Mr. Moloney . . . decided to give gas heat a trial. On February 20th . . . arrangements were made for the Gas Company to install gas heat.

"If you will refer back to the temperatures in Chicago around Washington's birthday of last winter you will find it was zero weather. For one week we were simply frozen to death . . . turning the thermostat up to 80 and 85 degrees did no good whatsoever. The heat just wasn't there. . . .

"I had to wear galoshes most of the day if I wanted to do any work in the kitchen. Our front room, the living room, was practically untenantable and it had formerly been so cozy . . . Heavy clothes were the order of the day and night, not to mention a sweater or two. The dependable washing machine (in the cold basement) refused to run and I blew six fuses attempting to make it run . . . the basement was so cold that even with coats on the children were uncomfortable down there. With the coke fire it had been nice and warm. . . .

"Last August Mr. Moloney filled up our coal bin with coke, paying $85.00 for it, which amount of coke lasted until February 20th, giving us approximately six months of warmth and comfort.

"Our total gas bill from February 20th to May 22nd, a three month period in which there were many warm days, was $59.48 ($9 burner rental made total $68.48) . . . so you can see that gas heat cost us better than twice as much as our coke did!"

Sincerely yours,

(Mrs.) Loretta Moloney

$85.00 HEATED THIS HOUSE WITH COKE FOR 6 MONTHS THROUGH THE WINTER

● If someone tried to sell you something for twice its price—you would refuse with emphasis!

It's the same way with heat that you buy this winter. Don't be misled by statements that encourage you to "try" gas heat! Let the experience of other homeowners serve as an example. If others, like Mrs. Moloney, have found that gas doubles their fuel bills, can you afford to make a change this winter?

When you buy coal or coke you know beforehand what the bill will be. And if you order from a member of this Association you will be sure of honest weight, careful grading and uniform quality! Phone now and order a bin full of economical solid fuel!

Start That Nest Egg With the Money Coal Heat Saves

Order your winter's coal or coke supply today. Then take the $50 to $200 you're saving over gas or oil heat and open up a savings account. And on the next rainy day you can smile—richly, wisely.

FINDS JAPANESE HAVE FAILED TO AID MANCHUKUO

Peace and Order Still Missing, Report Says.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—The Japanese adventure in Manchuria has failed to produce peace and order within the borders of Manchukuo after more than two years of effort, according to a report of the Foreign Policy association, made public here today.

The report was prepared by Ben Dorfman, a former technical adviser to the commission of the league of nations, which conducted an inquiry on Manchukuo.

Dorfman's report comes to the conclusion that "it is extremely doubtful that Manchuria today enjoys as great a measure of peace and order as prevailed immediately prior to Sept. 18, 1931."

Reviews Economic Field.

"In the economic sphere," it continued, "Japan has been attempting to fashion the new state's economy so that it will enhance Japan's military strength and complement its industrial requirements. According to many competent observers, however, Japan has greatly overestimated the importance of Manchuria's resources and market.

"To carry out its economic program, moreover, Japan has been obliged to spend and invest enormous sums of money in Manchuria's railroad and industrial enterprises.

"Much of the investment is no doubt justified on economic grounds, but a large fraction is not. Certain of the railroads and industries, for example, primarily serve strategic rather than economic ends. It is doubtful that all of these latter can function except at a loss. The number of economically unsound enterprises which Japan can compel Manchukuo to support is definitly limited."

If Japan exceeds these limits, the report said, Manchukuo will remain a permanent burden.

Calls Investments Unsound.

"Many competent observers, moreover, entertain grave doubts that a country in Japan's present financial predicament can afford to invest such enormous amounts of money in enterprises which, even though economically sound, cannot pay for themselves in decades," the report added.

"Whether Japan has paid and is paying too high a price for the additional military security which control of Manchukuo allegedly provides, however, is a question which Japan must answer for itself."

In a discussion of the controversy over the proposed sale of the Chinese Eastern Railway by Soviet Russia to Japan, the report said:

"Japan refuses to answer for Manchukuo's arrests of soviet railway employés on the score than Manchukuo, being an independent state, can answer for itself.

Cost of Fighting Bandits High.

"Both Manchukuo and Japan have been obliged to spend considerable energy and money in fighting Manchurian 'bandits.' Disorder and lawlessness probably reached their all-time height in Manchuria during and following the Sungari flood of 1932.

"Japan and Manchukuo have consistently attempted to minimize the extent of the disorder in Manchuria. The Chinese, on the other hand, have usually overstated it. The fact is that Japan has had to undertake several thousand punitive expeditions against bandits since seizing Manchuria in 1931."

TURKEY FREES 'KING' MIHAILOFF, BULGARIAN REBEL

ISTANBUL, Sept. 16.—(AP)—"King" Ivan Mihailoff, noted Macedonian revolutionist who arrived yesterday with his wife after fleeing across the Bulgarian border, was liberated by Turkish authorities today after a night in a police station.

"I am unable to state whether we shall remain in Turkey," he said, "but within 72 hours we will communicate our plans to the Turkish authorities."

It was believed they would try to leave for safer territory as soon as possible owing to fears that political foes would attempt their assassination.

Mihailoff's enemies accuse him of responsibility for 3,500 assassinations in the last twelve years. The new Bulgarian military dictatorship, established last May after a coup d'état, feared Mihailoff's Macedonian followers would make trouble, but the fact that the "king" was driven from the country was taken here to indicate that the régime is firmly in control of autonomy-seeking rebels in the Macedonian territory.

Robbed of $3,240 He Kept Hidden in His Apartment

James Camelloupis of 5445 South Ashland avenue reported to police last night that a burglar had broken into his apartment and stolen $3,240 in currency and clothing valued at $200. Camelloupis, owner of a hat renovating shop on the first floor of the building, said that the thief had gained entrance by breaking open a lock on the pantry window.

FRENCH MAYORS DEMAND RELIEF FOR UNEMPLOYED

Threaten to Organize Hunger Marches.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The mayors of the thirteen towns in the Rhone department today demanded government action to cope with the increasingly acute unemployment situation. They threatened personally to lead a hunger march of all the unemployed in their cities on Oct. 1 if they do not get action.

The city executives declared that if mass demonstrations fail to bring relief measures they will resign in a body.

The mayors, whose cities were hard hit by the collapse of the silk industry, declared they no longer can deal with unemployment through local treasuries without reducing their communities to financial ruin.

Their combined plea brings the Paris government further evidence that the depression is being felt tardily, but strongly, in the provinces. It follows various manifestations in recent weeks of the pinch of unemployment and growing distress in French industry and agriculture.

Complaining that none of the measures they have so far suggested have been undertaken, the mayors demand a twofold solution:

First—A shifting of the entire burden of the dole for the unemployed from local agencies to the nation as a whole.

Second—The inauguration of a vast public works program by the central government.

In short, they want to be relieved of all responsibility for the problem.

Local relief measures, it is stated, have already made the financial situation of their communes so intolerable that the mayors have refused to continue augmenting the tax burden on citizens who still have jobs, especially in view of the fact that unemployment is growing daily.

SEES DEMOCRATS HERE VICTORS IN CONGRESS RACE

Chairman Nash of the Democratic country central committee predicted yesterday that Democrats would be elected to every congressional seat from the ten districts in the metropolitan area.

"We can foresee no other result than the reelection of six Democrats and the retirement of four Republican congressmen," he said.

Perhaps in recognition of the popularity of Congressman Fred A. Britten, a considerable part of Nash's statement was devoted to predicting Britten's defeat by former Congressman James A. McAndrews.

"Britten has the fight of his life on his hands, and certain defeat staring him in the face," the Democratic leader declared.

SOUTHERN MILLS MAP AN ATTEMPT TO BREAK STRIKE

Plan Reopening Today with Troop Backing.

recent violence, spent a peaceful Sunday, while President Roosevelt at Newport received the state's governor, Theodore F. Green, for a personal conference to obtain reports of the situation.

Reports that the Sayles Finishing company plant at Saylesville, R. I., would reopen tomorrow morning were denied by Harold P. Rena, mill superintendent.

New England Quiet.

Other sections of New England were quiet throughout the day. At Lowell, Mass., union leaders said mass picketing is planned for tomorrow. Six mills have been closed for a week there. Two mills, in North Chelmsford and Chelmsford Center, are expected to reopen.

At Salem, Mass., a union organizer addressed a meeting of workers in the Pequot mills, urging that they walk out tomorrow. Thus far only about 90 of the 2,500 employés of this mill have joined the strike.

Approximately 300 textile operatives in the Elm mills at Tilton, N. H., are expected to return to their jobs tomorrow morning. Their return, it was understood, is being sanctioned by the U. T. W.

Threatens to Quit Union Post.

A relatively quiet Sunday, except for the mobilizing of troops, was reported throughout Georgia. After a dynamiting in Burlington, Sonny Davis, president of the local union there, threatened to resign and take his followers back to work if outbreaks continued.

Van Horn's NRA hearing proposal was received by union officials still angry at Johnson's charge Friday night that the strike had been called in violation of an agreement between himself and the president of the United Textile Workers, Thomas McMahon. McMahon and Gorman vehemently denied the assertion, and charged that Johnson himself had violated the agreement and had definitly allied himself with employers. They demanded that he resign.

Offers Alternative.

In New York today, Van Horn said that as an alternative to a public hearing he would recommend asking NRA to give the silk textile industry complete exemption from labor provisions of the textile code pending a settlemnt of the strike.

"I shall point out to the members of the code authority that Mr. Gorman and his associates in rejecting our offer to submit our differences to a legal public hearing are repudiating the President of the United States and the machinery he has set up under the National Industrial Recovery act," Van Horn said.

Gorman termed the original Van Horn offer of a public hearing a "trial balloon," and added "it is hereby rejected flatly and unconditionally."

"Not only that, but we will not join in submitting any issue to NRA as long as Johnson is administrator or occupies a position of determining influence in the recovery administration."

10 SEIZED AFTER RIOT

Russellville, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Ten men were under arrest tonight on charges growing out of disorders that broke up an attempted labor organization meeting here today. One of the organizers reported in Birmingham he was fired on as he drove out of town.

Those arrested included Ed Bostick, foreman of a cotton mill here. All except one posted $300 bond and were released.

Ike Robinton, organizer for the American Federation of Labor, said 25 shots were fired at his automobile as he and J. W. Goins, president of the Alamaba council, United Textile Workers of America, drove out of town. Robinton said he was warned that if he returned his life would be in danger.

NEW JOHNSON DEMAND

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The resignation of Hugh S. Johnson as NRA administrator was demanded today by heads of 35 labor organizations of Philadelphia and vicinity. Johnson was condemned for his charges that United Textile Workers' officials had broken an agreement in calling the nation-wide strike.

Strike leaders planned a renewed campaign of picketing as the strike enters its third week tomorrow. Mass pickets are to be concentrated upon mills in Pennsylvania still operating, they said.

Special efforts will be made to close the large Aberfoyle mill at Chester. At suburban Clifton Heights 25 deputies have been ordered to guard the Clifton Yarn mills.

GEORGIA GUARDS READY

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Equipped with full supplies of gas and ammunition, additional troops marched into textile areas of Georgia today. All infantry and special units of the National Guard remained under orders to mobilize tomorrow at the hour many of the state's cotton mills are scheduled to open.

While the troop movement was under way police at Macon announced the arrest of J. Ralph Gay, identified as an organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, on three charges, including one violating the rioting law.

Six Companies Ordered Out.

Six infantry companies composed of 400 officers and men were ordered out during the day, augmenting three companies which moved into strike sectors over the week-end.

TWO MEN SLAIN IN MINE BATTLE; ASK FOR MILITIA

Others Wounded in Clash in Southern Field.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Shooting that broke out in the Porter coal mining camp in northwest Jefferson county today as a column of between 2,000 and 3,000 miners marched into it, resulted in the death of two Negroes and the wounding of several men.

Several hours later the situation remained tense with more than 1,500 men in groups in the area as officers under the direction of Sherif James F. Hawkins sought to disperse them.

A request had been made for National Guardsmen to take over patrol of the area until order had been restored, but at a late hour no troops, mobilized in the armory here, had moved into the section.

Two versions of the shooting in which H. C. Collins of Flat Creek and Ed Cook of Pawhatan were killed had been given Sherif Hawkins.

The story of members of the marching group was that they were fired on without warning as they reached the edge of Porter mine village, where a statewide rally of members of the United Mine Workers of America was to be held.

Two deputy sherifs, however, told Sherif Hawkins they opened fire when members of the marching column broke ranks and entered Negro homes, dragging out the occupants and beating them.

The deputies also gave the sherif several pistols they said were taken from members of the marching group before they reached the mine village.

Arkansan Arrested Here on Charge of Bigamy

John Harder, 20 years old, formerly of Fort Smith, Ark., was held at the detective bureau yesterday on a bigamy charge. On April 30, last year, Harder married Miss Lucille Speaker in their home town. A year later, it is charged, Harder went on to St. Louis, where he met Miss Josephine Baker, 19 years old. Last Tuesday they married, came to Chicago, and rented an apartment at 5702 Patterson avenue. Miss Baker's father learned of Harder's previous marriage recently and obtained a warant. Arrested yesterday, Harder agreed to waive extradition.

STATE NRA ACT GETS FIRST TEST IN COURT TODAY

The first legal action to test the validity of the state NRA enforcement act will be heard this morning by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court. It is a petition for a temporary injuction to restrain a watch repairer from violating the code of fair comptition of the rtail jewelry trade.

The petition was filed Saturday on behalf of Charles F. Braumrucker, chairman of the Chicago district code authority of the jewelry trade, against Joseph Weiss, owner of the Master Watch and Jewelry Repair company, which operates five shops in the city. Baumrucker is a jeweler at 31 North State street.

The petition alleged Weiss has violated the code by advertising and offering to repair watches and clocks at a uniform price of 60 cents, regardless of costs. The code prohibits advertising of either a minimum or maximum price. Weiss said enforcement of the code would ruin his business because he cannot attract trade except by his low charges.

TENNIS CHAMPION. "Not only does the mellow flavor appeal to my taste, but I actually feel a 'lift' from a Camel," says Ellsworth Vines, Jr., Pasadena athlete. "Camels have a refreshing way of bringing my energy up to a higher level. They seem to restore my 'pep' and take away that tired feeling. And I know I can smoke all I want for Camels don't interfere with my nerves."

HOUSEWIFE. Mrs. Charles Daly: "My recipe for renewing energy is to smoke a Camel when tired."

ANIMAL COLLECTOR. Frank ("Bring 'Em Back Alive") Buck: "I can smoke Camels all I want because they don't upset my nerves."

ENGINEER. Jack Ford says: "Engineers like Camels. They help increase energy when worn out."

SALESMAN. E. W. Davis says: "I'm a salesman, and when tired a Camel revives my energy."

PHONE OPERATOR in New York's Beaux Arts Apartments, Marion Erickson says: "Camels freshen up my energy. They are the mildest cigarette I know."

GOLF CHAMPION. Gene Sarazen, twice winner of the United States Open: "I smoke Camels, too. They always taste good—and never interfere with my nerves."

MOTOR-BOAT RACER. Mrs. Florence Burnham says: "After a hard race, I enjoy a Camel. They're milder. And I notice a quick 'pick up' in energy."

THEY ALL get a lift with a Camel!

Men and women in every walk of life report that smoking a Camel offers an immediate and enjoyable way to defeat fatigue and irritability.

It is an important fact to all that Camels do "turn on" one's natural energy. You have doubtless observed this in others . . . in yourself, if you are a Camel smoker. It is a wholesome and natural "energizing effect," fully confirmed by scientific research.

You'll also find in Camels: mildness . . . delicacy of flavor . . . costlier tobaccos!

Smoke as many as you want! Camels never get on your nerves.

TOBACCO MEN ALL KNOW: "Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any otherpopularbrand."

SPORTSMAN. Rex Beach says: "A Camel quickly gives me a sense of renewed energy. As a steady smoker I have also learned that Camels do not interfere with healthy nerves."

FLYER. Roscoe Turner says: "I watch my nerves as carefully as I do my plane. That's why I smoke Camels."

BRIDGE EXPERT. Shepard Barclay: "I prefer Camels. I can smoke them steadily without jangled nerves."

AUTO RACER. "Bill" Cummings: "When I'm 'all in,' Camels give me a 'lift.'"

SIGHTSEER. Carl Johnson says: "I always smoke a Camel when I feel 'low' to bring back my energy."

SECRETARY. Says Elizabeth Harben: . . . "Camels don't make my nerves jumpy."

STAR PITCHER. Guy Bush says: "After nine hard innings, there's nothing that lifts up my energy the way a Camel does. I feel freshened up in no time at all."

DEEP-SEA DIVER. Frank Crilley says: "Camels never upset my nervous system."

FISHERMAN. Arthur Neu says: "I smoke Camels steadily without 'nerves.'"

OLYMPIC DIVER. Miss Georgia Coleman: "When I'm tired and need a 'lift' I smoke a Camel. Soon I feel my real self again. They are the mildest cigarette!"

GOLFER. Miss Helen Hicks says: "A Camel always quickly restores my energy."

SPEED DEMON. "After a championship speed-boat race," says Bill Horn, "I 'break out' my pack of Camels quickly, and in no time at all I get a 'lift' in energy. It's a swell feeling."

SCIENTIST TELLS OF HEREDITY KEY, BIG CHROMOSOME

Demonstration Is Made in Eastern Laboratory.

Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The living equivalent for heredity of the rosetta stone—a visible key to the thousands of heredity seeds known to exist in every body—is on demonstration here at the station for experimental evolution.

Discovery of this heredity key which promises to explain the mysteries of evolution much as the rosetta stone did the Egyptian hieroglyphs was described by Dr. Calvin B. Bridges, of the Carnegie institution of Washington. He has been an associate of Dr. Thomas Hunt Morgan, throughout the researches on heredity which recently won Dr. Morgan the Nobel prize.

Among geneticists and cytologists the results reported on here are said to be one of the most magnificent steps in the last decade in advancement of the knowledge concerning the relation between hereditary units. The "genes," and the structure of the "chromosomes," on which they are strung in long rows.

Genes Are Very Small.

Genes are so small that until the finding of this "rosetta stone" one has never been seen clearly. A few scientists have thought they discerned evidence of individual genes. Although this was in doubt, the existence of the mysterious things was clearly demonstrated.

They control development of such bodily characteristics as color of hair or eyes in human beings, or a mental trait or the predisposition to a certain disease.

The modern "rosetta stone" is a giant chromosome, so large that the spots occupied by the separate genes along its length are thought to be identifiable. Actually a number of these spots have been proven to be separate genes, and it is expected that the whole gene "necklace" of heredity will be found the same as these first few.

Dot Under Microscope.

The previously known ordinary chromosomes of the yeast fly with which this work was done are extraordinarily small. The largest is only 15 hundred thousandths of an inch long. It is only a dot under an excellent microscope. Yet it is composed of long strings of genes.

The giant chromosome is seventy times larger than ordinary. It is found in the cells of the yeast fly's salivary glands. Fully fifty years ago scientists knew that these salivary cells were different, with some parts greatly enlarged. But they were not examined critically until about four years ago by Heitz in Germany.

Last year Dr. Painter at the University of Texas studied the structure of these giant chromosomes. Upon them, somewhat like stripes around a stick of candy, were "cross striations."

HOSPITAL FOR QUINTUPLETS IS OPENED

Babies Recovering

CALLANDER, Ont., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets, 111 days old, are all going to get well, their doctor said today. The five little sisters all gained weight and showed improvement from an attack of intestinal toxemia which had laid them so low last week that Dr. A. R. Dafoe was frankly worried, especially about Cecile. He said he felt "much encouraged" about their condition tonight and looked for complete recovery within a week.

BOLIVIANS BEGIN HEAVY OFFENSIVE ON PARAGUAYANS

Struggle for Carandayty, Wire Center.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Bolivian forces in the Carandayty sector of the Chaco boreal today attacked Paraguayan positions after intense artillery bombardment, the defense ministry announced this evening, but were repulsed with heavy losses.

The new Bolivian offensive brought the renewal of heavy fighting in the vicinity of the important communications center of Carandayty, the defense ministry's communique said.

The Ingavi and upper Paraguayan sectors, where fighting was sharp last week, were reported quiet, but with the approach of the rainy season renewed activity along all fronts was expected.

7,500 MEN LOST IN ACTION.

The war ministry at La Paz last week claimed Paraguayan forces, advancing on Bolivia's communications centers and supply bases in the vicinity of Carandayty, had been outflanked and decisively defeated, losing 7,500 men in the action.

Almost immediately Paraguayans launched attacks at Fort Ballivian, major Bolivian stronghold, and in other sectors of the Chaco, giving rise to the belief that Gen. José Estigarribia, Paraguayan commander in chief, was seeking to distract the enemy from following up its success at Carandayty.

League Seeks Peace.

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A special consultative committee to seek peace in the Chaco boreal will be appointed soon, Latin America members of the league assembly's political commission handling the conflict predicted today.

The consultative committee, it was stated, will strive to obtain settlement of the dispute by conciliation. This failing, arbitration will be tried as was recommended in the report of the league's Chaco investigating commission.

Members of the political commission, which last week heard José Maria Cantilo, Argentine delegate, declare the latest tripower peace efforts "have not yet succeeded," said they were anxious to know just wherein the plan had failed. Some said they anticipated great difficulties in achieving results during the present assembly.

AUTOISTS SHOOT PEDESTRIAN.

Police yesterday sought the autoists who shot Joseph Gladstone, 35 years old, colored, 4036 South State street, in the ankle, as he stood at State and 42d streets.

MOBILIZATION IS STAGED BY 15,000 FRENCH RESERVES

VITRY-LE-FRANCOIS, France, Sept. 16.—(AP)—In the first "rehersal of war mobilization" since the armistice, 15,000 reservists, called from civil occupations, today fought mock battles on the Champagne battlefields. The reservists were commanded in the maneuvers by their own officers and used their own equipment, as in wartime.

For two weeks the special "forty-first" division will be put through rigorous tests, designed to determine how well they remembered their conscript service training.

After reviewing military tactics, the reservists on the last four days will face an army of regular troops in mock conflict.

EMERSON'S
BROMO-SELTZER
FOR
NEURALGIA

No wonder Bromo-Seltzer relieves headaches before you know it! Five different medicinal ingredients all work together. One relieves pain—quickly. Thanks to another, you are relaxed and quietly soothed. If you have gas on the stomach, Bromo-Seltzer relieves that, too. And its citric salts are promptly absorbed as alkali by the blood. They counteract acid-accumulation and increase your alkaline reserve. You feel freshened.

Every time you take Bromo-Seltzer these benefits are available. How much better it is than a single-ingredient that merely kills pain. Bromo-Seltzer is the balanced relief—quicker, more pleasant and more effective. Sold in 5 handy sizes. Contains no narcotics, doesn't upset the stomach and is dependable. CAMPUS KILLING OF HEADMASTER FOILS OFFICERS vacation in Northfield, is no longer to be listed as even a possible suspect.

Fail to Find Motive for Bizarre Crime.

Mr. Speer was shot at 8:25 o'clock Friday evening by an assailant who used a twelve gauge shotgun, which was fired from a point close to the window on the lawn just to the north of the spacious Georgian home. The head master, who returned last Monday with his family from his summer home on a small island in Lake Temagami, Ontario, had spent the day as usual, in his office at the administration building.

Ready for Registration.

With school opening Wednesday, and Monday registration day for the new boys, there were many problems to be solved and plans for the new year to be worked out. Mr. Speer since his return from his vacation had been accustomed to plan the next day's work and brief his plan in a notebook.

He was in his study on the first floor in the northeast corner of the house after dinner, notebook in hand, when the assassin came with noiseless steps across the lawn on the north of the house, rested his gun on the low hanging limb of a large maple close beside the swing Mr. Speer had put up for his three little girls, and then fired the shot. The buckshot slugs tore through two window panes and struck Mr. Speer in the right arm and chest, one finding his heart.

Investigators were agreed that the person who fired the fatal shot was a marksman of no mean ability. The shot, fired in the inky blackness of a cloudy night, was sped from an angle and about ten feet from the window. Officials conjectured the slayer had lain in wait for his quarry, possibly for many nights. It was necessary for him to wait until his target had arisen from his chair behind his desk in a corner of the study before he could get a clear shot.

Speer apparently had stood up, reached for a book on one of the many shelves that line the walls of the room, and, as he turned, met the blast from which he died about 20 minutes later. A book was found on the floor near the desk.

In the middle of the window hung a book of old prints, a thick book which probably would have deflected the slugs. The gunner, shooting from an angle, was forced to place his shot between the book and the corner of the sill, a space of only a few inches.

Wife in Bedroom.

Mrs. Speer was in a bedroom directly above the study when the blast rent the night. She ran to the top of the staircase and called "What's the matter?"

"I don't know," answered her husband as he staggered out into the hallway. As she came to him he asked her to place a tourniquet on his arm, which was bleeding profusely; four of the pellets had lodged in his arm and one, the fatal one, in his breast.

When the state police arrived at the scene, they found Speer lying on the floor at the foot of the staircase and Mrs. Speer sitting on the lower step, gazing dazedly into the face of her dead husband.

Forest Back of Home.

Not a hundred feet back of the home the forest begins and extends for hundreds of acres, reaching almost to the Connecticut river highway from Canada to southern New England and New York. On the north it is bounded by route 10, the cross state route joining the north and south highway to the lakes and mountains of New Hampshire.

Police, with the help of faculty members and boys here for pre-term work, hunted through the campus and the woods closest to the 1,200 acre campus. Then in turn they questioned each of the 35 boys and their teachers. They looked over the two 12 gauge shotguns owned by teachers and found they had not been used for days, and they broadcast the alarm throughout the east.

The tragedy, coming as it did on the eve of the return of 500 boys to their studies, was not allowed to interfere with the work of the school. Mrs. Speer controled her grief and continued to carry on her duties.

Dean Thomas E. Elder sent out wires to trustees and alumni all over the country and they responded at once, leaving their various pursuits to rally to the aid of the school. Some of them reached here the morning after the murder and others arrived today. This morning Wilfred W. Fry of Philadelphia, president of N. W. Ayer & Sons, Inc., called a meeting of the board of trustees at the Northfield inn and eight out of seventeen were present.

The majority held the belief that it was the work of a maniac. The trustees selected a committee composed of members of the faculty to carry on the functions of the headmaster's office.

Family in Seclusion.

The trustees and members of the family remained secluded today. With Mrs. Speer were the three children, Caroline, 12; Eleanor, 10, and Margot, 4. With them were the dead man's father and mother.

Townspeople attended the memorial service to Dr. Speer today and among them were members of the Moody family, including Dr. Paul Moody, president of Middlebury college and a son of Dwight L. Moody; Mrs. W. L. Moody of Northfield, whose husband was succeeded by Mr. Speer as president of the Northfield schools, the parent administration organization of the two schools.

Outside the house, standing on the lawn were students and friends. At the close of the service the boys departed quickly to their tasks. Mount Hermon boys, be they rich or poor, work at least two hours a day toward their support at the school. As the trustees left, several criticized what they considered a reflection on the school. One said, "The term [problem boys] doesn't fit Mount Hermon boys. This is no reform school."

Trustee Hits Bitterness.

One member of the board declared that too much had been made of the "bitterness" of supporters of school at the modern methods instituted by Mr. Speer when he became headmaster two years ago.

"There was feeling. There were those who loved the old ways," he said, "but that has all passed. The alumni, both young and old, are loyal to the school and were enthusiastic over the progress since Mr. Speer joined us."

Among the innovations which by the students at least, was received with acclaim, was interscholastic sports. Mount Hermon has a good gymnasium and swimming pool and ten football teams took the field annually, but the sports were intramural. Last year Mr. Speer planned and carried through schedules of contests with other schools. Other restrictions were lifted.

Tonight Mr. Speer's body was taken from the undertaking establishment where it has been since the night of the murder and placed aboard a train. The members of his family took the same train for New York and Englewood, N. J., where he will be buried.

The death of Mr. Speer brought to a close the career of one of the youngest headmasters in the country. Born at Englewood, N. J., Nov. 1, 1898, he prepared for college at Phillips academy and Andover, whence he was graduated in 1916. He went to Princeton and received his degree in 1920. Following graduation he studied theology both here and in Edinborough.

His first service in the ministry was as pastor of Bethlehem chapel in New York. His college career was broken by war service with the Y. M. C. A. overseas. After a year's study abroad he became head of the Bible department at Lafayette. In March, 1921, he married Miss Charlotte Rose Welles of Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Raises Endowment Fund.

After five years at Lafayette he came to Northfield. His first important work was to start a drive for a new $3,000,000 endowment fund. This he carried through successfully, although the depression intervened to make the task more difficult.

PROFIT INSURANCE IN THE 3-TON RANGE

THIS NEW GENERAL MOTORS TRUCK

AT ONLY $925 CHASSIS f. o. b. PONTIAC

Are the loads you're called upon to haul in the 3-ton range? If so, you'll want to know more about the new General Motors 3-ton truck.

To begin with, its price is exceptionally low—only $925 (chassis f. o. b. Pontiac). But that's only part of the story. In its ability to do more work, and save or earn more money, it's a downright value if there ever was one. There isn't an ounce of untried material in its rugged makeup. Nor a single untried engineering principle in its modern design. In short, it's a General Motors "engineered for the job" truck with the power, the stamina and the economy that thousands of experienced truck owners have come to expect from any truck bearing the GMC nameplate.

See this 3-ton truck or any one of the many other General Motors trucks or tractors from 1½ to 22 tons. There's one to fit your needs exactly. And there are facts to prove that it will be a more profitable investment.

MARINA ARRIVES IN ENGLAND AS THRONG CHEERS

Will Plan for Wedding to Prince George.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 16.—London turned out in full force today to welcome Princess Marina of Greece, who is visiting in England for the first time as the fiancée of Prince George, fourth son of King George and Queen Mary of England.

At Balmoral castle in Scotland the engaged couple and their parents will plan details of the wedding which is to take place probably early in the winter.

It was a warm, sunny afternoon, and hours before the train bearing the princess and her parents, Prince Nicolas and Princess Helene of Greece, was due to arrive the crowds began to gather at Victoria station.

The crowd became so dense that extra police had to be called out to keep trafic moving. When the train arrived there was a deafening roar of cheering as Prince George, dressed in a smart morning suit and silk hat, hurried forward from the royal waiting room to greet the princess.

George Hesitates.

Immediately after the train stopped Marina stepped out, looking flushed and excited. There was one embarrassing moment when the prince, nervous and shy, didn't seem to know what to do.

With a couple of huge arc lights turned on him, and the movie cameras grinding away, cameras clicking and thousands of people watching every movement the prince wasn't quite certain whether to kiss his fiancée, shake hands or what. Princess Marina decided the question, for she kissed the prince herself and then shook hands, giving him a playful little push.

Amid roars of cheering the pair were escorted to a waiting automobile where a little Greek girl was waiting to present the princess a huge bouquet of roses. The child was completely hidden behind a mob of officials and just as the automobile was moving off the child held out the roses appealingly. The princess noticed her, called to the driver to stop and accepted the gift, thanking the child in English.

Police Clear Path.

The automobile then proceeded through the dense, cheering mob to York house. Here mounted police had to drive horses into the crowd to clear a passage for the automobile.

For nearly an hour the crowd stood outside the house yelling: "We want the princess." Finally a window of York house was opened and Prince George and Princess Marina appeared and waved to the assembly. The princess wore a russet brown dress with a toque to match, and two pearl necklaces, which were gifts of the prince.

While this was going on another huge crowd began to assemble at King's Cross station, ready to give the royal couple a sendoff on their journey to Scotland. Tonight the royal lovers, accompanied by the princess' mother and father, boarded the express for Scotland. Tomorrow they will be received at Balmoral castle by King George and Queen Mary.

GATES HEIRESS 'HAPPIEST GIRL'; TELLS OF PLANS

Hands Cash Over to Chauffeur Husband.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Dan McCafferty, the former Virginia Ewing Gates, 22, daughter of the wealthy Dr. Thomas Gates of Philadelphia, prepared today for a career in married life with her wrestler-mechanic husband whom she met on a western hitch hiking tour.

Miss Gates disappeared Aug. 14 from a dude ranch near Pinedale, Wyo. She was found yesterday in Boise after a wide search in which department of justice agents took part. With her was her new husband, a former El Centro, Cal., taxicab driver, wrestler, and mechanic.

Guests of Police Chief.

Police Chief Tom Cribbins found the couple here. They were guests in his home last night. Cribbins said they told him they met here three weeks ago.

Asked by reporters if her husband was a "good provider," Mrs McCafferty replied smilingly, "You bet he is." The couple said they were married in Moscow, Idaho.

McCafferty, 26, dark of complexion, curly haired, and Irish, said: "We just met and started talking to each other," referring to the beginning of their romance.

"Happiest Girl In the World."

"I'm the happiest girl in the world," Mrs. McCafferty said. "I don't want to go back to Philadelphia. Danny and I are going to make our home in California."

Asked what business he planned to enter, after he had been reminded his wife's father, president of the University of Pennsylvania, told Cribbins by telephone that he would send them a monthly allowance, McCafferty said, "We haven't decided yet."

While the couple sat talking with newspapermen, a telegraph money order for $250 was received from her father. Mrs. McCafferty handed it to her husband. After looking at it, he remarked, "well, we are not broke any more."

McCafferty said he was "born just out of Chicago," but left home to "go on his own" several years before his father died.

HUNT 2 SLAYERS OF 'WRONG MAN'; THIRD IS DYING

The Kensington police were searching yesterday for two of the three slayers of Joseph Adduci, while the third man, Sam Bruno, who was critically wounded after the murder, refused to disclose his companions' identities. Bruno, who is 32 years old and lives at 1871 Sheffield avenue, is in the Bridewell hospital, where physicians said he has little chance for recovery.

Adduci, who was 45 years old and was an employé of the city water pipe extension department for 15 years, was shot to death Saturday by the three gunmen as he was being shaved in a barber shop at 11857 South Michigan avenue. Because Adduci resembled Paul Filomen, owner of the shop and president of the South Side Barbers' association, the police believe he may have been the victim of mistaken identity. Filomen, who was not in the shop during the shooting, was held for questioning.

Bruno was wounded by Policeman Russell Richards of the detective bureau bomb squad who saw the killers fleeing from the barber shop. Funeral services for Adduci will be held tomorrow at St. Anthony's Catholic church. Burial will be at the Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

SUNDAY CROWDS VIEW HULK OF MORRO CASTLE

Ward Line Agents Seek Bodies in Vain.

Asbury Park, N. J., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—While a Sunday crowd of several hundred thousand swarmed to the beach front today to view the hulk of the Morro Castle, representatives of the Ward line continued their inspection of the craft. Returning to shore, they expressed the opinion that no further remains of passengers or crew would be found aboard.

The Ward line agents boarded the ship via a breeches buoy. Marine Superintendent T. J. Torresson said nothing new had been disclosed during the tour.

Seek Floating Bodies.

Coast guards continued to scan the seas in the hope that on the eighth day after the disaster the waters would begin to give up bodies of the dead. No trace of the two forward port lifeboats of the Morro Castle, which apparently had been lowered away, had been found by coast guards or persons. Witnesses have told of one lifeboat being capsized while being lowered.

Attention was centered on the missing lifeboats as the federal steamboat inspection service started an inquiry to determine whether the air tanks on the vessel's life boats were rusted and so defective that the necessary buoyancy would not be provided.

State troopers and members of the American Legion assisted in directing trafic and city police officers declared the flow of trafic to be in excess of last week-end.

While Ward line officials are seeking to determine what steps to take for future disposal of the hulk, lying at the northeast end of the convention hall, city officials also are seeking some definite word. Dr. Max Silverstein, a member of the city council, said at the next meeting of council he will request that the city manager be instructed to get a definite promise from Ward line officials for steps to remove the beached ship.

ASSAILS SHIP'S OFFICERS.

HAVANA, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—A severe criticism of officers of the ill-fater Morro Castle and the belief that the fire was set by communists were voiced today by J. Gonzalez, assistant general manager of the United Fruit company.

The body of Gonzalez's son Roberto, a victim of the fire, was returned today.

"From private investigations I am convinced the fire was planned by Reds," Gonzalez declared. "Coupled with cowardice radicalism, and incompetency on the part of most officers and sailors of the Morro Castle, the disaster brought to light not only the peril to world-wide shipping from an international sabotage ring but also the negligence of ship's officers who bore a reputation they did not deserve."

Tonight six detectives rode out with the pilot and boarded the Dollar liner President Cleveland. The detectives quizzed Capt. Robert E. Carey.

TRAVEL 12,000 MILES FOR DAY IN LONDON

RAILROADS MUST REPORT LIQUOR CARLOADS TODAY

A new regulation of the Illinois department of finance requiring common carriers to report shipments of alcoholic liquors in the state will go in effect today, according to J. M. Braude, associate director of the department.

All carload liquor shipments to Illinois consignees must be reported within 15 days. Such reports must state date of shipment, number of each car, name and address of shipper and consignee, Mr. Braude said.

The regulation also provides that common carriers must furnish any information asked by the department about particular shipments of liquor in the state and on request of the department must report all shipments consigned to specific areas in Illinois.

MORRO CASTLE SURVIVOR HERE TELLS OF FIRE

Thirty-two members of the Morro Castle's crew who escaped in a lifeboat while passengers remained aboard thought they were leaving a deserted ship, according to Benjamin Mazur, a deck steward on the burned liner, who arrived here from the east last night.

Mazur, who is 28 years old, will visit his sister, Mrs. Mary Pollack, 5306 Ellis avenue, for several days. Interviewed last night, Mazur defended the ship's officers.

"There were 32 of us on the top deck, including Acting Captain William S. Warms, Acting Second Officer Clarence Hackney, and Chief Engineer Ebben Abbott," Mazur said. "The flames on the port side were being blown over us by a heavy wind. We stood it until we were all but afire. Abbott was half unconscious from smoke. Capt. Warms ordered us into the No. 1 lifeboat, the last to leave according to ship's regulations, and we understood the ship was empty of all except our group. We did not know until the boat was lowered that there were passengers on the lower deck."

HOLD TWO IN ROBBERY.

Walter Sywalvinski, 17 years old, 2618 Potomac avenue, and Joseph Scapinato, 17 years old, 2718 Crystal street, were held by Summerdale police yesterday on a charge of stealing $60 from Joseph Rinkes, a grocer at 2407 Ardmore avenue.

IF you have the idea that desirable apartments are still plentiful, investigate! New construction has been practically at a standstill for five years, and what was once a surplus of apartments is fast becoming a shortage. ●This means, if you are going to move this fall, that you need to act quickly and to go about your search in a systematic manner. The early birds will get the pick of the market this season. You won't be able to depend on a casual search. ●Your best assurance that you will get the apartment you want is to read and check the offers in the Apartments-to-Rent columns of the Tribune want ad section. It is a simple matter to make up a list of the apartments which appeal to you. Then at your convenience you can inspect them. Thousands of women do this every year because they know it is the best way to get the kind of an apartment they want.

CHINA STRUGGLES WITH TURKEY FOR SEAT IN LEAGUE

Assembly to Elect Council Members Today.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—Before going through the formality of admitting soviet Russia to the league of nations the league assembly will hold its annual elections tomorrow, and in this matter another problem has arisen.

It is this: Shall China, which has been a nonpermanent member of the council for the last three years, be reëlected for another term during which far eastern questions are certain to occupy the league a great deal? There is a question about it because Turkey wants China's seat and has substantial backing for getting it.

Three Seats to Be Filled.

There are three nonpermanent seats in the council, each good for three years, to be filled this year. The retiring incumbents are Spain, Panama and China. Panama is definitly going out, to be replaced by Chile in accordance with a gentleman's agreement of long standing by which one Latin-American nation shall always have one of the nonpermanent council seats.

For the other two seats there are three candidates. Spain and China were seeking reëlection, and Turkey is applying for the first time. League traditions are against reëlections because this would come to mean that the same nations would continuously dominate the council.

For this reason the nation seeking reëlection must first establish its eligibility by a two-thirds vote of the assembly in its favor. Spain, strange to say, in spite of the importance of far eastern developments in which China's voice should be heard, is more sure of obtaining the requisite two-thirds than China. Spain will have eighteen Latin-American votes besides those of her European backers.

France Backs Turkey.

Turkey, therefore, is more or less a candidate for the seat that is now China's. She has the backing of France and the little entente. China's claims are supported by Great Britain and the British dominions, which see in Turkey's candidacy a possible vote for any Russian project and some possible embarrassment should the question of remilitarizing the Dardanelles arise.

But whether China will succeed in obtaining the requisite two-thirds' vote to establish her claim to eligibility is by no means certain. The Chinese themselves believe they can muster sufficient votes, but the positions of several of the little nations are doubtful.

May Reach Compromise.

Should China fail of reëlection some provision will have to be made for retaining her voice in far eastern affairs. A project has been broached for giving her a special seat in the council's far eastern committee for that purpose. She is in it now as a member of the council. Some compromise of this sort seems likely.

HOLDUP VICTIM'S BROTHERS BEAT SLAYER SUSPECT

Two brothers of a man slain in a grocery robbery last February beat his alleged slayer when the latter was identified at a showup at the detective bureau yesterday. Mrs. Marie Matson, their sister, owner of a grocery at 5010 Ferdinand street, where her brother, Jack Vanders, 1836 North Halsted street, was shot and killed, pointed out as the slayer Ralph Denning, 2810 Flournoy street. She had previously identified Albert Schwalge, 23 years old, 5007 Erie street, as his accomplice, at a showup last Friday.

Denning and Schwalge were led into an anteroom, where Mrs. Matson completed her identification. When she said she was certain Denning was the killer, her brothers, Edward and James, who had accompanied her, seized the prisoner and beat him severely. His cries brought four policemen, who rescued Denning.

James Marsh, 2430 Arthington street, was held with the others, after Schwalge had named him as the driver of the car.

Youths in Stolen Auto Get Drunk and Are Locked Up

Two youthful automobile theft suspects were seized by Willow Springs county highway police last night after the stolen car in which they were riding sidewiped another machine, then crashed into a gasoline filling station and barbecue stand at Brainard avenue and Joliet road, Willow Springs. The two are William Pratt, 25 years old, of 2939 Bratiot street, Detroit, and Martin O'Rourke, 20 years old, of 127 North Ogden avenue. Both were intoxicated when arrested, according to police.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

Lespedeza a Success.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

September 16, 1934.

TWO annual varieties of lespedeza, Harbin and Korean, made a good showing in the test plots at THE TRIBUNE Experimental farm this season. The two perennial varieties, Sericea Nos. 04730 and 12087, did not make satisfactory crops.

The search will be continued for top notch legumes that will produce good forage and also aid in preventing soil erosion and build up the fertility of the land where the soil is too acid for the successful growing of alfalfa or clover. All four varieties of lespedeza will be planted again next year with the hope that weather conditions will be more favorable for their development.

Today the ground is covered with a bright green, thick carpet of the Korean lespedeza plants four to seven inches high in the test plots. But in a seventeen acre field, seeded last spring at the rate of fifteen pounds to the acre, the stand is extremely thin; the plants are about ten feet apart. This poor stand was due mainly to the dry weather. Next year the rate of seeding will be increased to insure a thicker stand.

So far the Korean seed has not matured in the test plots. This variety is rated high among farmers as a hay crop. It has less protein and more carbohydrates than alfalfa.

The Harbin lespedeza is somewhat rare. In THE TRIBUNE test it has not spread over the ground as much as Korean. Harbin plants already have produced a good crop of seed. The plants are of a darker green than Korean and are about the same height. The blossoms began opening about Aug. 10, while Korean blossoms have not yet appeared. Korean is gaining favor as a supplemental pasture crop. Since it is an annual, like soy beans, it dies each year and must be started again from seed. This variety is being tried out in Indiana.

Sericea seed did not germinate until about the middle of July, about two months after it was planted. Today the plants are only three or four inches tall and stand eighteen inches apart in the row. The crop will not be harvested, but left in the field to see if the plants will live over winter in the open. The plants in the test plot may be too weak to withstand the winter.

Since Sericea is a perennial, like alfalfa, the roots must live through the winter to provide a stand for the next season. Men experienced with Sericea say that the plants produce seed, but the seed will not grow unless scarified. Scratching the seed coat encourages more rapid germination. In practice farmers depend upon the roots living over winter to carry the crop from one season to the next. Farmers who plan to try this crop should start with a small acreage until it is more clearly demonstrated that Sericea lespedeza will thrive this far north.

Sericea is a new southern lespedeza. Few have tried it this far north. If it thrives and lives over winter it may give to farmers in this part of the country a good hay and pasture crop. It grows on an acid soil. Experts recommend planting the crop in rows, using about two pounds of seed to the acre or, if it is broadcast, five pounds to the acre.

UNLOADS MAIL TRUCK; $33,900 THEFT REVEALED

Rochester, Ind., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—A $33,900 registered mail theft so perfectly executed that its discovery less than a half hour after its occurrence netted not even the remotest clew, was revealed here tonight with the arrival of postal inspectors from Cincinnati. The loot consists of $2,500 in Liberty bond coupons and $31,400 in Liberty bonds.

A postal clerk, as is the daily custom, placed two bags of mail last night in the vestibule of the postoffice here for collection a short time later by James Copeland, veteran carrier. One of the bags was marked for an eastbound Erie train and the other, which contained the bonds, was designated for the westbound train to Chicago, where the bonds were to be delivered to the federal reserve bank.

Copeland arrived at the postoffice shortly before 8 o'clock. He loaded one bag into the unprotected trailer attached to his automobile and went back for the second sack. When he arrived at the station the westbound bag was missing. He notified Postmaster Harley Golman and the men went back over the trail to the postoffice. On the parkway there they discovered the westbound sack, empty. All of its contents, save the packet containing the bonds, were found scattered about the postoffice lawn.

FIVE ARRESTED IN HIJACKING OF LIQUOR TRUCK

Five men were in custody at the Chicago avenue police station last night, charged with having hijacked a truck carrying fifty-six cases of whisky in front of 1031 North Franklin street on last Friday. They were taken into custody after police, acting on secret information, raided the home of Anthony Beretta, 1365 Sedgwick street, and found 45 cases of the missing whisky.

In addition to Beretta, those arrested were Mike Gilarti, 864 Milton avenue; Ignatius Oliver, 415 Sigel street; Frank Piozenzo, 1146 Townsend street, and Sam Liscianillo, 826 Milton avenue. Police planned an investigation to determine if the prisoners had been implicated in other recent hijackings of liquor trucks.

One Man Burned to Death in Forest Fire; 2 Missing

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 16.—(AP)—One man was burned to death, another critically injured, and two others were missing tonight after a crew of fifty fire fighters had been trapped in a small clump of trees while fighting a forest blaze near Grass Valley, sixty-five miles north of here. Meanwhile two forest fires raged out of control in Mariposa county and tonight had burned over about 3,000 acres. Eleven other fires were burning in Mendocino county.

Pedestrian Killed by Motorcycle; 2 Riders Hurt

William Cibauskas, 55 years old, 3312 South Union avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by a motorcycle while crossing South Union avenue at 35th street. John Andody, 21 years old, 2056 North Kilbourn avenue, driver, and Richard Drayman, 23 years old, 2941 South Union avenue, who was riding as a passenger, suffered serious injuries. All were taken to St. Paul's emergency hospital, where Cibauskas died.

TWO DROWN IN CALUMET RIVER AS BOAT UPSETS

Before he could reach them, Edward May, 41 years old, 1541 West North Water street, Blue Island, saw his brother Robert, 45 years old, an expert swimmer, drown yesterday in the grasp of a friend he was attempting to rescue from the Calumet river.

Edward, his brother, who lived at 12553 Anna street, Blue Island, and Carl Schmidt, 33 years old, 12522 Highland avenue, also of Blue Island, were testing a twenty foot speedboat. The craft, formerly owned by H. E. Halbert, 28 North Austin avenue, Oak Park, had been purchased two years ago by the May brothers, who are mechanics. Schmidt, an electrician, was assisting in making repairs.

With Robert driving, they attempted a short turn in the river at 137th street, and the boat capsized. Edward swam toward shore. Looking back he saw the others struggling. Robert called, "He's got my leg." Edward struck out to save them, and Robert called again, "He's got my arm locked." Before Edward reached them the two disappeared.

BALFOUR COUSIN, ARTIST, A SOLDIER OF FORTUNE, DIES

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Claude Balfour, 63, cousin of the late Lord Arthur Balfour, soldier of fortune, veteran of three wars and internationally known artist, died today after a six months' illness.

Born in England in 1871, he was brought to the United States by his parents when he was a youngster. He returned to Europe in 1889 and studied art in Paris, Berlin, Munich, Frankfort and Moscow.

Balfour gained fame as an artist by his murals and decorated many large New York and Chicago cafés and restaurants.

He served as a cavalry captain under Theodore Roosevelt in the Spaninsh-American war, and saw service in the Boxer rebellion and world war.

He is survived by an adopted son, Lloyd G. Balfour, Attleborough, Mass.

Woman and Man, Posing as Officer Rob Motorist

Otto Carlson, 949 Edgecomb place, was robbed of $3 and his automobile last night by a woman and a man, the latter posing as a policeman. The woman approached Carlson's car at Sheridan road and Sunnyside avenue and asked for a ride. As Carlson was refusing her a man ran up and seized the woman, saying he had a warant for her. He then displayed a police badge, and asked Carlson to drive him and his "prisoner" to Montrose avenue and Sheridan road. Arriving at that spot, the man drew a gun and robbed Carlson.

REVOLT UNDER THE CODE.

The textile code was the first agreed upon and put in operation. It did not have the earmarks of hasty composition later found in some of the NRA efforts. When accepted it seemed to stand for a reformation of an industry with the real consent of the employers and to the real satisfaction of the workers. There was much ado about it. There were emotional statements from the forward looking saying that at last child labor had been abolished and if nothing more came out of the New Deal its justification was complete.

Hours were shortened, wages a bit increased, and the door of the millennium was slightly open, even if not swung clear back on its hinges. Now this first triumph of the New Deal bogs down into the worst strike the country has experienced since the revelation of new purposes began under the revolution. Riots, killing, and destruction of property have entered the Eden of the planned society and the serenity of a disciplined industry has given way to hatred and bitterness.

Gen. Johnson, administrator of the codes, blames the strikers with almost as much bitterness as they blame their employers.

It is one of the complaints of the strikers that the code has been bootlegged and that under mill production requirements they must do as much in the reduced hours as they were expected to do in the undisciplined days. It will astonish no one except the ultracredulous that there should be bootlegging under any code. It should not astonish Gen. Johnson if he discovered that in the planned society the textile code along with others is at the best only a halfway house in the progress of the revolution. Radical labor, encouraged by Dr. Tugwell's vision of the industrial future under the Roosevelt administration, would feel that this was the opportunity to force progress in the direction of technical and proletarian control of the capital invested in textiles.

Dr. Tugwell gave Gen. Johnson his codes before Gen. Johnson knew much about them. The doctor was at Mr. Roosevelt's elbow during the campaign and his ideas were clearly formulated. Codification of industry, with maximum hours and minimum wages, was a preliminary to the fundamental plan of taking industry away from management as organized at present and bestowing it upon the government for the allocation of capital and the technicians and the skilled labor for planned management, production, and distribution.

Now a good deal had to happen before Tugwell's disciplined industry could get beyond the code stage, but any radical accepting the code could have known that it represented the tentative feeling out of the situation for Tugwell's real scheme of industrial reformation. Codification of industries was only something the planned society recognized as comparatively easy of attainment. The planners counted upon judicial sanction for that, but they recognized it as only the beginning. If radical labor has taken the New Deal prospectus as literal, it would naturally seize the best opportunity to make the next step seem imperative. The prospect was contained in Gen. Johnson's codes, and if he didn't know it he's not only been out of sympathy with the New Dealers but he's completely out of touch with them.

It has been asserted and in part proved against the codification of industry that it has produced monopolies. No Socialist would object to that as an intermediary stage. He knows that a monopoly is easier to seize than a thousand scattered organizations. If all of an industry can be put under one roof, the room is easily entered by the government.

When the relief administration announced that the textile strikers would be supported by the government, it removed the chief consideration against the revolt against the code. The radicals again were justified in believing if they struck with enough force they had the government behind them and could make definite progress as per the Tugwell plan for disciplined industry outside the field of private ownership, private control, and private profit.

Gen. Johnson might not be so astonished by what he regards as radical perversities if he paid more attention to the authoritative doctrines back of the New Deal. He may make little of them and yet discover that he is the one who has not seen anything yet. The social philosophers and planners were on the scene before he was and what he has done to date he can find outlined as merely preliminary to other acts in which the purposes of the planned society are to be carried to their real objectives.

The failure of a code which he thought was fair, which he thinks has worked a benefit, and which he finds discredited, broken down and rejected, may be a heartbreak to him, but such a failure is welcomed by the radicals to whom the confiscation of private interests and the transfer of control to the government and organized workers is the end result desired.

Whenever there is a government proposal, definite or tentative, to place idle workers in idle factories, with government distribution of the product to the people needing it, there is a socialist vision of the Tugwell program within reach.

Kerensky didn't see it coming until it almost had him, fleeing, by the coat tails.

THE SENATORS AND THE MUNITIONS BUSINESS.

Members of the senatorial committee investigating the munitions business have displayed a wrong-headedness which is astonishing even in a congressional committee of inquiry. The questions which some of the senators have asked and the statements they have volunteered can leave little doubt of what is in their minds. They think that this country's interest requires that our government do everything in its power to restrict the volume of business of the airplane builders and others engaged in making war materials.

The position is, of course, wholly untenable. The successful defense of this country depends to a great extent upon the capacity of our munitions plants to produce material when needed, and upon the internal efficiency of these plants. The ordinary peace time requirements of our army and navy are negligible in comparison with the demand when war comes.

The experience of the last war showed once more that it is often easier to recruit and train modern armies than it is to supply them adequately with arms and ammunition. As more technical improvements and refinements are introduced, the dependence upon a well equipped and well routined munitions industry increases. Any competent blacksmith can make a tolerably good spear on short notice, but nobody can improvise a factory for assembling airplanes, manufacturing anti-aircraft guns, or constructing accurate range finders.

It cost our taxpayers a billion dollars in 1917 and 1918 to try to improvise an airplane building industry. Despite the enormous outlay, not a single American built plane saw service at the front in France. Few, if any, American field artillery regiments were equipped with American made guns before the end of the war. Our infantrymen were armed with an English type of rifle because our factories were not equipped to produce the Springfield in quantity.

Knowing these facts, and a hundred others like them, responsible officials of our government cannot reasonably take the hostile attitude toward the preparedness industries which the senators seem to regard as patriotic. Prudence, which commands the possession of an adequate navy and the nucleus of an army in time of peace, also commands the possession of adequate munitions factories. The requirements of our own army and navy in peace time are limited. If orders can be obtained from foreign countries for standard materials, that is all to the good. Added sales mean larger factories, better equipped factories, better manned factories than we would otherwise have.

The senators may not be interested in expanding the foreign trade of the nation, but they should be interested in saving money for the taxpayers. They ought not, then, overlook the obvious fact that added business for our airplane builders, for example, means lower unit costs for the military airplanes which this country buys each year. Our government, therefore, has a direct financial as well as strategic interest in encouraging foreign sales. Certainly no official of the government deserves censure for a helpful coöperation with industry which adds strength to the nation's defenses and at the same time lowers the annual cost of maintaining them.

Editorial of the Day

THE "STATE OF CHICAGO."

[Danville Commercial-News.]

State Senator Earl B. Searcy is sponsoring the separation of Cook county from the rest of Illinois and its creation into a new state to be known as the "State of Chicago."

Senator Searcy proposes the divorcement of Cook county by Illinois in an open letter sent to all members of the state legislature and all candidates for the legislature.

He writes:

"In the last three decades every session of the Illinois general assembly has been characterized by an ever-widening breach of interests, views, perspective, and legislative opinions as held by Cook county legislators, on the one hand, and legislators from the other 101 counties, on the other hand."

The domination of downstate by Cook county has been particularly in evidence since Henry Horner became governor, but there is very little difference between the Cook county machines of the two major political parties.

Cook county is approximately two years in arrears in its payment to the state under the former state tax rate and there seems to be neither inclination nor effort on its part to catch up with these arrears. Cook county and its political subdivisions have a massed indebtedness of approximately 1 billion dollars, which is more than four times the total bonded indebtedness of the state of Illinois.

Chicago and Cook county are taking the major part of the millions of dollars being poured into Illinois by the federal government for relief purposes. Cook county is contributing more than half of the occupational sales tax to the state treasury but its Democratic leaders are dictating to the state how this money shall be spent.

Senator Searcy's proposal to divorce Cook county was suggested months ago by the Commercial-News. The plan should receive the serious consideration of every downstate taxpayer.

Senator Searcy concludes his letter with the following statement:

"With the two sections definitly separated, Cook county could go her fiscal way; and Illinois could, and should, return to a drastically simplified form of government which, I believe, would cost the taxpayers less than half of what the present structure costs."

Cook county politicians in both parties would fight such a separation, but the only way downstate counties can free themselves from the death grip the northern county has on them is to kick it out of the state.

LITERARY NOTES—
THE FLAT LEASE

I got my new lease for the flat yesterday and I think this time I'm going to read it. I want to be the only man in Chicago who ever read the lease of his house. It's pretty tough reading, though; it sounds a good deal like a copy of the fisheries treaty between Great Britain and the United States of 1854-'56-'57 and '58 inclusive. At times it smacks of the Annotated Statutes of Illinois for the year 1873 with a dash here and there of the Geographical Survey of the Rocky Mountains. It gets a little dull now and then where the lawyers who drew it up got a little tired and ran in several pages from a seed catalogue and the Common Law of England. It's pretty slow reading and I haven't got anywhere near the last chapter, but up to now, while it says I can't keep dogs, cats, parrots, Plymouth Rock hens, wild turkeys, boa constrictors or zebras in the flat, I haven't discovered a single word about not being able to have a pet elephant around or a tame tiger. I would like to have a tame elephant or a pet tiger. Then I could stroll around the block without being afraid that a police dog would chase me up a tree.

I've always been told that a man who read one of these rental leases many years ago claimed that they contained a clause requiring the tenant to go up on the roof and shovel the snow off in the winter. I haven't come to that yet, but it could easily be there judging from what I've read already. But that is where I am going to defy the lease. I'll try faithfully to carry out all it says but hanged if I'll shovel snow off the roof. Still, I may be borrowing trouble. Anyhow, I won't do it even if it says I've got to. But I'm going to keep on reading the lease, though I wouldn't recommend anybody else doing it. It's funny in spots, yes, but not enough to make you laugh yourself to death.

Still, a flat lease has its strong points. I tried counting sheep and reciting poems backwards for an hour the other night, but I still stayed as wide awake as a Republican watching to see the New Dealers mess things up. And then I got out the lease and read it. Just three paragraphs, that's all. And then I went so sound asleep a steam riveting machine in full operation at the foot of the bed wouldn't have awakened me.

ENGLAND IN RETROSPECT

Of frowning castles I have seen a score;
In vast cathedrals I have stood with awe.
A thousand works of art without a flaw
Have overwhelmed me with their subtle lore.
In fabled rivers I have plunged the oar,
From towering hills have seen a strange new world.
Weird tales have told of kings abruptly hurled
From ancient thrones, to die in royal gore.
Where poets pondered I have bowed the knee;
By statesmen's tombs have learned old England's power;
And I have felt this very day and hour—
In London, where the heart of empire beats.
And I have turned—how oft! with joy to see

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

BEING NATURALLY SYMPATHETIC I suffer greatly as I walk around the streets and see the difficulty the girls have trying to wear their hats on the side of their heads instead of on top. They tilt them so far over to the side that the law of gravity gets busy and sometimes they fall off. They can't use hatpins to hold their hats because bobbed hair doesn't give good anchorage for the hatpins. They don't want to use elastics under their chins for fear they may be taken for Girl Scouts, so what to do. I should think the best thing to do would be to stick the hat to the ear with mucilage. It might hurt a little bit at bedtime, but what's a moment's distress compared to being in style?

AND JUST WHAT IS Upton Sinclair's Epic plan? Now, Upton's "Epic" may be short for "epicedium," which Webster says is a funeral song or dirge. Gosh! I hope that isn't what Upton's Epic plan means. Personally, I would rather it meant "epicurean," which, as everybody knows, means indulgence in plenty of good eating. If that is Upton's Epic plan then lead me to it.

MOTORISTS who trifle with strong drink got an awful warning yesterday. It was brought out at the trial of a man charged with driving an auto while intoxicated that he drove his car into a police squad automobile. If strong likker only made you drive your car into a telephone post, or a truck full of pig iron, or a brick wall, it would be bad enough, but when it makes a man drive into a police squad car, well, you can see for yourselves, fellows, you'd better lay off that stuff when you're driving. It simply hasn't got a bit of sense, that's what.

ROSES AND YOU.

Roses have thorns,
And Love has, too—
(Well this I know
From loving you!)
Love brought me smiles,

Love brought me tears,
Swift golden hours,
And slow gray years;
Sharp little pains
And sweet perfume,
A gasp of joy
For each new bloom!
From the quick thorns
My hands bear scars,
But all the roses
Have changed to stars!

Roses have thorns?
And Love has, too?
I still want both:
Roses and you!

YOUR CHILD IN SCHOOL.

A VERITABLE army of youngsters is now or will shortly be pursuing schoolroom duties. Learning will lean hard upon the bulwark of health. "A healthy mind in a healthy body" is an old saying and a true one.

There will be some cases of acute illness following the opening of schools. The bringing together of children from different environments may light up certain latent infections or disclose cases of low resistance. The early recognition of illness and prompt bed care will in practically all cases quickly bring about the return of health.

Most parents have learned that the child must not be made a school slave. When health is at stake the missing of a few days of school is not a sin for either the child or the parents. Of course, we must not mollycoddle developing children, and a reasonable balance may be arrived at between school duties and loss of school time because of health precautions. Fortunate are those children who have been immunized, particularly to diphtheria and to scarlet fever, and who have healthy air passages and throats. Their time lost from school will be, on the whole, much less than the average.

Make sure that your child secures plenty of restful sleep. As an aid to rest regulate the amount of home work. Many children, even in the upper grammar grades, need not form the home work habit. When high school is reached home work will be necessary, but nothing like the amount usually performed. Teach the child to conserve his time at school so that one or two lessons a day prepared at home will be the maximum. Let the home work be prepared in the early evening and not in time that should be employed in healthful play.

For evening study provide a good light, a chair that will not require the child to twist the spine when writing, and a large enough table to permit the opening of books.

If the child does not come home for noon lunch see that special attention is given to the lunch he takes with him or that he selects proper food at the school cafeteria. Much ill health and many digestive upsets may be traced to poorly selected school lunches. Sufficient food is nearly always provided, but the child may select what he particularly likes, not what he needs. Chocolate bars are fine on occasions, but they cannot be substituted for a balanced lunch menu.

In many respects the noon meal is the most important for growing youngsters. Children who depend upon a hastily eaten breakfast, a scanty lunch, and a heavy evening meal too often show digestive upsets, broken sleep, and lowered mental alertness. Mental as well as physical effort demands food, and the child's storage reservoirs are inadequate to carry him from morning until night. The noon lunch, therefore, must be balanced and sufficient in amount. Vegetable soup, milk, fruit, and ice cream will supply a balanced lunch menu provided protein [meat] is either added to the soup or is a substantial part of the evening meal. Too heavy meals, however, at the end of the day are not conducive to restful sleep.

A steady gain in weight, a good color, and a happy disposition mean good mental and physical health. Undernourishment should be watched, as a hungry child is usually an inept pupil.

SEE YOUR PHYSICIAN.

Mrs. L. writes: Is it harmful for a woman 34 years old with but one kidney to become pregnant?

REPLY.

In pregnancy there is usually an increased load thrown upon the kidneys. If the one kidney was removed because tuberculosis was suspected I would not consider it wise. On the other hand, if the remaining kidney is normal and your general health is excellent, pregnancy may not be unduly hazardous. The physician who has accurate knowledge of your physical condition must decide.

CORRECT YOUR HABITS.

S. P. writes: Would smoking, lack of sleep, and hard work have anything to do with a case of nervousness and unsteady hands? The person is 20 years old.

REPLY.

If you use tobacco excessively, do not get sufficient sleep, and overwork, you have a perfect right to have a case of nervousness. You are much too young for this condition. Correct your habits.

LIMITATION PERIOD.

Rancho Santa Fe, Cal., Sept. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How long does it take to outlaw a debt in Nebraska if no payment is made or written acknowledgment of same is made? What is the time in Illinois? 2. Two men gave me checks in Nebraska in 1928 and 1925. One came back marked "no funds" and the other was marked "insufficient funds." Can prosecution still be started on same?

R. M.

1. The Nebraska limitation on an oral agreement is four years and on a written contract five years.

The Illinois limitation period is ten years on written contracts and five years on oral agreements.

2. No, unless the period has been extended by special facts, such as absence of the debtor from the state.

CONSERVATOR'S ACCOUNT.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I am executrix for my brother, who draws $30 a month pension. The veterans' bureau does not render legal service for me now and last year I paid an attorney $20 to file my current account at close of the year. I have a balance of about $50. 2. Can I file this account myself if properly prepared? 3. Does this have to be typewritten? 4. Could I have it prepared by a public stenographer? 5. Where should I file this account?

E. B.

1. The fact that you refer to annual accounts implies that you are conservatrix rather than executrix. The latter term applies only to estates of deceased persons.

2. Yes.

3. The law does not so require, but it seems probable that a handwritten report would be more likely to produce irritation and objection.

4. Yes, as far as the typing is concerned. We are not in a position to pass upon your abilities as an accountant.

5. In the office of the clerk of the Probate court. We suggest that you secure from that office a copy of the previous account to use as a guide.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NANKING, China.—When the Chinese nationalist troops swept northward from Canton into the Yangtze valley and occupied Nanking in 1927, one of their first official acts was to employ two Americans, one an architect and the other an engineer, to construct a new capital. The hope was to eclipse the grandeurs of the ancient Tartar capital at Peiping, where the Manchus had ruled for more than 200 years.

The Americans, after one year's work, turned over to the government plans for a fine new capital.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese dictator, after considering the cost of $60,000,000 silver [about $20,000,000 in American currency], gave instructions for the construction to be held in abeyance. The plans were filed away and are still in cold storage.

But since Nanking had been selected as the new capital and the city practically was without modern buildings, it was necessary to construct offices for the various governmental departments. Construction already had been started on one structure, the elaborate memorial tomb for the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the republic.

The tomb, costing more than $3,000,000, was constructed on the slope of Purple mountain, about 12 miles from the banks of the Yangtse river. This necessitated the construction of a modern road from the tomb to the riverside. The new road cut directly through the sprawling, densely populated city which is entirely surrounded by a medieval wall.

It is along this highway that the government for the last seven years has been engaged in the construction of a new capital—without regard for the elaborate plans prepared by Architect Henry Killam Murphy of New Haven, Conn., and Engineer Ernest Payson Goodrich of Decatur, Mich. Entirely without plan and based upon necessity and the funds available, new buildings are being put up.

Only two of the buildings strictly follow the Chinese style of architecture, the remainder being a mixture of occidental architecture, conceptions depending, so it appears, upon the particular country where the various Chinese architects received their educations. Nanking officials are rather apologetic when referring to the construction of their new capital and usually end up by saying that the buildings are "temporary" and that the original plans drawn by the Americans have not been shelved permanently.

But while the new Chinese capital is being built on a sort of "hit and miss" plan on each side of the memorial highway for a distance of several miles, the same cannot be said about the area where the Sun Yat-sen mausoleum is located. This entire area, embracing many square miles of wooded mountain side and valley, has been converted into a memorial park.

Here the Chinese have given full play to their unexcelled native genius for beautiful effects in landscaping. The area promises to become one of the beauty spots of the nation. Everything has been planned with the mausoleum as the central axis, excepting, of course, the tomb of the first Ming emperor, who was buried here in 1398. This tomb, the final resting place of the last purely native dynasty, is one of the world's most noted ruins.

On one hill almost directly facing the mausoleum is the new national stadium, with a swimming pool fed from a spring. It is said to be the largest and finest in Asia. A short distance away is a school housing some 600 students, boys and girls, the personal responsibility of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek. These children are all the offspring of officers and soldiers who have been killed on various revolutionary battlefields since 1926. In one section of the memorial park are residences of certain high officials of the government and party, who have been permitted to build homes here.

ON THE SPOT.

Sayre, Okla., Sept. 5.—Upton Sinclair, Democratic nominee for California's governor, is advocating putting the unemployed to work making for themselves the things they need. Conservatives shout "Socialist" at Mr. Sinclair.

Socialist or not, Mr. Sinclair has the New Deal and its partners on the spot. Restricted agriculture, monopolized industry and unionized labor have sold their causes to the New Dealers who seek to enforce the selfish interests of these forces through legislation purportedly aimed at ending the depression. If capitalism is to meet the challenge of Mr. Sinclair's proposal a change of front must be made. A capitalism which literally and legally attempts to restrict production below the needs of the people in order to secure for privileged classes higher prices and higher wages will create and perpetuate an ever larger class of unemployed. Governmental relief needs will climb.

The theory that if part of our lands and factories and our labor can be kept idle demand will catch up with the supply, resulting in higher prices and a general prosperity, is born of selfishness and nurtured by ignorance.

In the fundamental soundness of capitalism and the profit system many of us believe. We think we see, though, that a capitalism capable of resisting all attacks from the left must itself seek to be guided by those clearly definable economic laws which if permitted free reign will right the economic ship in calmer waters beyond the storm of financial depression.

If Mr. Sinclair forces the New Dealers and their clients, selfish groups seeking exclusive privileges, to take stock of their doctrines and realize that they are endangering the profit system, he may be doing the right wingers a favor. Capitalism will fall only when those who should be its friends and protectors turn traitors against it for selfish motives. Such are those who seek to gain or retain class favors or class rights inconsistent with the mass welfare. They would pillage the economic ship, leaving her to sink or be salvaged by Mr. Sinclair or other collectivists.

If a New Dealer can legally restrict production while Upton Sinclair takes up the slack through state encouraged productive enterprises and both may call themselves Democrats, some may wonder at the all inclusive policies of democracy.

MARVIN FUCHS.

PARASITES.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—It is amazing how the government which had pledged itself to reduction of expenses can permit millions of dollars of waste to occur through the acceptance of relief clients who are working, or otherwise fairly well fixed financially, and giving them either money outright or food.

Why does the government permit this graft to go on? Is it possible that such relief roll parasites are so numerous they constitute a power at the polls? If so, maybe something will be done about it after November.

STEPHEN TEDOR.

FROM THE PAGEANT MANAGEMENT.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—It is most unfortunate that the letter signed by James Erickson should be given publicity in your columns before being checked for accuracy. It is but a part of a malicious campaign fostered at a meeting held last Monday in the communist quarters on West Madison street, about which THE TRIBUNE was fully informed.

Publication in your column can have only a mischievous effect, which is exactly what the communists wanted.

The true facts are that these men were served with coffee and luncheon on the two cold nights referred to and every possible consideration was extended to them. Their wages are a preferred claim on the corporation which produced the pageant and plans are under way to secure full payment of them. The corporation has not only not "pulled stakes," but is actively planning, at the request of those who saw the Pageant of the Celt, and many who were prevented by unseasonably cold weather from seeing it, to reproduce this and other pageants of equal merit in the future.

No such person as James Erickson was employed in any capacity in the Pageant of the Celt.

NURSING FEES.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Miss Harris, R. N., complains that she donated her time while studying nursing. She received $100 cash a year, room, meals, laundry, medical and hospital care and tuition, if she was trained in an average hospital. Students of no other trade, profession or calling are treated so well to my knowledge. Most of them have other expenses and no income.

The fee asked—$8 per day of 12 hours with $1 for meals—makes nursing prohibitive to the average man with an income of say $40 per week. The rich can pay, the poor get it free, and the rest of us depend on the grace of God and student nurses.

If nursing fees were reduced Miss Harris might be so busy she would have no time to worry over the threatened nurses' strike.

TWO BICYCLES STOLEN.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—My son has had two new bikes stolen in the last year, the last one a TRIBUNE bike. Of course he is heartbroken, all the more so because he has been earning a little spending money by running errands.

The loss of a bike to a boy or girl means more to him or her than the loss of an auto to an adult, and I hope the police are doing all in their power to put an end to this evil. I will pay $5 for the recovery of this bike [No. 15006], and will do all in my power to send the thief to jail, where he belongs.

SIMPLER RELIEF SETUP APPROVED FOR TIME BEING

FERA Chief Demands $100,000 Cost Cut.

The recently completed plan to decentralize the Illinois Emergency Relief commission has been approved by Howard O. Hunter, district head of the Federal Emergency Relief administration, only on condition that administrative costs be reduced immediately by $100,000, it was learned yesterday. Several successive plans have been presented by the commission for Hunter's approval, but in each he has objected to the large amount of federal funds budgeted for handling charges and overhead.

In a memorandum to Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, Hunter agreed, in view of the need for immediate action, to allow the proposed reorganization to go into operation by Oct. 1, with the understanding that it is to endure only until proper legislation can be obtained. The conditions Mr. Hunter sets up are:

1. "That an immediate reduction in administrative costs involved in clerical, accounting, auditing, and expenses incidental thereto, be made to an amount no less than $100,000."

Cites Summer Increase.

2. That no additional personnel be employed by any county under the reorganization without the specific approval of Hunter's office to prevent the appointments of "a great many additional people."

Administration costs of the relief commission have increased from $678,000 in February and $986,000 in May to $1,100,000 for September. A number of reasons have been advanced, principally the corresponding rise in expenditures for actual relief.

"The objective of the plan to decentralize the organization," Mr. Hunter wrote some time ago, "are prompt payment to work relief clients and the saving of considerable sums in administrative costs."

Hunter, however, criticized the details of the reorganization plan because it would separate routines in handling state funds and federal funds.

"It seems to me," he wrote, "that all funds for relief which are administered by the IERC should be treated on the same basis.

Details of Plan.

"It is also unsatisfactory in that it assumes that the only important reason for this decentralization is to expedite the payment of bills . . . but another major reason is to save a considerable sum of money . . . and this reason is not mentioned . . ."

Under the plan funds from the federal government would be disbursed in each county through the relief accounting supervisors acting as "certifying officers." Cash funds would be deposited in a central bank under the supervision of the state auditor and state treasurer, who would verify the signatures of the county officials on checks before payment by the bank.

State funds, however, would continue to be paid out through the joint office of the state auditor, state treasurer, and director of finance, in relief headquarters at Chicago. Approved invoices would be sent in from the counties as is done now because of statutory requirements.

27 BUSINESS MEN TO SPONSOR 1934 FUND CAMPAIGN

DONALD F. McPHERSON.

Headed by Donald F. McPherson, attorney, twenty-seven leading business and professional men of Chicago agreed yesterday to sponsor the 1934 Community Fund campaign and to raise the first $1,000,000 of the ultimate goal of $2,500,000.

The general public campaign will open Oct. 1, but advance gifts will be solicited immediately by the group of sponsors, of whom Mr. McPherson has been named chairman. Serving in the group are Philip D. Armour, Ralph A. Bard, William McCormick Blair, Kent S. Crow, D. A. Crawford, James D. Cunningham, Fred A. Cuscaden, James H. Douglas, Howard R. Fenton, James B. Forgan Jr., Robert A. Gardner, C. B. Goodspeed, Sol Kline, A. D. Lasker, James R. Leavell, Merrill C. Meigs, John McKinlay, Roy D. Pretty, George A. Ranney, George A. Richardson, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Harold C. Smith, John Stuart, Harold H. Swift, Merle J. Trees, and John P. Wilson.

A hundred established Chicago welfare agencies participate in the Community Fund and receive from it allocations to supply such of their budget requirements as are not met by income from endowments or gifts from regular supporters.

COURTS REOPEN TODAY; 92,000 CASES ON CALL

With the ending of the two month summer vacation period, the Circuit, Superior, and Appellate courts are to reopen this morning. A record calendar of 92,000 cases is on call to be disposed of by thirty-six judges.

Fifteen judges sitting in the Superior court must hear 52,000 cases, 32,500 have been docketed for the twelve Circuit judges, and 7,500 are on call before the nine judges of the Appellate court.

Clerks of the three courts estimated yesterday that of the total calendar, 16,000 are divorce cases, 35,000 are law, 26,000 chancery, and the remainder corporation and appeal suits. John Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court, estimated that a large portion of the law cases are those filed under the Kerner-Skarda tax receivership law by Assistant State's Attorneys William T. Crilly and Francis Clamitz, who are in charge of this work.

N. U. PROFESSOR'S WIFE IS INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Car Hits Electric Train; Woman Killed Here.

Mrs. Florence Kocourek, wife of Albert Kocourek, a professor in Northwestern university law school, was in the Geneva Community hospital yesterday in a serious condition from internal injuries incurred Saturday afternoon when her car was struck by a Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin electric train at High Lake crossing a half mile east of West Chicago.

Mrs. Kocourek, driving alone, was on her way to her home on North Main street road, Wheaton, after visiting friends in the country. She apparently did not see the approaching westbound train, which had slowed to stop at High Lake shelter. The car was demolished. Mrs. Kocourek reported the loss of a valuable three diamond ring, including an engagement diamond, stripped from her finger in some manner in or after the crash.

Woman Is Killed.

The body of a woman who was fatally injured Saturday when she was struck by an automobile at West Grand and West Chicago avenues, was identified as that of Mrs. Irene Kuhar, 42 years old, of 2628 Augusta boulevard. Identification was made at the Norwegian American hospital by her daughter, Mary. Samuel Catalano, 621 North Oakley boulevard, driver of the car which hit Mrs. Kuhar, was held for the inquest today.

This death and five others brought the 1934 Cook county toll to 847. The other deaths:

Mrs. Barbara Rog, 46 years old 2253 South Whipple street, died in St Anthony's hospital of injuries incurred Friday night when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, John, and their son, Roy, 9 years old, struck another car at Halsted and 127th streets.

James Noonan, 28 years old, 4501 Wentworth avenue, died in the County hospital of injuries incurred Saturday when he was run down by an automobile near his home.

Leo Meyers, 41 years old, colored, of 1251 North Sangamon street, died in the County hospital of a fractured skull incurred when he was hit by a detective bureau squad car in front of 2953 South State street.

Robert Resuall, 3 years old, 1527 West Erie street, died in the Children's Memorial hospital, of injuries incurred when he was struck by an automobile in front of his home.

A man, about 55 years old, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Exchange avenue at 89th street. South Chicago police held William Urbancyk, 20 years old, 8800 Escanaba avenue, driver of the car, for the inquest today. The victim wore a blue suit with a white pin stripe.

James Wakefield, 37 years old, 2057 Delaware street, Gary, died in the St. Antonio hospital there last night of injuries incurred when a car he was driving was struck at a street intersection by another car earlier in the day. Walter Hisick, 120 Durbin street, Gary, driver of the other car, was arrested and held on a charge of manslaughter. Two passengers in Hisick's car were also held as witnesses. Isador Bradford, 32 years old, 2252 Massachusetts street, Gary, who was riding with Wakefield, was slightly injured.

FALLS FROM ROOF, KILLED.

James Watson, 12 years old, 3828 Federal street, colored, died yesterday at his home from injuries incurred when he fell from the roof of his one story home.

THREE ARE KILLED AS UNLICENSED PLANE CRASHES

Ship Nose Dives with Student Pilot.

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A plunging airplane carried three men to death near here today in a nose dive when a student pilot was attempting to land.

Maynard Stone, 21, Pierre, the pilot; Joe Depner, 48, Fort Pierre, and Don Hess, 29, Watertown, were the victims. The plane, an unlicensed ship, buried itself nose deep into a prairie field near Fort Pierre airport.

Witnesses said the plane went into a spin as Stone banked for a landing at an altitude of between 150 and 200 feet. The plane struck the ground in an almost vertical position.

In Air but Few Minutes.

The trio had taken off in the plane, owned by John Norman, Fort Pierre, about 6:20 p. m., and had been in the air only a few minutes.

Stone held a student pilot's permit, while Hess, South Dakota highway department engineer, was a veteran flyer with both army and air mail experience. Depner was a rancher. Hess and Depner each are survived by a widow and one child.

Army Flyer Killed.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 16.—(AP)—An army bomber crashed and burst into flames at the municipal airport here today, killing Second Lieutenant H. S. Bear, 23.

Lieut. Bear, a reserve officer assigned to Langley field, Virginia, was returning there after making an aviation flight to Selfridge field, Mount Clemens, Mich.

He landed at the airport here and was taking off after an hour's stop. Witnesses said he apparently attempted to turn and come back to the field after reaching an altitude of 200 feet. The plane whirled to the ground and burst into flames. Officials at the National Guard hangar at the field said the big Keystone bomber was destroyed.

Held in Torture Slaying of Indiana Schoolboy

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 16.—Gilbert Jacobs, 37 years old, a factory worker, is held here for questioning in connection with the torture slaying of Donald Edward Dillon, a 13 year old schoolboy, whose body was found last Wednesday. The body had been swept from a sewer, where it was hidden, into a creek by heavy rains, and was discovered by workmen engaged in repairing a bridge. The boy had been shot twice in the head. A handkerchief was crammed into his mouth as a gag and his body bore severe burns, bruises, and other marks of torture.

ATTICO BERNABINI IS DEAD; OPERA'S CHORAL MASTER

ATTICO BERNABINI.

Attico Bernabini, 50 years old, choral master of the Chicago Civic Opera company since his arrival in America fourteen years ago, died Saturday at the Presbyterian hospital, where he was being treated for a malignant condition in the stomach.

Mr. Bernabini was known throughout this continent and Europe as a chorus director and conductor of opera. After completing his studies at home he became assistant at several of the largest theaters there, and later made choral directing his life work. He appeared with many companies in Europe, South and Central America, Mexico, and Cuba. Cleofonte Campanini, former general director of the Civic Opera company, brought Bernabini to Chicago to supervise the choral work.

He is survived by his widow, Maria, and a 14 year old son in Rome. Word was being awaited from Mrs. Bernabini for burial arrangements. John Pane-Gasser, leading tenor of the opera company and Bernabini's close friend, surmised that the body would be returned to Italy.

CAIRO DRAINAGE SYSTEM BREAKS; STREETS FLOODED

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

CAIRO, Sept. 16.—This city is threatened with serious privations through the breakdown of the drainage system. The main gasoline engine in the Cairo pumping station collapsed on Thursday under extra pressure due to the large infiltration of the drains by water from the abnormally high Nile flood. This caused an overflow of sewage into two streets.

The temporary use of small engines in the pumping station collapsed under the additional strain and sewage commenced to flood many city districts. The main overflows occurred in Zamalek, leading residential quarter for English and American residents. Several densely populated native districts also were flooded.

City employés have worked night and day to repair the engines and clear the streets. New parts for the damaged engines have been ordered from London. The water supply has been curtailed and water is obtainable in only three periods of two hours each daily to lessen the discharge into already overburdened drains. Pumping engines are being rushed from Assuan, while city water carts and fire engines are being used to clear the streets which have not been watered for two days. The government has suspended the director of the drainage department and several other officials on charges of inefficiency.

Dies of Eating Toadstools; Wife Made Critically Ill

William Chval, 31 years old, of 1640 North La Salle street, died yesterday in the Henrotin Memorial hospital from eating fungi picked in the woods near St. Charles. His wife, Elsie, 30 years old, is in a critical condition. When the two were taken to the hospital on Wednesday night, Mrs. Chval sent police to the home of her parents to prevent them from eating some of the "mushrooms" which the Chvals had given them.

William Lorimer Funeral Services at 11 A. M. Today

Requiem high mass will be sung at 11 o'clock this morning at St. Catherine of Siena church, Austin avenue and Washington boulevard, for William Lorimer, former United States senator, who died last Thursday. Hundreds of the former political followers of Lorimer are expected to be present. Burial will be at Calvary cemetery. The body is to be brought to the church from the family summer residence at Crystal Lake.

Isidore Braggiotti Dies; Famed Teacher of Voice

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Isidore Braggiotti, internationally known voice teacher, died here today after a sudden attack of pneumonia. News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Ceremonies at Philadelphia celebrating the 147th anniversary of the signing of the constitution of the United States will be broadcast over the National and Columbia networks from 12:45 to 1:30 p. m. today. The exercises will include addresses by Col Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE; Edward A. Hayes, national commander of the American Legion, and Robert von Moschisken, former chief justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme court. Col McCormick will speak from 1 to 1:15 o'clock. WMAQ and WBBM will carry the broadcast locally. Two other outstanding Constitution day broadcasts will be those by former United States Senator James A. Reed speaking at 9:30 tonight from the Fair over W-G-N and both networks, and former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills speaking at 3:30 o'clock from New York over the chains.

Amos 'n' Andy will be back on the air after a vacation of two months at 6 o'clock tonight over WENR-NBC but up to last night they hadn't decided just what course their new script would take. They will settle all that at 1 o'clock this afternoon Though they are planning to give the Fresh Air Taxicab company a rest they will always keep the old bus in the back yard so that it may be pressed into service in a jiffy, if necessary. Freeman Gosden [Amos] was wondering about those two broadcasts nightly. [They will be heard at both 6 and 10 p. m. over WENR this season.] "We'll have to make every show a good one," Gosden declared, "or the kids or the missus, catching us at 6 o'clock, will be telling the old man that he won't need to tune in at 10 that night."

Because of his simplicity, modesty, and personal charm Joe Penner made a big hit in Hollywood this summer the Rev. Henry S. Rubel, who as Hal Raynor, writes songs and jokes for Penner, declared yesterday, pausing in Chicago, on his way back to the east coast after a summer in the film center with the radio comedian. Penner is visiting his parents in Detroit this week, the Rev. Mr. Rubel stated, and will return to New York soon to complete plans for his return to the air Oct. 7. Penner's picture, "College Rhythm," also featuring Lanny Ross, Jack Oakie, and Lyda Roberti, will be released in about a month.

The Kansas City Symphony orchestra has been engaged for a series of Sunday afternoon programs over NBC, starting Oct. 14, with a drug company as sponsor. . . . Dick Steele, the Boy Reporter, originated by W-G-N last season, becomes an NBC network program on Oct. 1. . . . Ted Weems' orchestra, heard over W-G-N nightly from the Palmer house, will be guest on NBC's Hall of Fame next Sunday evening.

Radio is going collegiate. Northwestern university will offer several courses in radio, casting, and production at its McKinlock campus this season. Classes open next Wednesday.

PLANES BALKED, BRITAIN CANCELS GREENLAND HOP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The first attempted flight by a British royal air force formation from England to Greenland was abandoned today at the Faroe islands because of dangerous ice conditions in arctic waters, according to an air ministry announcement tonight.

Two Perth machines, the biggest service flying boats in the royal air force, left Plymouth Thursday on a projected 4,000 mile flight which was officially described as a routine training cruise. But it is understood that observations were to be taken on the flight in anticipation of a North Atlantic air route to America. The machines each carried six men and are capable of cruising 100 miles per hour.

The flying boats have been dogged by bad weather since the start, and with only 750 miles of their cruise completed it was announced that they will return home immediately, conditions permitting.

DROWNS LASHED TO THE MAST IN LAKE TRAGEDY

Another Is Swept Away, Third Found Alive.

Racine, Wis., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Tragedy sailed with the Spray, 34 foot sloop which left Racine harbor last night for a yachting regatta today at South Shore Yacht club, Milwaukee. The sloop was found by the coast guard this afternoon 15 miles northeast of here in the lake.

One man of its crew of three had been washed away, one man was drowned, his body still lashed to a mast, and one, lashed to the same mast, still was alive.

Irving Uhlir was missing, his body washed away in the heavy seas. Thomas Graham was drowned, swamped by the water which poured over him, and Herman Jensen, third member of the crew, was alive. All are Racine men.

Anxiety was aroused when the sloop failed to reach the Milwaukee Yacht club. Capt. John Olander of the United States coast guard directed his men to make a search and the overturned boat was located.

Jensen and Graham's body were brought to shore and the boat was left until it could be recovered by a second trip of the coast guard.

Tell Betrothal of Barrington Society Couple

Charlotte Hughes to Wed Lawrence Bateman.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO prominent Barrington families are concerned this morning in an important announcement of a romantic nature. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee Hughes, whose home, Windridge, is in the village out northwest, are making known the betrothal of their daughter, Charlotte Elton, to Lawrence Ford Bateman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd L. Bateman of Barrington.

Miss Hughes, a young woman of brilliant intellect and a pleasingly quiet personality, has been a neighbor of Mr. Bateman for several years, but it is only of recent months that their friends have suspected a romance.

William M. Burtons Her Grandparents.

After her graduation from Mount Vernon seminary in Washington, D. C., Miss Hughes spent a year studying abroad and then returned to finish at Miss Finch's in New York City. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Burton, formerly of Chicago, who last winter gave her sister, Kean, a debut dinner dance at the Casino. Another grandparent is Bishop Charles E. Woodcock of Kentucky.

Mr. Bateman attended Lake Forest academy before going east to Brown university. It was a year ago last June that Mr. Bateman's brother, F. Donald Bateman, married Elizabeth Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stillson Hart of Barrington.

Mr. Bateman and Miss Hughes have not yet decided upon their wedding date.

Caroline Hazard To Wed New Yorker.

The engagement of a former Chicagoan, that of Miss Caroline Campbell Hazard of Providence, R. I., and South Shaftesbury, Vt., to Townsend Cann of New York, son of H. O. Cann of Ramsay, N. J., is of further romantic interest this morning. Miss Hazard's mother was Helen Hamilton Campbell of Chicago and her aunt, Mrs. Charles W. Ware, still lives here at 1210 Astor street.

Miss Hazard, who has paid only short visits to her mother's old home, has several Chicago friends, nevertheless, for she went to the Foxcroft school, Dana hall, and Mlle. Boissier's in Paris, all schools that number among their students each year daughters of well known Chicago families. Miss Hazard made her debut in Providence in 1932. Mr. Cann was graduated from Ashbury college in Ottawa, Canada, in 1927.

Julia Woodruff to Be Bride of T. W. Snead Jr.

In Evanston today Mr. and Mrs. Harvey T. Woodruff of 1733 Hinman avenue are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Julia Hammon, better known as Judy, to Thornton Withers Snead Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Withers Snead of Evanston.

Miss Woodruff was graduated from Roycemore school and Pine Manor at Wellesley, Mass. Mr. Snead attended Dartmouth college, where he was a member of Psi Upsilon fraternity. No date has been set for their wedding.

At a cocktail party yesterday afternoon the engagement of one of the prettiest and most charming young women on the south side was made known. It is that of Miss Josephine Burke, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Burke, to Ralph Fournier, son of Mrs. Charles Fournier of Butte, Mont.

Miss Burke and her sisters entertained in the late afternoon yesterday at their apartment at 4940 East End avenue. The wedding of Miss Burke and Mr. Fournier is to be an event of the early winter.

Margery Ann Garvy Makes Debut Today.

Even Monday can't slip by without a debut party in this busy and gay month of September. At the Woman's Athletic club between 4 and 7 this afternoon Mrs. William John Garvy and her debutante daughter, Margery Ann, will receive their many friends.

Assisting Miss Garvy will be eight of her intimate friends, five of them sister debutantes. They will include Miss Barbara Fortune, Miss Eleanor Kirkland, Miss Betty Babson, Miss Barbara Erminger, Miss Louise Parsons, all debutantes of this season, and Miss Dorothy Wegg, Miss Betty Carroll, and Miss Mary McCarty.

Miss Garvy is to be at home all winter. Last year she attended Pine Manor at Wellesley, Mass., following her graduation from the Girls' Latin school.

Ann Jenkins to Give Party for Debutantes.

Miss Ann Jenkins has invited some twenty of the north shore debutantes for luncheon and bridge Wednesday at her home on Rosewood avenue in Winnetka. Miss Jenkins is the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin D. Jenkins.

Miss Helen Fulton is entertaining at dinner tonight for Miss Jeanette Schreiner and Paul C. Loeber Jr., whose engagement was recently announced. About twenty guests will gather in the Winnetka home of Miss Fulton's parents, the Frank D. Fultons. Miss Fulton will leave Saturday to resume her studies at the University of Southern California.

Miss Lura Schreiner, another daughter of the Joseph O. Schreiners, has left Chicago to spend two months visiting in Mexico City.

Celebrating their first wedding anniversary and the golden wedding anniversary of the [illegible]'s grandparents with a dinner Saturday night and a cocktail party yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. John Roderick Rogers of Ausable Forks, N. Y., spent a happy week-end. The former Peggy Glidden and her young husband, who were married a year ago yesterday in Highland Park at one of the loveliest of last autumn's weddings, played host and hostess to Mrs. Rogers' grandparents, the W. Frank Workmans of Springfield, Ill.,

THERE is, on one of the radio programs, a feature called "Our Unseen Friend." He apparently is a be-turbaned Hindu who answers questions about love problems and similar agitations. When the program first appeared, the program manager of the station rang up the radio editor of one of the newspapers and told him about the new feature. He continued by saying:

"We're playing on the secrecy of the thing. This fellow's name is never mentioned; nobody knows who he is, and we whisk him secretly into the studio and out again. He is just a mysterious voice from the ether—Our Unseen Friend . . . get it?"

"Fine," said the radio editor, "but why tell me about it?"

"Well," explained the program man. "I wanted to see about getting his picture in the paper on your page."

Jeritza to Open Opera Season in "Turandot"

Virtually Complete List of Artists Told.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Several interesting additions to the plans of the Chicago Grand Opera company have been made since its first announcement some two weeks ago. Among them are the facts that Maria Jeritza will open the season on Saturday night, Nov. 10, in the leading rôle of Puccini's "Turandot" with Frederick Jagel as the prince; that later in the season she will appear in a revival of Richard Strauss' "Salome"; that Lawrence Tibbett is coming to sing in an all-English performance of "Boris Godunoff," following the original Moussorgsky version and not the better known edition rewritten by Rimsky-Korsakoff; and that the artistic personnel has been enriched by the engagement of such other artists as Lotte Lehmann, Edith Mason, Elisabeth Rethberg, Coe Glade, Maria Olszewska, Sonia Sharnova, Mario Chamlee, and René Maison, not mentioned in the previous announcement which stressed the coming of Mme. Jeritza, Giovanni Martinelli, Lauritz Melchior, and John Charles Thomas.

The list of artists, conductors, and directors who have signed contracts to appear is now fairly complete. It is as follow:

Sopranos — Hilda Burke, Lucia Diano, Maria Jeritza, Lotte Lehmann, Edith Mason, Margery Maxwell, Lucinda Munroe, Hilda Ohlin, Elisabeth Rethberg, Franca Somigli, Jean Tennyson, Anna Turkel, Aida Vanos.

Mezzo-sopranos and contraltos — Evelyn Ames, Alice Mary Baenziger, Hortense Drummond, Coe Glade, Eleanor LaMance, Maria Matyas, Maria Olszewska, Helen Orstein, Ada Paggi, Sonia Sharnova.

Tenors—Giuseppe Cavadore, Mario Chamlee, René Maison, Giovanni Martinelli, Lauritz Melchior, Lodovico Oliviero, John Pane-Gasser.

Baritones — Wilfred Engelman, Claudio Frigerio, Carlo Morelli, Joseph Royer, John Charles Thomas, Lawrence Tibbett.

Bassos — Chase Baromeo, Guido Guidi, Emanuel List, Louis Lovich, Vittorio Trevisan.

Conductors—Gennaro Papi [musical director], Dino Bigalli, Leo Kopp, Giacomo Spadoni, Isaac Van Grove, Siegfried Vollstedt, Henry Weber.

Stage director—Isaac Van Grove.

Stage manager—Bernard Cantor.

Technical director — Harry W. Beatty.

Ballet soloists—Harriet Lundgren, Ruth Pryor, Edward Caton, Harald Kreutzberg, Bentley Stone.

Performances will be given for six weeks on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday nights, and Saturday afternoons. The final performance will be the Saturday matinée of Dec. 22. About fifteen operas will be given during the season, to be drawn from a list of two dozen now under consideration.

Additional features will be special Friday night ballet performances under Miss Page's direction. Among those promised are "La Guiablesse," first given at the Auditorium a year ago under the sponsorship of the Friends of Music, and like it in that it will have an all-Negro cast; world premières of "Hear Ye! Hear Ye!" by Aaron Copland, and "Gold Standard," by Jacques Ibert, and further performances of "Bolero," "Puffenfee," "L'Histoire du Soldat," and "L'Histoire d'un Pierrot."

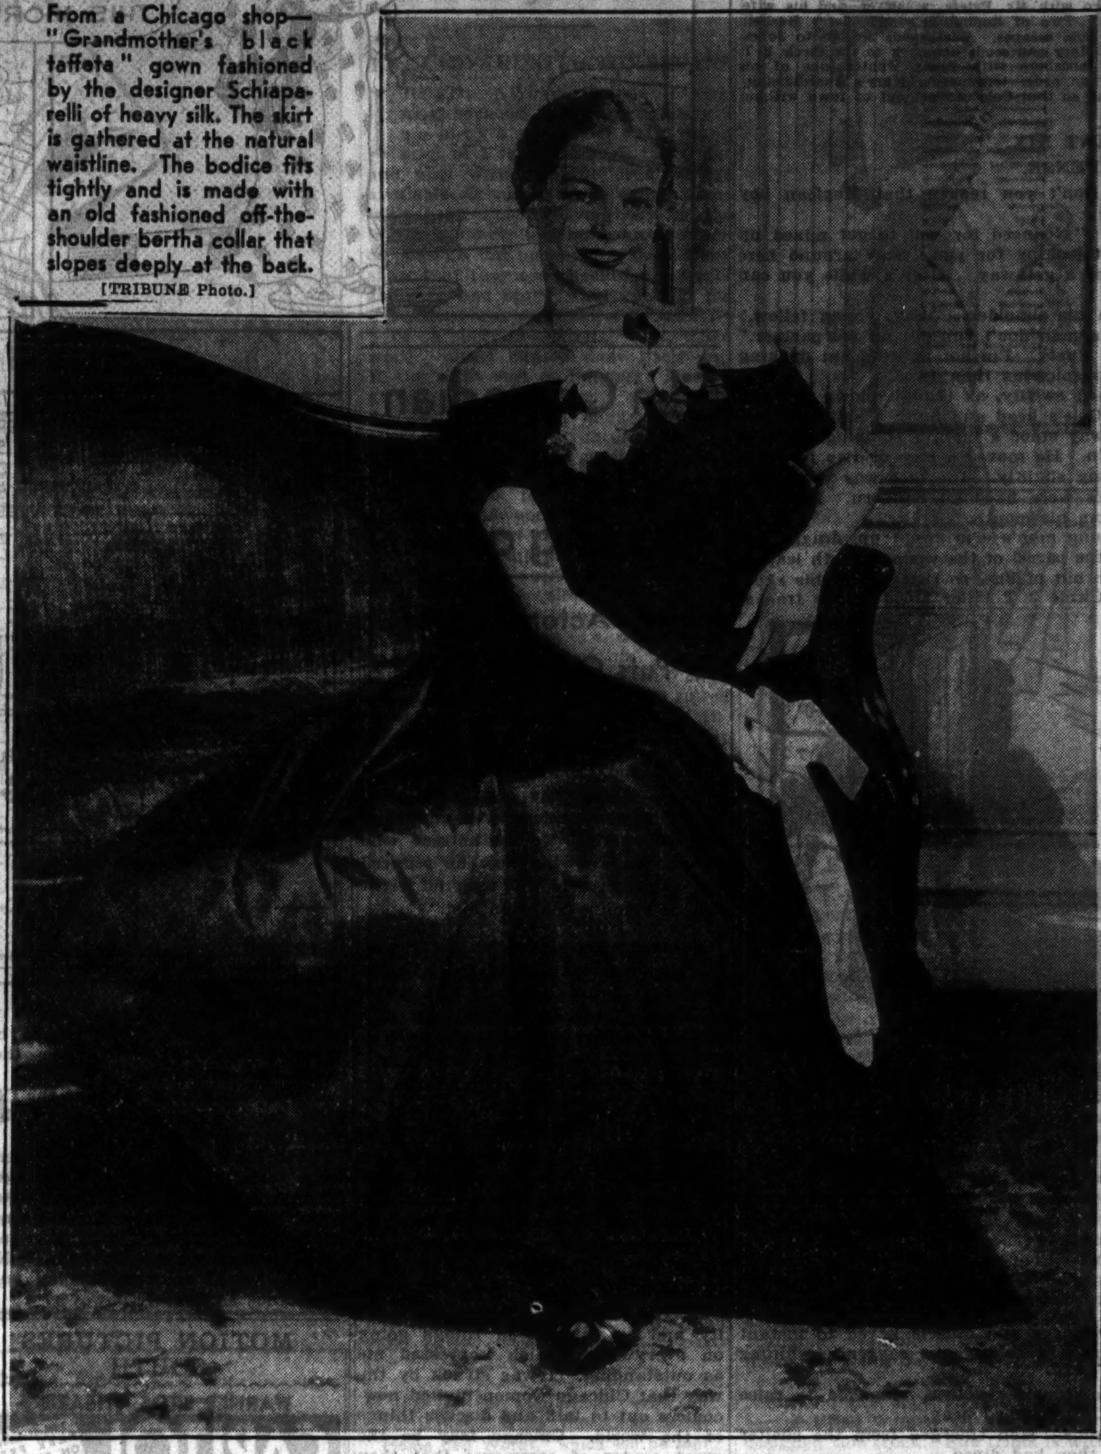
Scott to Welcome 1,000 N. U. Freshmen at Assembly Today

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university will welcome 1,000 freshmen this morning at an assembly in the First Methodist church of Evanston, as new student week opens on the suburban campus. Classes on the Evanston campus will start next Monday. A convocation for first year students is planned for Wednesday morning at the Methodist church. When the registration for upper classmen is completed by the end of the week, university officials estimate that last year's enrollment of 4,200 will be exceeded. Evening classes at the university college and school of commerce on the downtown McKinlock campus have already shown increases of from 35 to 65 per cent.

Grandmother's Gown Comes Back



From a Chicago shop—"Grandmother's black taffeta" gown fashioned by the designer Schiaparelli of heavy silk. The skirt is gathered at the natural waistline. The bodice fits tightly and is made with an old fashioned off-the-shoulder bertha collar that slopes deeply at the back.

Glamorous Silk Fabrics Shown in Wide Variety

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Officially it's "old home week" for the silk fabrics, a showing in Chicago stores of what is unquestionably the most seductive and the most feminine of costume materials.

You'll see the newest and most glamorous of silks, taffetas shot with gold or silver threads, or the crisp rustling stuff gayly plaided with patterns of coppery gold and shimmering silver. You'll see lustrous lengths of incredibly soft satin as easy to drape, cut, and fashion into stunning costumes as any known fabric. You'll see colors that beggar description, color contrasts that will make you gasp with their startling results.

Silk velvets, so ravishing in color and sheen as to keep you hypnotized for hours, have been unpacked, in all the street and evening shades ever conceived by inspired velveteers. Tawny old gold, rich Burgundy red, deep bottle green, silvery grays, and the new gunmetal gray that will give black a good fast race for popularity, are just a few.

Dull silk crêpes for afternoon, daytime and evening gowns will be shown in many new textures. Even the crêpes of China assume a new loveliness in pastel and street shades, with the fashion spotlight turned on the all-silk fabrics for every sort of dress or costume you may need.

Fashion photograph — Schiaparelli deftly gathers widths of heavy old fashioned black silk into a most alluring dinner and evening gown. The skirt is full, will almost stand alone, and accentuates the small waistline. The deep, off-the-shoulder bodice is fitted smoothly over the ribs, the bertha collar continues around the back, and large white flowers decorate the front section of the collar. From a Chicago collection of all silk gowns.

Events on the Stage

The reopening of the Selwyn theater with Charles [Chic] Sale as the star of a comedy called "Elephant on His Hands" has been postponed from Sept. 23 to Sept. 30. This comedy will mark Sale's début in the legitimate drama. His career, to date, has been on the vaudeville stage and in the song and dance spectacles called revues.

CHIC SALE.

The cast for "Elephant on His Hands" will also include Richard Gordon, Jean Shelby, Roy James, Jack Bell, Linda Leeds, William Tuttle, John Winthrope, Homer Barton, Virginia Deane, Franklin Gray, and Doro Merande. The author is Vernon Smith. The play will receive its first acting in Pittsburgh tonight and will spend the week of Sept. 23 in Cincinnati.

Sam H. Harris, producer of "As Thousands Cheer," says that this popular Broadway musical show is booked to begin a four weeks' engagement at the Grand Opera house of Chicago on Oct. 15. The management of the Grand, where the "Ziegfeld Follies" is now thriving to the full capacity of the house, agrees with Mr. Harris, but suggests that the continued popularity of the "Follies" may delay the arrival of "As Thousands Cheer" for a week.

A subscription series of five dramatic productions will begin in the Pabst theater, Milwaukee, Sept. 24, with Paul Green's "Roll, Sweet Chariot." This play will have a New York première on Oct. 1. Other items in the Milwaukee schedule are "The Shining Hour" and "Her Master's Voice," with Margaret Anglin as star. The series will be sponsored by a civic group which has engaged Mary Hart as director.

Five new productions will be launched on the New York stage this week. The most important will be "The Great Waltz," an operetta popular in London as "Waltzes from Vienna," staged by Max Gordon in the Rockefeller Center theater. Marion Claire, the Chicago opera singer, and Guy Robertson will have the leading rôles in this work, whose stage settings and costumes are said to have cost $200,000.

Good Morning!

Of all sad tales none's sadder than
The one re a pushed about family man,
A friend of whose wife had orter warn 'er
That he's APT to find peace just around the corner.

"There's Always Tomorrow" will remind you of something. That something will be "The Lady Lies." Only the latter was a powerful picture, whereas the former is not.

In both films you find Daddy's offspring rallying round to snatch him from what they assume to be the dangerous clutches of a presumably unscrupulous female. In neither case IS the lady nearly as naughty as adolescent imagination paints her.

As the unconsciously wistful and hen-pecked Dad White, Frank Morgan gives a characteristically able performance. But, due to a weak story, preachy dialog—reams of which is orated by the "other woman," and a sort of general, unhinged condition, the picture fails to make the grade, though it does have some suspenseful and amusing moments.

Binnie Barnes is attractive and plays her hampering rôle conscientiously. Lois Wilson is believable as the wife who allows children and home duties to separate her interests from those of her husband. The children are neatly impersonated with the exception of the eldest son. This poor lad DOES give you a pain—especially when he debates with himself!

"There's Always Tomorrow" won't make much impression upon the average observer, I'm afraid. It may, however, cause Mother to turn a cogitative eye in Father's direction on those nights when he blithely prepares to go to "lodge."

[Which will be too bad. Because lodge is probably just where the poor, dear man IS going.]

See you tomorrow.

Eight Indians to Play Roles This Week in Blackhawk Festival

Eight Indians will take the leading rôles in an historical presentation which will be given nightly this week at 1441 Cleveland avenue as a feature of the Blackhawk Festival week of Olivet institute. The programs, which will begin tonight and continue through Saturday, will depict typical Indian life, the coming of the palefaces and impressive scenes from the career of Chief Blackhawk. Indian music and dances will be featured. Proceeds from the festival week will be used for social service work and the maintenance of recreational and educational facilities for young people and adults of the north side.

BLAZING GUNS

By WILLIAM MacLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Landis inherited the Lazy B ranch from her uncle. It adjoins the Circle 3 T ranch, owned by Chet Radbourne, powerful boss in the county, and Mary's legal guardian. He has been stealing Mary's cattle and trying to force her to marry him. To escape his tyranny Mary marries Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, within an hour after meeting him. There is bitter warfare between Cole and the Circle 3 T brand. The marriage is one in name only, giving them both better advantage to fight their common enemy. Mary stays in Jonesboro with Mr. Peters, a lawyer, and his wife. Cole drops in on Radbourne. A fight ensues. Two of Radbourne's men, Jerry Haskell, his foreman, and Curt Jordan, are injured. Cole escapes. Chet sends Jordan to Jonesboro to lie in wait for Cole. Jordan captures Mary and sends her back to the Circle 3 T. Cole, unaware of Mary's plight, rides into Jonesboro with Rusty Hunter, one of his trusted men. He gets Judge Fairley to sign an order terminating Mary's guardianship. Sheriff Magruder sends a scout to locate Jordan so that Cole can get out of town without encountering him.

INSTALMENT XIX.

SELF-DEFENSE.

Rusty interrupted impatiently. "Don't you recken that Mexican boy of yours is about due, Magruder?"

Cole laid a hand on his shoulder. "No need for you to get mixed up in this Rusty," he said. "Jordan isn't looking for you. Stay around here with Magruder. I'll make my break for a getaway. After a while you can mosey out to camp unmolested."

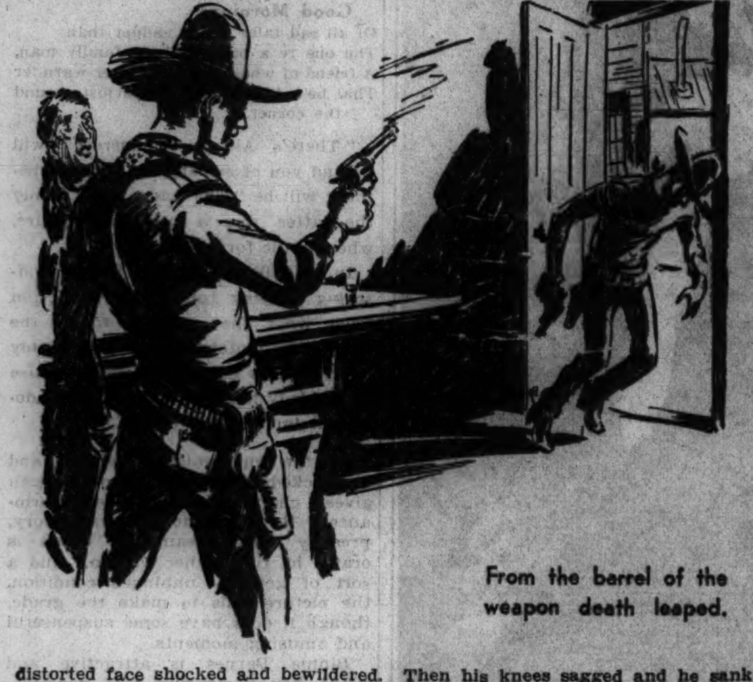
The oldtimer shook the hand from his shoulder. "Say, young fellow," he snarled, "from where I come from a man don't run out on his partner."

"You won't be running out on me, Rusty. I'm not fighting but ducking trouble. One can slip away more inconspicuous than two."

The side door of the Arcadia opened swiftly, as though blown in by a blast of wind. A bullet whistled past Cole's head and flung a splinter from the wall where it struck. In the doorway stood a man, a smoking revolver in his hand. The man was Curt Jordan. He moved a step or two forward, with wary catlike litheness, body swaying slightly. The face was venomous, the mouth a thin, cruel slit. His eyes were fixed on Sanborn. He came shooting, scabrous epithetis dripping from his mouth.

Cole whirled to meet him. The young man's arm swept up, dragging a .44 from its scabbard as it rose. From the barrel of the weapon death leaped.

The force of the bullet flung Jordan out of line, so that one of his shots struck an unlighted wall lamp. The Circle 3 T killer stood in his tracks, distorted face shocked and bewildered. Then his knees sagged and he sank to the floor.



From the barrel of the weapon death leaped.

Cole leaned slightly forward, every nerve and muscle keyed to instant response. He watched his enemy intently, a cold, fierce eagerness shining in his eyes.

Jordan made a desperate effort to lift his revolver, managed to raise himself on an elbow, then collapsed into a huddled heap.

Silence followed the crash of the guns. Men emerged from the shelter of the tables and chairs behind which they had dived.

Cole stood as motionless as the crumpled form on the floor. Not until he was sure Jordan was dead did he lift his eyes from the body.

Tongues began to buzz with excitement, released from the fear that had stilled them.

"Curt made a mistake coming after he'd been drinking hard. . . . He made a mistake coming at all. Cole was that cool and easy. . . . Never fired but once. . . . Well, Jordan sure asked for it . . ."

Sanborn pushed his revolver back into the holster. "I call you all to witness," he said evenly. "Jordan came in here shooting. I fired in self-defense. Nothing else I could do."

"That's right," the sherif agreed. "Cole was trying to get out of town without trouble, though he knew Jordan was threatening him. I'd just had his horse brought to the back door so he could slip away. He was noways to blame."

A chorus of those present approved this verdict.

Cole looked down at the still body of the man who had been hired to kill him. On the little finger of the hand that still clutched the sixshooter was a plain gold ring. Sanforn found himself wondering if once the man's mother or sweetheart had put it there.

Abruptly he plucked his thoughts back to the cold fact that the man had tried to murder him.

"Send for Alderson," he told the sherif. "I want to make sure the Beacon gets this right."

Doctor Burns arrived and examined the victim. Presently he rose. "He's past any help from me," he said. "Better send for the undertaker."

The undertaker was also the coroner. He was a Radbourne man.

"I want an inquest," Sanborn told him. "Right now while all the witnesses are present."

The coroner looked at him sulkily. "What for? You claim it was a fair fight, don't you?"

"I claim I killed him in self-defense after he was firing at me. But what I say doesn't go in this town. I want the facts brought out by unprejudiced parties."

Magruder spoke up. "Yes, let's have an inquest, Holt."

Under pressure from others Holt reluctantly consented.

Alderson came hurrying into the room as the jury was being chosen. He looked at Sanborn accusingly.

"Wait till you hear the evidence," the latter advised.

The jury listened to the evidence. Even Lauret was forced to testify that Jordan had been the aggressor, though he did it with bad grace. There was not a shred of testimony against Cole until Holt put Sanborn himself on the stand.

"Ever have any trouble with Jordan?" the coroner asked.

"He tried to make trouble for me at the Circle 3 T not long since," Cole said. "Drew a gun and attempted to kill me."

"What were you doing at the Circle 3 T, Mr. Sanborn?"

"I went there to talk with Chet Radbourne about my wife's property and to warn Chet not to hurt a hair of her head."

Cole had not raised his voice, but in the crowded room his words rang like a bell. There was a murmur of sympathetic accord. The general opinion in Boone county was that the owner of the Circle 3 T intended no good to his ward.

"Wasn't it your idea that maybe you might get a chance to kill Mr. Radbourne unnoticed and slip away?" Holt asked. "And when you were discovered didn't you try to get Mr. Radbourne? And didn't you shoot the foreman of the ranch and this man Jordan when they interfered to protect him?"

"No—to all three questions. Radbourne told me he was glad I had come. Jordan and Haskell drew and fired on me. I wounded them in self-defense."

"That's your story. Have you any witnesses to back it?"

"None. But any one using his brains could guess I wouldn't start trouble with thirty Circle 3 T men against me."

The coroner hesitated before he asked the next question. "Have you not been accused of robbing the K. & J. express car, Mr. Sanborn?"

"No." Cole looked steadily at the man. "Are you accusing me?"

"Not at all," the coroner said hastily. "But there are stories going around. Probably you have an alibi?"

"If I have I won't offer it here—unless you are trying me for the robbery," Cole said coolly.

"By jacks, you ought to be tried and hanged for killing poor Shrader," a voice from the crowd called excitedly.

Shrader was the express messenger who had been shot down by the bandits at the time of the train holdup.

Cole looked in the direction from which the voice had come. "Ought I to be hanged for a crime I didn't do?" he asked evenly.

"Who does the description on that poster fit?" some one else demanded.

"It fits me too well," retorted Cole instantly. "If I were robbing a train I'd have to be crazy before I would leave so perfect a description. Any fool can see the miscreant was trying to shove the thing on me because I have a bad name—and because he has a personal grudge at me."

"Ever have any trouble with Jerry Haskell before you shot him at the Circle 3 T, Mr. Sanborn?" asked the coroner.

"No."

"Something about a poker game at Summit."

"O, that. I wouldn't call it trouble. We sat in a game together."

"Didn't you beat him out of four-five hundred dollars?"

"I don't like the way you put it, sir," Cole said curtly. "I quit three hundred winner, if that's what you mean."

The coroner decided to drop the matter of the poker game.

A Friend in Need

By SALLY JOY BROWN.

"Dear Miss Brown: Though I am employed, I earn barely enough to supply my family with food and shelter. I have three children, aged 6, 3, and 15 months, respectively, and my income averages $15 per week.

"What I am asking you for are some old rugs or carpets, since this place is very cold in the winter and these articles are sorely needed to keep the children well. Also, if you could possibly get us an old cook stove [coal or wood] we should be very grateful. It is with apprehension that I look to the coming winter and these two things are needed to help us carry on during these difficult days.

Film Comedian Loses 8 Pounds Reading of Diet

English Actor Says Spirit Puts Chicago First.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—W. C. Fields has been plied with questions about his newer and slimmer silhouette. To an actress who insisted on knowing how he reduced the comedian said, "I took off eight pounds reading books on diet."

Montague Love, English actor who has been on this side of the Atlantic most of the time since 1915, believes he knows America better than any Yankee he ever met, due chiefly "to having played on the stage in nearly every American city of any size or consequence in the last 19 years."

The only city he didn't appear in was Chicago, but Love visited the Illinois metropolis this summer and says, "I think it is the greatest city in the United States because of the spirit of its people. In New York it is smart to be blasé. In many other cities it is smart to be provincial. But in Chicago there was a freshness, a vitality and an interest in things going on everywhere which impressed me as outstanding. I was struck by the way that Chicago women invited newcomers out to talk and discuss things of the world. Chicago may be the great center of commerce that they say it is, but to me it is a great center of expanding culture."

Love has just completed a movie appearance in "Limehouse Nights" with George Raft, Anna May Wong, and Jean Parker, and left Saturday for an eastern stage run in "Biography," starting at Westchester, N. Y.

Bing Crosby, who is tops among the crooners in Hollywood, both in film salary, countrywide following, and grosses on completed pictures, has broken down and confessed that he feared to travel to Chicago last month and sing in the Chicagoland Music Festival, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, "because I was afraid to go before that many people and because I didn't know whether they would like my singing."

Crosby was all set to make the Chicago trip two or three times, but each time got cold feet.

"You know, I'm no concert singer," Bing told his brother and manager, Everett Crosby, who is Bing's spokesman. "A lot of people think I am a great singer. I don't want to take a chance of disillusioning them." Not all Hollywood crooners display such reluctance as Crosby, however.

who received with their granddaughter at her wedding reception last year on their 49th anniversary. The Rogers' tiny house, attractively furnished and decorated, was filled to the eaves with guests over the week-end. Mrs. Rogers is hoping to visit in Chicago this winter.

Girls Going to Vassar to Attend Party Today.

The Chicago and the North Shore Vassar clubs are giving a luncheon at 1 o'clock today in the Trustees' lounge at the Fair for the debutantes and sub-debutantes who are entering college this year. Mrs. Gordon McKeldin of Evanston and Mrs. Stanley Pierce of Winnetka are to be the hostesses.

Some of the members of the freshman class will be Miss Nancy Ryerson, daughter of the Edward L. Ryersons; Miss Joan Smith, daughter of the Harold C. Smiths; Miss Harriet Welling, the John P. Wellings' daughter, all of whom probably will make their debuts next year. A debutante who will be entering Vassar is Miss Margery Preston, the Howard P. Prestons' daughter, who with her sister, Miss Virginia Preston, will bow at a dinner dance at the Saddle and Cycle club tomorrow night.

Among the debutantes who will be returning for their sophomore year at Vassar are Miss Henrietta Boal, Miss Leslie Wilson, Miss Medora Pelouze, and Miss Eleanor Kirkland, and others returning for their sophomore year are Miss Anne Palmer, Miss Betty Sheldon, Miss Phoebe Swazey, Miss Betty Weston, Miss Frances Lasker, and Miss Eleanor McKenna. Miss Pauline Seipp, Miss Mary Young, Miss Frances Wells, and Miss Elizabeth Eckhart are returning to graduate, and Miss Harriet Fentress, Miss Diana Peirce, Miss Jane Northrup, Miss Elizabeth Allen, Miss Elizabeth Quigley, Miss Jane Bethgate, and Miss Jane Dubbs will go back for their third year.

Also entering as freshmen this year are Miss Anna Burnham, Miss Mary Bartelme, Miss Caroline Buck, Miss Florence Hermes, Miss Elizabeth Stern, Miss Barbara Kelley, whose mother, Mrs. Charles D. Kelley, is a Vassar graduate; Miss Jean McWilliams, Miss Sarah Savage, and Miss Virginia Munster.

Tomorrow afternoon, in the redecorated lounge of the Chicago College club, alumnæ of Smith will entertain at tea for the young women from Chicago and the suburbs who will go to Northampton for the first time this fall. This group includes Miss Mary Burley and Miss Anne McCall of Winnetka, Miss Elizabeth Connell of River Forest, Miss Carolyn Ferry of Lake Bluff, Miss Helen Baldwin of Wilmette, Miss Charlotte Stenberg, Miss Margaret Pearson, and Miss Elizabeth Ann Tittle of Evanston, Miss Jane Hubbell of Oak Park, and Miss Joan Gravoig, and Miss Jane Boucher.

Lake Geneva Summer Homes Being Closed.

Homes in Lake Geneva are slowly being closed. The Earle Zimmermans and Dr. and Mrs. William P. Finney are boarding up their houses today and the William N. Pelouzes will be coming to town Thursday. Mrs. William G. Cutler of Pasadena, who has been visiting her brother, Col. Pelouze, and his wife, will fly back to California Thursday evening. James A. Avriett of Cleveland was a guest of the Pelouzes, and Mrs. Alice Hatch and her son, Aldis B. Hatch Jr., and Mrs. Arline Peck Warwick were guests there over the week-end.

The Henry Bartholomays will keep their home open through October if the weather permits. The Daniel Peterkins are week-ending in their lovely place and the Alfred F. Gartzes will week-end at their home from now until November. The John F. Jenningses will arrive at their Chicago club home tomorrow from Africa. Mr. Jennings went to Africa last spring in the interests of the Field museum and was joined there by Mrs. Jennings. Their two daughters have spent the summer with their grandparents, the John Fowlers. Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson, who did not open her home at Lake Geneva this summer, has visited Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson periodically and is expected there again.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SHORT-SUITED GRAND SLAMS.

In the last article I showed how a grand slam could reasonably be reached by a decision of the opening bidder based on inferences drawn from his partner's bids made in and after acceptance of the slam try. This particular development assured him that the responding hand held the three missing kings together with the right 4-4-3-2 distribution required to make the grand slam in the suit a strong probability. The bidding and thinking procedure therein utilized will apply to virtually all holdings of a similar nature, and I do not think I need show a second application of them to any other illustrative hand. Today I will take up the distinctly simpler but probably much rarer case when

The Short-Suited Responding Hand Can Decide For or Against a Grand Slam.

For the responder to be able to mark in his partner's hand the high cards needed for a grand slam, knowing that the opener could not bid two no trumps originally, you will find that it is in the first place necessary for this player to hold three tricks in a form which rules out an immediate slam try response of three no trumps over one no trump. You will remember that this jump raise must not be made without two aces or one ace and a king-queen holding, in a hand containing three primary tricks. The fact that he has, on account of what may appear to be a finicky technicality, underbid a three trick hand on the first round may enable the responder to visualize the material for a grand slam when his partner makes a slam try over the first minimum response. In other words, the playing handicap inflicted by lack of suit length may be overcome when opener has an actual slam try and responder would have had one but for this particular stipulation regarding the immediate timing factor as represented by definite first and second round control. This sounds rather complicated, but it is really quite simple when you see the two kinds of responding hands to which I am referring. That is to say, three trick hands containing (a) no ace; or (b) one ace, but no second ace and no king-queen to accompany the lone ace.

Example of Unfavorable Three Trick Responding Hand Containing an Ace.

If you hold

Sp. A Q x Di. Q J x
Ht. K x x x Cl. K x x

and your partner bids a no trump, your response must be only two no trumps, not three, because although you have an ace, you lack a second ace or a king-queen combination. Suppose that your partner surprisingly bids four no trumps over your minimum raise, thereby showing five primary tricks. You can name his primary values within one card. They are practically the only ones missing. Let us visualize them as arranged in the most unfavorable manner:

Sp. K x x Di. A K x
Ht. A x x x Cl. A Q x

and you can see that grand slam is out of the question, though small slam is centain unless you have to lose two heart tricks. For a grand slam in hearts or no trump you need your partner to hold in addition the queen of hearts. If he held that card together with the others located in his hand, he would have had an original two no-trump bid. Therefore, if he holds this card, either he lacks the queen of clubs, bringing another loser into view, or his spade holding is not headed by the king, but justifies his strong bidding by consisting of four cards. It should be no worse than J x x x. Consequently, you must sign off at six no trumps unless your partner bids six hearts over your five no-trump acceptance of his slam try. In this event you should pass in rubber play but bid six no trumps in match play. Seven hearts, however, is out of the question as you must expect to lose a spade trick even if you win the finesse against the king. It is true that he now appears to have four of each major suit, so that his hand will get a discard; but what use will that be if he can only throw a spade from J x x x? You will find that in spite of your three tricks, it is almost impossible for you to figure out a feasible grand slam hand for your partner which would at the same time call for a mere one no trump opening bid and also justify the four no trump slam try. Yours is not the type of hand for grand slam development on this bidding. Tomorrow I will give you a hand with the same high cards that does contain maximum possibilities.

WEDDINGS

Dr. and Mrs. Emil Heinrich Oelke of 121 West Wesley street, Wheaton, announce the marriage of their daughter Helen Louise to Thomas Oliver McClure Jr., also of Wheaton, last Saturday. The wedding took place at the bride's home with the Rev. C. Claud Travis of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Wheaton officiating. After Oct. 1 Mr. and Mrs. McClure will be at home at 1032 North Dearborn parkway. Mrs. McClure attended Beloit college, where she was a member of Phi Beta Phi sorority and of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Rowland Hill of East Orange, N. J., announce the marriage of their daughter, Jean Swan, to Ernest Clayton Johnson Jr., son of Mrs. Ernest Clayton Johnson of East Orange, formerly of Chicago, and the late Mr. Johnson, which took place last Wednesday in the Munn Avenue Presbyterian church in East Orange. A reception followed at the Rock Spring club.

BY MARY MEADE.

With small sons and daughters scrambling for books and speeding mothers scrambling for sandwiches, the educational season is getting off to its usual exciting start.

Which would all be perfectly fine if it weren't for the little imp of worry which prowls in the mind of every lunch packing mother. What in creation shall we put in the sandwiches when the young ones get tired—as they always do—of peanut butter, cheese, and cold ham? So we're arriving early on the scene with suggestions for varying these easiest of fillings, that the lunch eaters may not grow weary and that the put-uppers still may have time for the other legion duties and pleasures of the day.

Often, of course, school lunchrooms are the rule. But even oftener the hot dish found there must be supplemented by something homemade. A lunch of bread and butter and an apple is not enough. It's important to think of that midday lunch as exactly one-third of the child's nourishment for the whole day.

Too often we forget that active young bodies need, besides starchy foods to give heat and energy, also the protein lineup of meats and eggs for supplying body building, iron and copper for rich red blood, phosphorus and calcium for straight bones and teeth, and vitamins to keep up body resistance.

Meat sandwiches for schoolgoers form a first rate way of supplying each of these important items. They're easily packed, they may be varied and surprising and children love them.

Some like them chopped and some like them whole, so change your methods as well as your meats. Sliced leftover roast beef, pork, or lamb between bread with slivers of lettuce and salad dressing make speedy, popular sandwiches. Or chop the meat in the food grinder, blend it with seasoning, and moisten it with salad dressing, a little melted butter, or chili sauce.

Once chopped, meat lends itself to endless possibilities. Combine it with chopped celery, chopped pickles, minced watercress or parsley, chopped onion, hard cooked eggs, grated carrots, or sliced olives. Moisten with mayonnaise or with melted butter. Either salad dressing or mayonnaise takes on an added nip and glamor if it is seasoned with bits of chives, a chopping of onion, or a little finely minced green pepper.

Curry butter is something else which puts pep into mayonnaise. We make it by beating ¼ pound of softened butter to cream, then stirring into it 1 teaspoon of curry powder and ½ teaspoon of lemon juice. Blend a little of this with salad dressing or mayonnaise and watch those sandwiches disappear.

Meat loaves, with their chewy, already roasted goodness, will set any young thing to boasting about his mother's cooking. And when these same loaves, on the day after, come to school between slices of buttered bread, happiness reigns. Liver loaf, because of its generous allotment of important vitamins, is the perfect sandwicher. Watch this one raise cheers from the family.

Liver Loaf.

[The Perfect Sandwicher.]

1½ pounds raw liver
4 slices bacon
2 biscuits of wheat shreds
3 eggs, well beaten
¾ cup corn meal
¾ cup chopped onion
Salt and pepper to taste
¾ teaspoon sage
1 cup milk
½ cup catsup.

Scald the liver, then run it through the grinder with the bacon. Combine with it all the other ingredients and blend them well. Pack the mixture into a buttered baking pan which has been lined with strips of bacon. Over the smoothed top lay more bacon strips and bake the loaf about one hour in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.]. For sandwiches chill the loaf and cut it cold, placing the pieces between buttered slices of whole wheat bread.

Kinky Hair and Fussy Clothes Ruin Grooming

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Dekink is a funny word. But it suited the occasion as none other would. "I'd like to take that girl and dekink her," said a famous connoisseur, watching a certain young lady on the dance floor. She was a "frizzy." Costume frizzy, hair frizzy, her conversation probably frizzy, too. You don't see many of her kind any more, not in young girls. You'll sometimes see an older woman who should have relinquished the jeune fille rôle years ago, whose getup can be described as nothing but frizzy.

So dekinking may not be such a funny word. It means dispossessing oneself of every little extra wave, frills, beaus, etc., and substituting line and simple elegance. By extra wave is meant the tight set of wave and curl, when coiffures call for large waves and curls that look natural.

Fussy is perhaps a better word than frizzy. After all, hair is about the only thing that rightfully comes under the classification. And there is more fussiness clung to by women today than frizziness. They wear fussy clothes, fussy shoes, fussy bags, fussy gloves, fussy jewelry, which isn't at all according to Hoyle these days. Driving along in the summer you would see girls dressed up for Sunday afternoon parade in fussy printed chiffons, say, and very fussy street shoes. A few paces behind the fussy one would be a chic young person stepping along smartly in an ensemble devoid of fuss, frill and furbelow. The latter was the one your eye was pleased to feast on for the moment.

The fall and winter do not permit of the same degree of fussiness. Even so, there's opportunity for that extra trimming wrinkle without which one is better off. The Frenchwoman has a saying to the effect: "Don't see what you can add to your ensemble. See what you can take away from it." Meaning, leave off every gee-gaw, flower, ribbon, necklace, bracelet, ring, etc., that you can get along without.

The same might go for makeup. A face can look fussy with rouge. Eyes can look fussy with shadow. Anyway, we might see if this word dekinking couldn't be applied to ouselves with profit.

Wise Parents Ignore Child's "Bad Words"

Acting Shocked Increases His Delight in Them.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I READ: "We're not in a good neighborhood and unfortunately I am away a great deal. My young man of 5 is old enough to go out and play with such children as are available. Occasionally he comes home with 'bad words.' Everybody in the family is shocked. I ignore it as much as possible, but nobody else does. They show that they are shocked, they talk about it, and scold. Can you tell me a painless way to break this habit?"

To a certain extent, this "bad word" phase has to wear itself out. If the right sort of language is used at home, a large amount of ignoring and a little tactful suggestion will steer the young adventurer in language into acceptable speech habits.

For all it is, is adventuring in language. Somewhere around 5 years of age the craft of childhood sails away a little from the sheltered harbor of home. School, perhaps—the streets—more contacts, develop the 5 year old. He tries his wings in many ways, and language is only one of them. Against the gentle language of his "womenfolk," these words that we call "bad" sound strange and vigorous and full of color. This is especially true of the so-called "swear words." They help him to express in words a lusty emotion, though simple imitation too is a cause of his adopting them.

There are other words which offend us more—those are the "street" names with a sex connotation, or vulgar names for parts or functions of the body. Let us not show ourselves shocked even at these.

Perhaps I've related in this column the story told me by a witty old lady who loved children of all ages. A little boy of 7 in her group at the settlement repeatedly used a new word he had learned in the street, obviously to shock her. It is an old Anglo-Saxon word which has fallen into disrepute. After he had said it several times she looked at him sweetly.

"I heard you before, Peter. I know that word—I read it in my Bible this morning," she said, stealing his thunder.

Ignore most of the "bad words." They usually die out of a child's vocabulary from lack of attention. Explain, if a word seems "set," that it's not the way we talk. And teach your child early correct names for parts and functions of the body.

For further suggestions, write for our leaflet, "When Your Child Brings Home Bad Words," which will be sent on receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Our sex education booklet contains other helpful suggestions. Please send postage for EACH piece of printed matter requested.

The common potato originated in South America and was introduced to Europe by the Spaniards. The Irish were among the first people to adopt it as a staple food, and it soon became known as the "Irish potato."

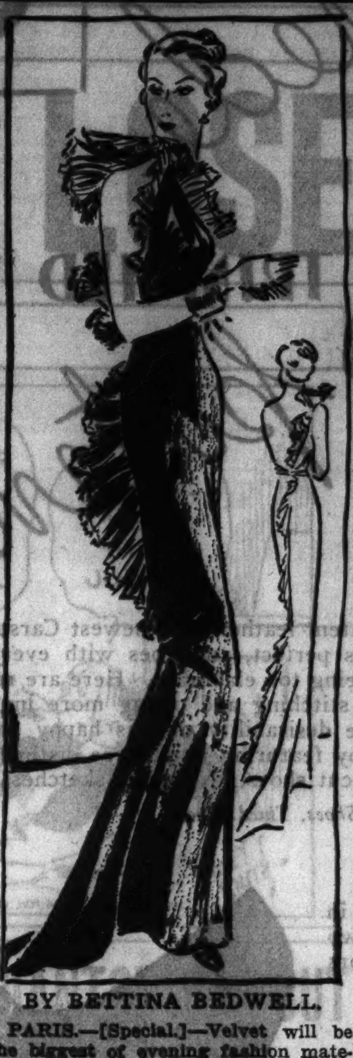
Two New Velvets Make Their Bow in Paris Styles



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Velvet will be the biggest of evening fashion materials this season, if Paris has her say. It is not, however, the velvet we know that is smart. Two new velvets that are so beautiful they take your breath away have replaced the usual ones for evening clothes in France. One is called moire velvet and the other faille velvet. They are woven like the silks of these names, but the water mark of the moire and the ribbed design of the faille are done in pile velvet, while the underweave is silk.

These come always in two colors, the underweave one and the velvet pile another, or the underweave gold and the pile color. They look changeable as changeable taffeta does, but infinitely richer. Darkest brown, green, blue, and violet, with an underweave of gold is high chic. The stunning evening gown pictured is made of black faille velvet and an underweave of sapphire blue.

Rosine-Paris, who dresses any number of titled women all over Europe, designed this frock. She trims it with ruffles of the velvet. It is really a sheath with a long skirt trailing in back, slit from knees to hem. The ruffle down the back of the skirt hides the split partially. The fitted bodice comes up in a point on the right shoulder in front, and the left shoulder is bare.

Family Temper Can Warp Son's Marriage Ideas

Memory of Sad Childhood May Inspire Fear.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Mothers of sons are urged to read the following letter. It gives an idea of the influence of the irascible female parent when a son comes to marrying age.

"I think a lot of a girl," writes J. "I know she has some liking for me, too. But until I get this worry off my mind I do not want it to go any farther.

"I don't trust girls, somehow. Maybe the reason is this: When I was a youngster at home I had things pretty tough. My mother, although a good woman, has a temper and loses all control of herself, going on a rampage which, when I was younger, caused every one in the house to tremble with fear. I think I can truly say that my earliest memory of her was one of ill treatment, when she beat me so much I fell out of my chair. As I grew older, after the beatings, it seemed as if she wished to make up for it and would sometimes take me to a show. But if she met any of the women in the neighborhood and engaged in conversation with them, she would, however, tell them about our latest 'fuss.'

"I don't want to be considered too sensitive, but you must admit that to a boy of 11 to 14 years of age nothing could be more humiliating.

"I got out from under this atmosphere eventually in the usual boy's way of leaving home. I am happier now where I am than I ever was before, but I do get moody fits at times. The continual humiliation in my youth has made me self-conscious, and I have set up a wall of defense which I cannot seem to break down. I do not allow my temper to get the best of me, because I am afraid of what I may do. I bottle up my feelings as best I can, but a sour childhood memory taunts me often.

"My dad was a great guy in every sense of the word, but was too easy-going to resist my mother's tantrums.

"If I can, I would rather stay single, much as I would like to marry the particular girl, for I'd hate to make my wife's life a hell on earth or treat my children as I was treated."

LONDOS KEEPS WORKING WHILE PARTNERS MOAN

15,000 Seats at $1.20 Go on Sale Today.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Jim Londos, whose claim to the title of the best wrestler in the world will be disputed Thursday night at Wrigley field by Ed [Strangler] Lewis, declined to take a holiday yesterday from his preparatory labors. Instead of resting, as did Lewis, Londos went through his routine at the Mayfair Casino against his long suffering hireling, Hans Bauer and Dick Raines.

Londos gradually has increased the length of his daily drills. He never eases up from the moment he steps into the gymnasium ring until Ed White, his manager, calls quits for the day.

Lewis Sure He'll Win.

That Lewis took a vacation yesterday is no reflection on his training. The four time champion has been in the business long enough to know how much work he needs to get ready for a match such as this promises to be. And if he isn't ready, he is the one who will suffer. Incidentally, Lewis is so positive he can beat Londos that he took the championship bout without pay other than training expenses. Lewis believes he will win and collect from future engagements as champion of the world.

This morning Chicago has its first opportunity to purchase $1.20 tickets for Thursday night's show. Fifteen thousand of these tickets will go on sale. All are reserved. They may be bought at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and the Hall of Science at A Century of Progress beginning at 9 o'clock.

Get Tickets Now!

Since all tickets are reserved, the early comers will get the best of these tickets. Other tickets are available at $2.40, $3.60, and $6. All prices include the state and federal taxes.

The $1.20 price stands at the greatest bargain in history of sport for a show of this calibre. In addition to the Londos-Lewis championship bout with a time limit of an hour and a half after which a decision will be given if neither has won by a fall, Don George, one time claimant to the title, will wrestle Jim McMillen with a 30 minute time limit. Supporting these two wrestling bouts are 28 rounds of boxing and a four round exhibition by Barney Ross.

Watch Out, King!

King Levinsky, for four years one of the most colorful of heavyweights, is scheduled for ten rounds against Art Sykes, one of the younger heavyweight hitters. Levinsky has fought nearly every outstanding heavyweight in the country. He met Max Baer, present heavyweight champion, twice and Baer failed to knock the King off his feet in the 30 rounds of the two fights. King's proudest boast is that he's never been knocked out. Sykes, who will be outweighed, carries a heavy punch and there are many who predict he'll take the King decisively in ten rounds.

Outstanding on the boxing program is the ten rounder between Leo Rodak, undefeated bantamweight, and Everett [Young] Rightmire. Rightmire has lost only one bout in 87.

Ross, Dempsey on Card.

Young Stuhley and Solly Dukelsky have eight rounds in which to decide their argument. Both are middleweights. Then there's Barney Ross' exhibition and the personal appearance of Jack Dempsey, boxing's most glamorous figure, who will referee one of the boxing matches.

The balloting for wrestling judges their selection by Chairman Joe Triner ends at midnight. All votes received in THE TRIBUNE sports department by that time or postmarked prior to midnight will be accepted. Capt. W. L. Malone, veteran police officer, appears certain of finishing in first place. The names of the six highest in the list will be submitted to the Illinois Athletic commission which will name two of these men to judge the Lewis-Londos bout. They will be notified of their selection by Chairman Joe Triner just before the bout starts. All six will be at the ringside.

All principals in the cast will appear at the commission offices tomorrow for physical examinations. This will be repeated Thursday afternoon when official weighing-in also will take place.

This afternoon and tomorrow afternoon will see the windup of training activities. Lewis will resume training today at Trafton's gymnasium and climax his campaign tomorrow as will Londos at the Mayfair Casino.

Hurry! Hurry!

BALLOTS from fans voting for judges of the Londos-Lewis bout must be in The Tribune sports department by midnight tonight, or postmarked before that time, to count in the contest.

2 Track Records Set as Germany Beats Finland

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Germany defeated Finland, 106½ to 96½, in an international track and field meet today. Two new national records were set as Tolamo of Finland broad jumped 7.51 meters, or 24 feet 8½ inches, and Seeger of Germany tossed the hammer 47.45 meters, or 155 feet 7 13-16 inches.

Vote on Wrestling Judges

Returns in the contest to pick judges for the Londos-Lewis championship wrestling match at Wrigley field Thursday appear below. There are no restrictions except that you must be convinced your candidates are honest and competent. Send your first two choices to the Wrestling Editor, Chicago Tribune. The six leaders will be submitted to the Illinois athletic commission and from this group two will be chosen. The contest closes at midnight. Today's leaders:

Capt. W. L. Malone	91,442	A. H. Vondenbosch	27,198
Frank Harmon	56,819	Ernest Byfield	24,162
Sheldon Clark	51,227	Kaare Krogh	23,900
John V. Clinnin	47,120	Tug Wilson	20,824

"WHERE IS THIS KINGFISH PERSON?"

Cold Weather Now Menaces Ross, M'Larnin

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The greatly distressed promoters of the oft-postponed Barney Ross-Jimmy McLarnin fight for the welterweight championship of the world tonight were going grimly forward with their plans to stage the show tomorrow night. With four postponements already scored against the enterprise the weather man now is promising a new hazard in the form of cold weather.

It was said, however, that the fight will be held tonight if there is the slightest letup in the promised rain. If it is just cold the weather man has to offer, come fight time, he won't have a chance to wreck the show for the fifth time. There is some talk of putting on the contest even if there is a slight drizzle.

Ross Is Still Favored.

The fourth postponement so far has brought no change in the betting or the free style experting, Ross continuing the favorite at 8 to 5, with 2 to 1 predicted for ring time.

Only light workouts were ordered today, and it is said that the exercises tomorrow morning will be based on the requirements of the official weighing in ceremonies.

The fighters will get on the scales for the New York athletic commission at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It is expected the champion will scale around 139, while McLarnin is not figured to show much of a margin between his heft and the 147 pound limit.

Promoters Deny Broadcast Plan.

Reports that there had been a belated authorization of a radio broadcast were denied by promoters. However, a bootleg broadcast was effected in competition with the authorized broadcast of the Baer-Carnera fight, and it was said a similar plan will be attempted tomorrow night.

ENDEAVOUR AND RAINBOW TO SAIL 2D RACE TODAY

Airplanes Get Blame for Yachts' Lack of Speed.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newport, R. I., Sept. 16.—It is a privilege to disclose to a panting public the genuine facts concerning the failure of two racing yachts, built at a cost of well over half a million dollars apiece, to cruise thirty miles within the time limit of five and one-half hours. This unhappy circumstance yesterday caused the "no contest" sign to be hung out in the first of the America's cup races.

On this day of rest, some thousands of experts mouthed some millions of words in discussion of yesterday's fizzle. The consensus was that both the Endeavour, the British challenger for the cup, and the Rainbow, the American defender, are marvelous racing machines, but that the elements yesterday did not give them a chance to display their qualities.

Tomorrow the contenders will be sent away again on a fifteen mile beat to windward and return, or the reverse, if conditions permit. Much of the great spectator fleet that followed them yesterday remained in Newport harbor for resumption of the contest. Tomorrow's race, and all that follow, are scheduled to start at 10:40 a. m. [eastern standard time], although weather conditions may force delays.

Seeks Out Skippers.

In a diligent search for a more cogent explanation of the sorry spectacle presented by the two mighty sloops, this correspondent sought out both skippers, Harold S. Vanderbilt, the bridge expert, and Thomas Sopwith, the airplane manufacturer, and uncovered the sinister facts concerning the debacle.

Although both Mr. Vanderbilt and Mr. Sopwith expressed horror at the intimation that they were offering an alibi, they united in a bitter condemnation of the airplanes which whizzed about the two contestants during the race. In fact, they admitted the airplanes spoiled the struggle.

Some persons unfamiliar with the high technical and meticulous sport of yacht racing may need an explanation of the manner in which the planes thwarted the noble purpose of Mr. Vanderbilt and Mr. Sopwith to finish the race at an average speed of six miles an hour. It is herewith furnished.

Set Up Baffling Currents.

Those pesky airplanes, it seems, with their swooping and diving about the two yachts, set up air currents which baffled the pilots. It became impossible to know whether a Genoa jib or a quadrilateral jib should be set under such circumstances. A yacht, it was revealed, is an inconstant thing and becomes sulky when the air currents are not just right.

"I spent half my time waving at the airplanes to stay away," said Mr. Sopwith, his Britith fortitude displayed in a tight smile.

"The planes were always a menace," admitted Mr. Vanderbilt, who was engaged in a bridge game in which he threw away an ace and a king and thereby made a grand slam in hearts.

Spectators Crave Action.

So stern orders have been issued to the news reel men and photographers whose efforts to get closeup pictures from planes slowed down the racers yesterday. They must stay off the course when the series is resumed. It will be tough for the skippers if they do not finish in time tomorrow. There may be rude insinuations from the spectators that action is desirable in an international sporting event.

Capt. Ben Pine, skipper of the champion fishing schooner, the Gertrude L. Thebaud, who watched the indecisive struggle yesterday, was tactful in his comments.

"Both boats are of very good design," commented Capt. Pine with a roguish twinkle in his eye. "I should say that the Endeavour is as good a boat as the Rainbow."

Rainbow's Crew Better.

Thus qualifying for a diplomatic post in a South American country where the presidency changes every fortnight, Capt. Pine went on to point out some of the fine points of the race which have been missed by landlubbers.

"The Rainbow's professional crew

LONDOS AND LEWIS.

DEAR WAKE: In recent article, you stated your belief Londos-Lewis match at Wrigley field Thursday night was not "one of those things," citing that Londos receives the bulk of receipts not going to charity, while Lewis, in order to get the match, was willing to accept only training expenses.

Is your reasoning logical? If Lewis gets no money from the bout, what is to prevent Londos from making a secret agreement to pay Lewis part or all his percentage, Londos to retain title? Haven't such things happened? I'm open minded but still a bit skeptical toward wrestling, although I intend to see the show because of its possibilities. A. T. Reid.

Editor's note: We do not think there is any general doubt of the genuineness of this bout. Of course, none can say conclusively in advance that any event involving money rewards, be it sport or business, is on the level. There have been 29 world series since the peace agreement. One of them was "wrong," the Black Sox incident of 1919.

Now about this wrestling. Contributor Reid's suspicion, if justified, would involve both wrestlers and their managers, also go-betweens, if any. Well, let's dismiss the question of integrity, which the parties concerned certainly would argue vehemently, and consider only obstacles in the way of a secret agreement if the principals and their managers were willing.

Naturally, the first consideration is money. Winner of this bout, as champion, will have an earning capacity during the next year of at least $100,000, even in a time of depression. Could Londos pay Lewis enough, or the reverse, to toss a match? Apart from confidence of both men and their long standing hatred, which we are confident is not adopted for box office purposes, would either Londos or Lewis pay his rival $100,000, or any large sum, to toss a match which each of them to all intents and purposes thinks he can win in a true test? We don't think so.

But there's another angle—the well known double-cross. If all were willing to make an agreement, what assurance would the agreed loser have of getting his money if not paid in advance? If paid in advance, what assurance would the payer have that he would not be double-crossed? You recall that not all the Black Sox received the cash promised for throwing games in 1919 to Cincinnati. Words of chaps who would enter a nefarious agreement are not worth much in promises.

If it be considered on the basis of money only without regard to honesty or reputation, there is one other way to gain by a fixed bout. That would be a betting sure thing. But for years no considerable amounts have been wagered on wrestling contests.

The Wake would not answer at this length except that questions similar to those of the writer have been not infrequent because of wrestling's past reputation. The Wake will not undertake to say a wrestling match could not be fixed, but the possibilities in the present instance, for reasons stated, are so remote we think they may be dismissed entirely.

We are firmly convinced that the Londos-Lewis contest will be what it purports to be, the endeavor of each principal to win as quickly as he is able. Whether that will afford as good entertainment from the viewpoint of the spectators as an "exhibition" remains for Thursday night to determine. Anyway, it's what we long have wished to see.

GIANTS' LEAD CUT TO 3½ GAMES AS CARDS WIN PAIR

Lose First Contest, 5-3; and 2d in 11th, 3-1.

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Before the largest crowd that ever jammed into the Polo Grounds, 62,573 fans, the Cardinals and the Dean brothers exercised their charm over the Giants today to win a double-header, 5 to 3, and 3 to 1.

The second game went eleven innings in a struggle between Paul Dean and Carl Hubbell before Pepper Martin's homer broke the spell and started the Cards off to victory. A four run rally in the seventh won the opener for Dizzy Dean although he went out for a pinch hitter in that inning.

The Cards thus reduced New York's lead to 3½ games in the pennant race with 12 more games to play for the Giants and 14 for St. Louis.

After Martin's homer broke up the duel in the eleventh in the second game the Cards added an extra run on Rothrock's single, Frisch's sacrifice and Medwick's single. Dizzy Dean gained his 26th victory of the year and Paul his 17th, the latter giving only six hits over the long route. Scores:

DODGERS WIN 11-6 AND 5-4 WITH 30 HITS

First Double Defeat for Chicagoans.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The Cubs, after operating all season without taking a double licking, today picked this town and the sixth place Dodgers for the humiliating experience of going down in defeat twice in one afternoon. They took an 11 to 6 trimming in the first game and the score of the second game blistering was 5 to 4, though it was much worse than such a tabulation would indicate.

The clouds are indeed gray for Mr. Wrigley's once proud and spirited crew. Today they started business with a mathematical chance to go into second place by a margin of a game and a half. But when the bleak shadows fell at eventide they were two and a half games back of the wideawake Cards.

Kiki Steps Out.

The only thing about the first game any Chicago partisan should remember was the hitting of Kiki Cuyler, who made five hits in five times at bat.

A total of 33 hits were knocked in the first game—19 by the Dodgers and 14 by the Cubs. Aside from Cuylers distinctive work the hitting was pretty well distributed, Hack getting two doubles and Stainback two singles to lead the rest of the hitters.

There were 25 hits in the second game to bring the afternoon's total to 58. Of the second game total the Dodgers compiled eleven off Lee. The Cubs made eleven off Watson Clark, making his first start since returning to the Dodgers in mid-June, and [illegible] off Zachary.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs made two runs in the first inning and these prevailed as a 2 to 0 lead until after two were out in the Dodgers' half of the inning. The inning ended with the teams tied.

With one out in the Cub half Billy Herman lined a double off the distant left field wall and stopped at third on Cuyler's single to right. Stephenson singled to left, scoring Herman and putting Cuyler on third, whence Ki scored on Stainback's long fly to Koenecke. Cuccinello threw out O'Farrell.

Frederick fanned to open the Brooklyn offensive and Frey bounced out to Hurst. Koenecke then beat out a single over second and Leslie walked. Cuccinello dropped a double in front of Cuyler in left center, scoring Koenecke and Leslie. Taylor flied to Stephenson.

It All Happened Late.

There also were two out in the third inning when the Dodgers launched their second scoring foray. The Cubs proved very poor mudders in this session. After Frey and Koenecke had supplied infield outs, Leslie got credit for a single when Jurges slipped and sat down in the mire after capturing his grounder. Cuccinello lined a single to right center, Leslie stopping at second. Taylor singled to right, scoring Leslie and putting Cuccinello on third. Billy Herman slipped while going after Jordan's grounder, enabling Cuccinello to score and Taylor to take third. Lopez tapped to Weaver, who plowed up a mass of sod as he slipped and fell, Taylor scoring. Benge was thrown out by Weaver.

Singles by Frederick and Frey, a base on balls to Leslie, and a single to center by Cuccinello, which drove in two runs, drove Weaver to cover in the fourth. Root came in and got the side out.

Dodgers Ramble On.

Lopez led off the fifth with his third and the Dodgers' twelfth hit, a triple to right center. Al held third while Benge and Frederick were retired, then scored on Frey's triple to right center. Koenecke walked, but Leslie fanned.

Cuccinello led off the sixth inning with his fourth straight hit and reached second on a passed ball. Taylor walked and, after Jordan had flied to Stainback, Lopez walked, filling the bases. Benge was called out on

GREEN BAY AND BOSTON WIN PRO LEAGUE OPENERS

Cardinals Run Up 33 to 0 Score on Tigers.

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Boston Redskins and Green Bay Packers hung up opening game victories in the National Professional Football league today.

Boston, led by the old West Virginia Wesleyan star, Cliff Battles, earned a close 7 to 0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates at Pittsburgh, while Green Bay was swamping Philadelphia, 19 to 6.

Stopped three times within the Pittsburgh 10 yard line, Boston finally scored via the air. Battles ran back a punt to the Pittsburgh 28 yard line early in the third period, and running plays took it to the 16. On fourth down Steve Hokuf tossed a pass to Charley Malone, who grabbed the ball on the two yard line and stepped over for the touchdown. Battles place kicked the extra point.

Monnett Leads Packer Attack.

The defeat left Pittsburgh holding a .500 percentage in the standing. The Pirates defeated Cincinnati last week in the first game of the league season.

Bob Monnett, who used to score his touchdowns for Michigan State, counted 16 of Green Bay's 19 points against Philadelphia. Monnett place kicked a field goal in the first period, scored two touchdowns, one on a 28 yard run, and place kicked one extra point in the second period. Ade Schwammel, big tackle, completed Green Bay's scoring with a place kick from the 38 yard line in the third period.

Swede Ansen, Philadelphia full back, scored the invading team's touchdown on a sensational 62 yard run in the third quarter.

CARDINALS, 33; TIGERS, 0

The Chicago Cardinals, playing their first game of the season, beat the Chicago Tigers, 33 to 0, at Normal park yesterday.

Touchdowns were scored in the first quarter by Bill Smith, former Washington U. end, and Dougal Russell, a back man from Kansas State. The Cardinals' second team was pressed into service in the second quarter and went scoreless. In the third period Henry Cronkite, end from Kansas State, and Bob Neumann, formerly of Illinois Wesleyan, scored. Dave Cook and Paul Pardonner kicked.

Joe Krijic slid over the line for a touchdown in the last few seconds of play. Cronkite kicked the extra point.

O'Connell and Halsted Reach Tennis Final

Frank O'Connell and Thane Halsted battled their way to the final of the Illinois state tennis tournament yesterday at the Chicago Town and Tennis club. They will meet Saturday afternoon for the title.

O'Connell had a real battle from Bill Parkhill, Tilden Tech faculty member, before winning, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3, but Halsted easily defeated Karl Kamrath, 6-0, 6-3, 6-0.

Halsted and O'Connell then teamed to reach the final in the doubles, beating Jose Alonzo and Gene Quinn, 6-4, 6-1, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4. They will meet George and Russell Ball, El Paso, Tex., for the title Saturday afternoon.

The Ball brothers beat Joe Harris and Karl Kamrath, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, to enter the final match.

Eugenie Kamrath and Theodosia Smith defeated Jackie Ayer and Helen Bartavis, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, in a women's doubles semi-final, and played two sets against Helen Fulton and Elizabeth Kesting, the latter of St. Paul, when darkness halted the match. The former won the first set, 6-4, the latter pair took the second, 6-2, and they were 5-all when they retired. The match will be concluded this morning.

Eugenie Kamrath and Helen Fulton will play Wednesday for the women's singles championship.

BLUE RIBBONS WIN THREE TO LENGTHEN LEAD

The Pabst Blue Ribbons, shooting a 3,135 series and a 1,166 game, strengthened their hold on first place in the Classic Bowling league last night by winning three games, while the Vrba Motors were dropping two.

The Monarch Beers shot 3,138 with the aid of an 1,156 game. Joe Wilman of the Vrba Motors was high with 718, his games being 265, 198, and 255. Levine of the Budweisers and H. Freitag of the Blue Ribbons each totaled 691. The scores:

JUVENILE CHAMP? FUTURITY FAILS TO SETTLE ISSUE

Dozen Title Claims of Equal Strength.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Usually after the Belmont Futurity has been run it is easy to point to the champion 2 year old of the year. Not so in 1934.

Chance Sun, from Joseph E. Widener's barn, has won the Belmont Futurity and the rich prize which goes with it. Yet if you call him the champion juvenile of the season and are within hearing distance of a group of horsemen it isn't likely to be many minutes until you are retracting your words.

The truth about it is there are a dozen 2 year olds out this year whose claims to the title are about of equal strength. Each has scored a victory in one or more of the important juvenile stakes that have been run.

Good Juveniles Plentiful.

Such a situation in some years might indicate a mediocre lot of 2 year olds. Still that doesn't seem to be the case this season. The general belief prevails that there are more top-notch juveniles out this season than there have been for a dozen years.

The results of the more important 2 year old stakes that have been run in both the east and west show how evenly balanced the 2 year old field is this year. They also offer conclusive proof that the 2 year old championship will be just as much of a mystery at the end of the season as it was before the leaders in the division ever went to the post.

The spoils in the most important 2 year old stakes run this season have been divided as follows, with the stake, the track, the winner, and the owner following:

Hyde Park [Arlington], Try Sympathy, W. S. Kilmer.
Lassie [Arlington], Motto, C. V. Whitney.
Futurity [Arlington], Toro Nancy, N. W. Church.
U. S. Hotel [Saratoga], Balladier, E. R. Bradley.
Sanford [Saratoga], Psychic Bid, Brookmeade stable.
Championship [Hawthorne], Advantage, John Coughlin.
Hopeful [Saratoga], Psychic Bid, Brookmeade stable.
Championship [Detroit], Debs Delight, Charles T. Fisher.
Matron [Belmont], Nellie Flag, Warren Wright.
Champagne [Belmont], Balladier, E. R. Bradley.

Two Western Stakes Remain.

Bradley has Boxthorne, which was also a stakes winner at Saratoga, in his barn. He also owns the sensational Black Helen, undefeated in the few starts she has made this season. Plat Eye, third in the Futurity at Belmont and owned by Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney, is another 2 year old that was a stakes winner early in the summer season at Belmont.

There are two important 2 year old stakes remaining on the program on the western turf. They are the Kentucky Jocky Club stakes at a mile, to be renewed at Churchill Downs late next month, and the Kentucky Breeders' Futurity. It has not been decided where or when the last named old fixture will be run.

In Chicago the Will County Handicap, run last Saturday, failed to prove anything about the relative merits of the Chicago champion, Advantage, and the Detroit champion, Debs Delight. The race was decided under severe weather and track conditions and was not truly run because of considerable rough riding and bumping. Racing Secretary Will Shelley no doubt will go to work today on a race which will bring Advantage and Debs Delight together again.

TETTERTON WINS TWO EVANSTON SPEEDWAY RACES

Ted Tetterton, North Chicago auto race pilot, again took top honors at the Evanston motor speedway program yesterday afternoon, winning two events.

The victories, scored in the opening event at 10 laps, and the feature final race at 20 laps, raised Tetterton's winning streak at Evanston to eight straight.

Other stars of the meet were Ernie Carlson and Charles Tegtmeier, both of Chicago, who finished second and third to Tetterton, and Jimmy Schneider, Evanston. Schneider tied Tetterton's track mark of :29.2 for one lap in the time trials, and was holding a big lead over the North Chicagoan in the opening race when forced out by motor trouble.

A two car crash, involving Don Rhue, River Forest, and Tom Slattery, Evanston, occurred in the second race. Rhue suffered injuries that required hospital attention, while Slattery escaped injury.

YOUNGSTERS WIN TWO OUTBOARD TITLES APIECE

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Youngsters won major honors in the amateur division of the national outboard motorboat races on the Schuylkill today.

Clinton Ferguson, Waban, Mass., and Lew Carlisle, East Islip, N. Y., captured two championships apiece. Horace Tennes of Chicago won the remaining title.

Today's races followed a full day of professional competition in which John Yeager, Cochituate, Mass.; Frank Vincent, Tulsa, Okla.; C. Mulford Scull, Ventnor, N. J., and Walter Everett, Tulsa, won titles in the various divisions.

Most coveted of the amateur prizes—the Sir Thomas Lipton trophy—went to 17 year old Carlisle.

Chicago Ave. Merchants Win Independent Pennant

The Chicago Avenue Merchants' baseball team won the pennant in the Chicago Independent league yesterday by beating the Bell Realtors, 3 to 2. The Merchants will meet the Feltz Motors club at Wrigley Field Sunday for the Charlie Grimm cup.

Shamrock Polo Team Defeats Artillery, 7-5

The Shamrocks polo team yesterday defeated the 124th Field Artillery, 7 to 5, at the Lincolnshire club. Ireland and Callahan led the winners, each scoring three goals.

Talking It Over

BURLEIGH GRIMES in 1917 lost 13 straight games and in 1927 won 13 straight. . . . Football orders at Illinois for the home games with Ohio State and the Army are as heavy as they were for three home games up to Oct. 5 last year. . . . Eddie Long, manager of Art Sykes, who fights King Levinsky on the charity sport card at Wrigley field Thursday night, insists that the King finish his training in a detective bureau so he cannot run out of the match as he did on Art Laskey at Los Angeles. . . . Sykes is one of two Assyrian heavyweights of this generation. . . . The other was King Solomon. . . . Howard Jones of Southern California plans to devote more attention than ever to forward passing this fall, because he feels opponents will concentrate on stopping Cotton Warburton. . . . One of the first measures to be introduced in the session of the new California legislature will be an amendment to the racing bill reducing the track's take from 12 to 8½ per cent.

Ten Years Ago Today—The United States polo team won the second and deciding game from the British team, 14 to 5. . . . The Cubs defeated Boston twice to move into the first division. . . . The Senators regained first place by whipping the Tigers, 6 to 2. . . . Commissioner Landis invited six major league presidents to meet in New York to make plans for the world's series. . . . The White Sox handed Boston a 3 to 2 beating and moved out of the cellar. . . . Gene Tunney and Harry Greb boxed a ten round draw at Cleveland.

Endeavour to Race Rainbow 2d Time Today

showed to better advantage," he said "It took sixty seconds for the Endeavour's amateur crew to change sails, whereas the Rainbow's men did it in thirty."

The British newspaper man who almost started an international row with his charges that the Rainbow had cheated in arranging only scanty furnishings for the crew below decks was also interviewed by your correspondent in his quest for the truth. It developed that he was alone in his accusations and that Sopwith indignantly repudiated them, but his spirit had not been broken.

"The professionals on the American boat," he commented indignantly, "were obviously superior in skill to the British amateurs."

GUESTS OF PRESIDENT

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newport, R. I., Sept. 16.—The afterguards of the international racing yachts Rainbow and Endeavour were guests of President Roosevelt this evening aboard the Nourmahal, Vincent Astor's yacht on which the President is cruising and watching the races.

The afterguards include the skippers and what might correspond to the officers of a ship, wealthy sportsmen who go in for yachting in a big way. Those of the Rainbow, besides Skipper Harold S. Vanderbilt, are C. Herman Hoyt, John Parkinson, Prof. Zenas Bliss of Brown college, and W. Starling Burgess, the designer of the craft. From the English sloop the President received Skipper T. O. M. Sopwith, his wife, and Charles E. Nicholson, Frank Murdock, and Gerald Penny.

They came aboard as the broad beamed Nourmahal, which rival sportsmen sometimes call the "banana boat," stood off Block Island. The President complimented them on the showing they made despite the weather handicap yesterday and expressed the hope that the wind would do its part tomorrow.

Gov. Green of Rhode Island also was a guest of the President, and the two chief executives discussed the textile strike situation, which has caused so much violence and over which Mr. Roosevelt has expressed great concern.

During the day the President's party went for a cruise out over and beyond the racing course, to the picturesque waters around Buzzard's bay, No Man's Land, Martha's Vineyard, and Nantucket.

Lonely fishermen inhabit these lands and the appearance of their reddish-yellow soil perhaps explains why they would not be good for anything else. Strange looning Portuguese trawlers and fishing cruisers chug through the waters and make impious noises when they pass such mighty playthings as the yachts of the Astors, Vanderbilts, and Morgans.

Davidson Beats Lejeck in Hamilton Park Tennis

Max Davidson of the University of Chicago, Big Ten tennis champion, yesterday defeated Eddie Lejeck of Hamilton park in the finals of the Hamilton park Labor day tournament, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3, 8-10, 6-3.

St. Mel high school opened its football practice season yesterday by defeating De Paul academy, 13 to 0, at St. Phillips field.

Red Palm, playing left half back, scored both touchdowns, the first one in the opening quarter, and plunging two yards in the third period.

Levinsky Will Weigh 207 for Sykes Bout

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, expects to weight not less than 207 pounds for his ten round bout with Art Sykes of New York, one of four boxing matches to be presented in conjunction with the Londos-Lewis heavyweight championship wrestling contest at Wrigley field Thursday night.

It will be the heaviest Levinsky has weighed for a contest. Whether or not it will slow him up against his smaller and faster opponent is problematical. Sykes has demonstrated in previous fights that when he lands his foe usually goes down. Slowness in getting away from counter punches after missing wild swings, a highlight in the Levinsky boxing répertoire, will aid Sykes, some fans maintain.

In Levinsky's last fight, against Art Laskey at Los Angeles, Cal., June 12, he weighed 204 pounds. He lost the ten round decision because of illness, according to his sister-manager, Mrs. Lena Levy. Prior to that scrap he beat Lee Ramage when at the same weight April 17. The Kingfish's weight and results in other contests in the last year follow:

Walter Neusel, lost [10], disputed, New York, March 9; weight, 203.
Charley Massera, won [10], New York, Feb. 9; weight, 202½.
Don McCorkindale, won [10], Chicago, Dec. 29; weight, 206½.

Although Levinsky's weight may have something to do with the decision, it seems his long period of idleness, more than anything else, will be the deciding factor.

Joe Louis, Detroit, Mich., 190 pound boxer, and Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., will meet for the second time in the eight round windup bout tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Louis knocked out Everett to score his fifth straight pro triumph at Marigold Aug. 27. Since then Joe added another victim to his record.

One of the best of the supporting bouts will bring together Sammy Mosco, 122 pounder, and Frank Mirabel, Argo, in the six round semi-final. Other matches:

Bill Treest vs. Oren Miller [4], 172.
Fred Cheynoweth vs. Al Pahl [4], 138.
Joe Roman vs. Joey Bozak [4], 128.
Lefty Pacer vs. Stanley West [wrestling].

Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., middleweight, will attempt to avenge a recent defeat by Mickey Misko, Saginaw, Mich., in an eight round fight tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Preliminary bouts:

Johnny Fitzpatrick and Al Schiarato [5], 128.
George Van Der Hayden and Louis Nassness [5], 132.
Henry Fuscaldo and Sammy Guidara [4], 118.
Ace Kristof and Bill Brown [4], 150.

Olympic Issue Is Not Settled, Says Brundage

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—"The issue as regards United States participation in the Olympic games in Berlin in 1936 is far from settled," Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic association, told THE TRIBUNE today in refuting statements published in Europe since his arrival. They quoted Brundage as saying definitly that the United States would take part in the Berlin Olympiad.

Brundage, who has discussed the problem with others besides the German officials, emphatically declared:

"I never have told any one that the issue is settled. Immediately after I arrive in America I shall call the executive committee of the association and present them my documentary evidence. I'll let them make the decision."

He added, in explaining his refusal to commit himself here, that "the matter is entirely too complicated, has too many ramifications, and is internationally of too great importance for me to settle here."

"I have been assured by officials," he said, "that the Jewish question wouldn't be an issue at the 1936 games. But we never know what crowds and people are going to do."

Brundage was loud in his praises for preparatory work of the German organization committee. "Their plans," he said, "surpass anything America ever has done. I thought we had the last word at Los Angeles, but their reich sport field will surpass even that."

Brundage was en route to Garmisch-Partenkirchen to inspect the site of the winter Olympiad. He will sail for home Wednesday on the Ile de France.

STRANGLER HAS WHAT IT TAKES TO BE POPULAR

Win or Lose, Lewis Is Fans' Type.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Strangler Lewis may or may not be the new titleholder after his wrestling match with Jim Londos next Thursday night at Wrigley field, but he has what it takes to make a popular champion. He's the kind of fellow the wrestling fans like—a giant of a man, ferocious in the ring, but a hearty, good natured fellow when he's in street clothes.

The pristine ruggedness of the boxing profession was undermined for a time when the handsome young man type of fighter became fashionable. For a while even the husbands of society women aspired to the boxing championship. But the wrestling profession never has suffered greatly from an overdose of refinement.

Fans Crave Real Action.

The fans want the law of the jungle to prevail in the ring. Scientific boxers and wrestlers are tolerated with some politeness as long as their science doesn't interfere too much with the histrionics of the profession, but fans always have been cold to them.

When Gene Tunney, fighting his last bout, turned his handsome, ascetic face to the referee in mute appeal to save him from meting further punishment to the helpless Tom Heeney, many fans were thinking how a certain Jack Dempsey would have been boring in at such a moment, crouching like a wild beast for the kill. It's jungle stuff the fans want.

And it's jungle stuff they're pretty sure to get next Thursday night at the combined wrestling and boxing show headed by the Londos-Lewis bout. The gigantic Lewis, scowling and implacable, will enter the ring in a furious mood. For years he has waited to get a chance at Londos, and during all that time he has been rankling at every allusion to the Greek's claims to the championship of the world.

Strangler Aims to Repeat.

Lewis asserts he lost his own title synthetically and that he still can beat any wrestler in the world. He threw Londos in their previous meetings and he is determined not to leave the ring without throwing him again.

The Strangler will be merciless in the holds which he will attempt to apply. If he can get the Greek into that punishing headlock, he will clamp on a pressure that no man—not even Londos—has yet been able to stand for any length of time. If he can get an armlock, the fans may expect to see Londos' hand turn white before their eyes as the Strangler shuts off the blood supply by pressure on the artery.

Lewis and Londos, each with a violent antagonism for the other, will be placed together in a small, roped off area. There they will be allowed to settle their dispute after the fashion of the jungle, hampered by only a few restrictions of a civilized community. For an hour and a half each must defend himself against tactics which will fall just short of mayhem.

He's a Good Fellow.

In the ring, Lewis will display all the savagery his followers like, and, if he wins, he has all the qualities needed to make him popular with fans outside the ring. Though he has a thorough confidence in his own merits as a wrestler, his confidence is not of the conceited, overbearing type. He never adopts a prima donna attitude. During his workouts he likes to josh with the fellows at the ringside and he has a word for everybody around the gymnasium, from the cigaret clerk to the elevator boy.

Moreover, he makes it plain he will be willing to defend the title, if he wins it, against any wrestler at any time. He emphasizes the point that when he held the undisputed title, he never refused any reasonable proposition for a bout.

Doesn't Work on Sunday.

Despite the nearness of the contest, the Strangler is so sure of himself that he refused to make an exception of his rule never to take regular workouts on a Sunday. He took it easy yesterday, limiting himself to road work, although word came from his opponent's camp to the effect that Londos was hard at work perfecting himself for the big test Thursday.

The Strangler's sparring partners were glad of the chance to rest. They have been taking considerable punishment in recent afternoons and considered themselves lucky to get a day during which no one would push them around.

CENTRAL A. A. U, MEETS TONIGHT, PICKS OFFICERS

The annual convention of the Central A. A. U. will be held at the Morrison hotel at 8 o'clock tonight. The new officers and a board of managers will be elected to serve for the fiscal year, 1934-1935. In addition, delegates and alternates for the national convention at Miami, Fla., in December will be named.

The following slate has been proposed by the nominating committee: President, George T. Donoghue; first vice president, Owen V. Van Camp; second vice president, Walter Wright; third vice president, William C. Larson; fourth vice president, Racine Thompson; secretary-treasurer, Fred L. Steers.

WHITE SOX RISE UP, BEAT BOSTON TWICE, 2-1, 12-10

Earnshaw Allows Only 2 Hits in Opener.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The tail end White Sox outdid themselves yesterday in their efforts to stave off salary cuts or whatever other unhappiness might come their way next winter. They stepped out and revealed enough determination to whip the Boston Red Sox in both ends of a double header. The first affair ended 2 to 1 on the strength of an outburst in the ninth, and the second terminated successfully, 12 to 10, because of a similar occurrence in the eighth inning.

Important people in the opening battle were George [Bonus] Earnshaw, Luke Appling and Jack Hayes. Earnshaw, to assure himself his third $500 bonus, yielded only two hits, both made by the opposing pitcher, Johnny Welch. Appling and Hayes did their bits with safe hits which broke a 1 to 1 deadlock after two were gone in the final inning. And the same pair's work on offense in the fifth led to the only other run registered against the lad who once wore Cub flannels.

Pitchers Take a Trimming.

While battle No. 1 was a sane, orderly affair, there was nothing like that about the second. A White Sox barrage in the fourth forced Dusty Rhodes to retreat and seven runs scored before other pitchers could restore quiet. This provided the Chicagoans with a five run lead, but it didn't last long enough to be enjoyed. Phil Gallivan, who had relieved Les Tietje from a load of trouble in the fourth, fell into a mess of his own making in the fifth and all but two runs of the fat lead vanished. The remainder of the advantage went because of a pair of homers by Bill Werber, one in the sixth and the other in the eighth.

When the lead of the Chicagoans dwindled down within reach, the Boston management inserted Bob Grove into the argument, the idea being that he would hang on until after Gallivan had weakened. It didn't work out that way. Grove stood off various threats for three innings, but things changed after the first two men had been set down in the eighth. Then Conlan started the decisive assault with a double, Simmons was purposely passed, and Bonura sent both home with a two bagger. It made the second pair of runs driven in by Zeke, giving him a total of 103 for the season.

FIRST GAME

The first inning run that enabled the Boston fellows to occupy the lead for quite a stretch, was started when Earnshaw handed a pass to Werber. The light footed lad promptly stole second and, not satisfied with that, also burglarized third. This put him in position to score on Almada's long fly to Simmons, who made a great but futile throw-in.

The White Sox were so embarrassed by Welch's pitching that during the first four innings they put only two men on base, both the result of singles. In the fifth, however, the ex-Cub made the mistake of walking Appling after Bonura had looked at a third strike. Appling scooted to third on Hayes' single to center and scored the tying run while Hayes was being forced by Hopkins.

The first hit off Earnshaw was Welch's single to left to open the sixth, but a fly ball, a forceout, and Werber's blasted attempt to steal second kept this from being serious. In the eighth there was a slight flurry when Morgan whacked a long drive toward the left field scoreboard, but Simmons leaped up and caught the drive. Then Welch opened the ninth with a single to center but the next three players couldn't shove the ball past the infield. A moment later the Appling-Hayes combination ended the argument.

SECOND GAME

The Chicagoans took the dust out of Dusty Rhodes in the first inning by showering him with five hits, good for two runs. Swanson opened with a single to center and Conlan beat out a tap to Werber. Simmons banged a single to right but Almada revealed a highly finished throwing arm with which he tossed out Swanson at the plate. Conlan and Simmons moved up on the play and both scored on Bonura's single. Appling flied to right, Hayes scratched a hit to Werber, and Hopkins concluded the inning with a pop to Lary.

The White Sox added one in the second, making it 3 to 0. Shea doubled, went to third on Tietje's sacrifice and home on Conlan's single to left.

Pass Starts Trouble.

The complications that engulfed Tietje and gave the Boston athletes five runs in the fourth began with a pass to Werber. Almada singled to right for the first Red Sox hit. R Johnson went home on Graham's single to center. Graham was safe at second when Hayes dropped Appling's throw of R. Ferrell's grounder. Morgan flied out and Lary walked, whereupon Tietje vanished. Gallivan retired the side after two more had registered on a single by Cissell.

Rhodes literally handed the lead back to the Chicagoans in the home fourth, an offense for which he was banished. He walked Conlan, Simmons, and Bonura with one out. Appling doubled over first, sending Conlan and Simmons across. Hayes singled to move Bonura and Appling over the plate. Hi Johnson came to Rhodes' rescue and threw out Hopkins on a bunt, but injured his arm making the play, and retired. Walberg stepped into the vacancy and for a starter passed Shea.

Gallivan singled over short, scoring Hayes with the fifth run of the inning. Swanson's single to right sent Shea home. Conlan singled to left and Simmons sent in Gallivan on a hit to short. The fun stopped when Bonura flied to R. Johnson. This sally put the White Sox in the lead, 10 to 5.

The Red Sox took after Gallivan in the fifth and whittled off three runs from the lead.

One more slice of the lead went away in the sixth on Werber's homer into the left field seats. And the same fellow tied it up at 10 apiece when he sailed his second homer into the same spot with two out in the eighth. Then the White Sox applied the finishing touch in their half of the eighth.

Reds Defeat Braves Twice, 2 to 1 and 5 to 2

Boston, Mass., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Cincinnati took a double-header from the Boston Braves today, Paul Derringer holding the Braves to four hits in the opener to win, 2 to 1, and Verrill Richmond, recently acquired southpaw from Baltimore, making his big league debut to capture the second game, 5 to 2.

Richmond pitched only seven innings in the second, being relieved by a pinch hitter in the eighth with the Reds trailing, 2 to 1, but held Boston to four hits during his stay. Scores:

Tigers Defeat Senators, 2-1; Sweep Series

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Balked by the three hit pitching of Monte Weaver, the Detroit Tigers resorted to a bit of daring base running today as a means of winning their series final with the Senators, 2 to 1.

The victory placed Detroit five and one-half games ahead of the second place Yankees, who were defeated at Cleveland.

The decisive run was made in the eighth inning, with the score tied at one each. Hayworth singled to left and then advanced to second when Sewell let the ball get away from him. Clifton then was sent in to run for Hayworth. After Bridges had popped to Bluege and Fox had walked, White grounded to Myer and was thrown out at first. During this latter play Clifton, who had taken a big lead off second, sprinted safely home.

The Washington run in the eighth was a result of an error by Tommy Bridges, Detroit pitcher. The run was scored by Stone who doubled, moved to third on an infield out, and thence home when Bridges erred on a grounder by Manush. Score:

ATHLETICS WIN TWICE.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The spotlight centered on the pitching of both games today as the Philadelphia Athletics won a pair of close contests from the St. Louis Browns, taking the first game, 2 to 1, and the second, 2 to 0.

Marcum shut out the Browns in the second game, but watched his mates go hitless until the sixth inning. In that inning Marcum got a single off Coffman but was forced by Cramer. Cramer moved to second on a single by Williams, and Johnson brought in the two runs with a base hit, the only scores of the contest. Scores:

strikes, but when Root loosed a wild pitch Cuccinello scored and the other runners moved up. Frederick then singled to left, Taylor scoring. Galan threw out Frey.

The Cubs busted loose for a couple of runs in the eighth on singles by Galan, Cuyler, Stainback, and Phelps. Cuyler's hit was his fourth in a row and the eighth made by the Cubs.

The Dodgers rang up their 11th run in the eighth on Frederick's single and Frey's double off Wiedemeyer. The Cubs stirred up a little more activity in the ninth, the only significance of which was the fact that Cuyler made his fifth straight hit. The inning netted the Cubs two runs.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs also were the first to score in this game, but they again were unable to hold a lead throughout an inning. The run was made in the second inning on a single by Stephenson, Hartnett's double, and an infield out by Hurst. The Dodgers made three in their half on a single by Cuccinello, his fifth in as many times at bat, a walk to Chapman, a single by Bucher, a wild pitch, and a single by Berres.

The Cubs got another run across after two were out in the fifth. English beat out an infield bouncer and, as soon as Lee had fanned for the second out, he went to third on Hack's single to left, whence he scored while Galan was beating out an infield roller. Clark threw out Cuyler.

With one out in the sixth Stainback beat out a bunt and went to second when Cuccinello threw the ball away. Hartnett was hit with a pitched ball, then Hurst singled to right, scoring Stainback with the tying run. English popped to Frey and Lee forced Hartnett.

Clark Gives Up.

The Dodgers, however, resumed the lead with two runs in their half. Berres walked with one out. Hack slipped and sat down after getting Clark's grounder. He then tried to throw the ball from his sitting posture and tossed it away, Berres scoring and Clark reaching second. Boyle doubled to left, scoring Clark. Frey and Koenecke were easy outs.

Singles by Galan and Cuyler with one out in the seventh caused Clark to be sent away for Zachary. Zachary hit Stephenson with a pitched ball, filling the bases, then Galan scored on Stainback's fly to Koenecke. Hartnett walked, again filling the bases. Zachary threw three straight wide ones to Hurst, then struck him out.

In the ninth Cuyler landed on an error, hung on while Stephenson and Stainback went out, and went to third on Hartnett's single to center. Then Billy Herman batted for Hurst and ended the game with a liner to Bucher.

DENIES STADIUM ASKS EXORBITANT TERMS OF HAWKS

Arthur Wirtz, representing a syndicate of Chicagoans who are attempting to reorganize the Chicago Stadium corporation, last night said that no unreasonable obstacles will be placed in the way of the Blackhawks Hocky club in renting the Stadium for the coming hocky season if his organization takes over the sports arena. He denied that the corporation has asked Maj. Frederic McLaughlin to sign a 25 year lease, as was indicated by William Tobin, secretary of the hocky club, in a statement Friday.

Tobin had said the National Hocky league might be forced to suspend activities unless the Blackhawks and the Boston Bruins could find playing sites. Both, he said, are having difficulties in renting suitable arenas because of exorbitant demands made by the Stadium corporation and the Madison Square corporation, which owns the arena in which the Bruins have played in the past. The Blackhawks, he said, would refuse to sign a lease on the terms of last season's agreement, whereby the Stadium took 35 per cent of the receipts of each game in rental, and could not consider a lease for a 25 year period.

Warneke Seeks 22d Victory Today at Philadelphia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Lon Warneke will go after his 22d victory of the year against the Phillies at Philadelphia tomorrow afternoon, weather permitting. Today's game was rained out in Philadelphia and it won't take much hangover precipitation tomorrow to cause the management to arrange a later double-header.

There were those who criticized Manager Grimm for putting Lon Warneke on base in the ninth inning to run for the tired Mr. Klein, who had been coaxed off the bench to make a single. The Cubs were trailing, 11 to 4, at the time and the slippery infield already had claimed two casualties in Jurges and Billy Herman. They suffered minor twists and retired from play.

Phil Cavaretta, rookie first baseman, made his first major league appearance in the first game. He fanned, but went down cutting, which is more than most rookies do when they make their bow in the big time.

Giants, Stars Break Even in Double Header

The American Giants took a 2 to 1 lead in the playoff series for the championship of the National Negro Baseball league by dividing a double-header with the Philadelphia Stars yesterday at the American Giants park. The Giants won the first game, 3 to 0, behind Trent's four hit pitching, and lost the second, 5 to 3, when McDonald stopped them with six hits.

The fourth game of the series will be played at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Giants' park. The teams will move back to Philadelphia after today's contest to conclude the series there. Scores:

MILWAUKEE NINE DEFEATS ALTON FOR C.Y.O. TITLE

Holy Assumption Wins from St. Mary's, 7-2.

Holy Assumption, Milwaukee, Wis., defeated St. Mary's, Alton, Ill., 7 to 2, at Wrigley field yesterday to win the 1934 national Catholic Youth organization baseball championship. Paced by Chet Laabs, second baseman, who drove out a home run, triple, and single in five times at bat, the Badgers made 12 hits off John Schulz and Al Sedlacek. George Kojis held the losers to six hits.

The Milwaukee team whipped the 1933 tournament champion, St. Adrian, Chicago, 4 to 2, in the first semi-final game yesterday morning. St. Mary's entered the final round when it scored a 9 to 1 victory over St. Hyacinth in the second morning game.

Kojis Wins His First Game.

Kojis pitched shutout ball in all but one inning, the fourth, when St. Mary's counted twice on two hits and two errors. Kojis struck out six men and walked none. It was the first game of the tournament for the Badger hurler.

St. Mary's went into the lead in the last half of the fourth after Holy Assumption made its first run on two hits. The Alton team scored when Brewer beat out an infield hit, Manns doubled, and both runners scored when Hust fumbled the ball.

Laabs' Triple Scores Two.

Holy Assumption drove Schulz, Alton's starting hurler, from the box in the fifth when Laabs tripled to score Hust and Kedzierski. Sedlacek, who had beaten St. Hyacinth in the morning game, came in to pitch for Alton, but was touched for two hits and two runs before he could retire the side.

GERMAN TRADE RULES CUT U. S. LARD EXPORTS

Only 25% of Normal Next Year, Cudahy Predicts.

Exports of American lard to Germany during 1934 will be only 25 per cent of normal, in the opinion of E. A. Cudahy Jr., vice chairman of the Institute of American Meat Packers and president of the Cudahy Packing company.

New restrictions and quotas which the reich has imposed recently have destroyed hopes for American exporters for a substantial volume of sales to Germany, usually the second largest importer of American lard, Cudahy said. Barriers are a high duty of more than double the landed cost of the product, restrictions on the allowable quantity which can be imported, and a curb on the amount of money taken out of the country.

Lard Sales Below Normal.

"The United States will have exported 23,700,000 pounds of lard to Germany by the end of September," Cudahy predicted. "The quota for the remaining three months of 1934 is 12,000,000 pounds, which would bring the full year's total to 36,000,000 pounds, or 25 per cent of the average of 143,384,440 pounds in the four years from 1930 to 1933 inclusive."

He pointed out that Germany did not permit the entry of lard from this country in July and August, and that September will be little better because of the lack of available foreign exchange.

"From 1909 to 1913 the United States supplied 94.3 per cent of Germany's import lard requirements," Cudahy continued. "In 1933 this percentage was only 76.4, while this year will witness a further recession. Germany's apparent desire to become more self-sustaining in the production of edible fats has played a large part in the drop.

Hogs Specially Fattened.

"Hogs are being specially fattened in order to produce a large lard content, and methods are being studied to develop higher yields of fat from dressed hogs. It is highly improbable that Germany can become permanently self-sustaining, but the increase in this phase of agriculture is an important cause for reduced imports. This year there are 22,360,000 hogs on German farms. This is a rather large total when one considers that Germany is not primarily an agricultural nation."

He pointed out that according to these estimates there will be approximately 107,000,000 additional pounds of lard, representing the product of 3,070,000 hogs, to be sold on the domestic market or exported to other countries during the current year.

ENGLISH REGARD AUTO "INVASION" AS EXAGGERATED

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Reports of increasing competition with motor car manufacturers in England are meeting from the American product have been overemphasized in some quarters, is the opinion of the Financial Times. The value of private car importations during the first six months of this year was £716,900, as compared with £348,000 [pound currently $5] in the first half of the year.

"The increase seems to have been fairly general from all sources, although that for the United States is the most striking," says the paper. "The reduction of 25 per cent in the horsepower tax as from next January may be influencing the movement, for most of the importations have a high treasury rating. But the fall in the dollar in terms of sterling is a prime factor in the increased imports from America."

After recalling that the number of private cars imported last year was only one-sixth of the 1929 total, the paper says: "The recent movement can scarcely be regarded in the light of an invasion. For years there has been a progressive increase in the number of cars in use in this country, and registrations of new vehicles have risen sharply during the last eighteen months or so. Increased importations may be regarded as normal to this expansion."

STOCKS OF CRUDE OIL SHOW DROP FOR LAST WEEK

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—Stocks of domestic and foreign crude oil totaled 334,485,000 barrels on Sept. 8. The oil administration said that this 336,339,000 barrels on hand a week before. Domestic crude accounted for 1,576,000 barrels of the decrease and foreign oil for 278,000.

For the week of Sept. 8, reports of the industry indicated, crude production averaged 18,000 barrels per day less than in the preceding week, when the average was 2,487,000. Imports fell 67,000 from the daily average of 106,000.

Crude runs to stills continued to fall off, the 2,390,000 barrel daily average for the week of Sept. 8 comparing with 2,520,000 in the preceding week.

Province of Buenos Aires Ready to Make Payment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 16.—The province of Buenos Aires, Argentina, has notified holders of its external 7 per cent bonds due on April 1, 1952, that it has made available at the National City bank the sum of $27.37 in respect to each $35 coupon, $13.69 in respect to each $17.50 coupon and $2.74 in respect to each $3.50 coupon maturing on Oct. 1. The balance will be paid in 5 per cent arrears certificates. The offer is open to bondholders who assent to the loan readjustment plan of 1933.

Retail Price Trend Reported as Downward in August

The downward trend in retail prices continued during August, according to the Fairchild Retail Price Index. The reaction amounted to .3 of 1 per cent, as compared with July, and also showed a decrease of 2.6 per cent from the recent high, recorded on April 1. Prices on Sept. 1 show an increase of 6.3 per cent, as compared with the corresponding period a year ago.

DECLINE IN U. S. BONDS CARRIES WHOLE LIST OFF

Slump Occurs in Face of Refunding Program.

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Led by the erratic United States government list, bonds suffered a further setback during the last week. Federal loans accounted for about half or more of the daily transfer volumes and, in the face of the orthodox September-October financing program of the treasury, announced on Monday, "governments" were heavy throughout most of the sessions.

The treasury's conversion offer of 10-12 year 3¼ per cent bonds in exchange for the $1,200,000,000 of called Liberty Fourth 4¼s, together with a bonus of a month's interest, was coupled with an alternate proposal to trade 4 year 2½ per cent notes for the called series. For the maturing $525,000,000 of 1½ per cent certificates the exchange offer involved new 2 year notes of the same interest rate.

Some Issues Set New Lows.

The subsequent drop in all listed federal securities, a number to new lows for the last year or longer, surprised some dealers who had expected substantial treasury support to appear in view of the important refunding program. All the bonds rallied on Thursday and it was suggested that the authorities may have done some buying. There was a further decline on Friday despite reports of renewed treasury aid.

There were various explanations of the fall of the government's bonds. Among these were the fears of holders that future heavy borrowing would be necessary in order to meet growing expenditures; that the budget could not be balanced under the circumstances, and that there was a possibility the administration might have to take further inflationary steps which would, naturally, affect fixed income securities. Federal issues, for a change, were sold by a number of the banks.

Treasury Holds Offer Open.

Although prices generally slipped Secretary Morgenthau announced that the conversion of the Liberty loan series was progressing satisfactorily and that holders who did not wish to accept the exchange offer would be paid off in cash. He said the books on this refunding, however, would not be closed for some time. Virtually all of the maturing certificates had been exchanged for the new notes when the week ended.

Among the corporation groups rails were the most depressed. Carloadings for the previous week receded more than seasonally and were under the corresponding week of last year. The utilities were also soft, probably reflecting the continued recession of electric power output and the movement to further cut rates.

The foreign section was irregular While the South Americans moved forward the Germans continued to point lower.

CAUSTIC POTASH LOWER.

Lower prices on solid and flake caustic potash have been named by producers. Match, paper, textile, and soap industries are among the largest consumers.

Ratings.

Investors' Guide: I have read your Investors' Guide for years and found you were almost always right in naming the high grade issues. Being timid about investing in stocks, I did not buy any until I saw one you classed as high grade. I bought this stock and lost money on it. I am watching your column every day now hoping you will name some high grade stock not over $30 so that I can take another chance and make up what I lost.—B. F. T.

Answer: It appears that your interpretation of a rating for a stock is erroneous. A rating of "high grade" does not mean that we believe that the market price of a stock will go up; likewise a speculative rating does not mean that we believe that the market price will go down.

Ratings are arrived at without regard to market price. They are estimates of the investment qualities of a stock rather than speculative possibilities. We do not attempt to predict the course of the market.

Great Western Petroleum.

Investors' Guide: I am not fully conversant with the service you offer, but am writing you in the hope that you may be able to give me some information on stock of Great Western Petroleum corporation, which I found among some various papers of my father's. In all probability it is worthless, but before destroying same I would like to be positive.—R. V. S.

Answer: Great Western Petroleum corporation was incorporated in Delaware in 1916. It had $2,685,000 stock outstanding, par $5. The last office of record was at 10 S. La Salle street, Chicago, in 1919. In 1920 a federal indictment was reported against the company. Since then we can find no trace of the company. In view of the facts as stated it is our opinion that the stock is worthless.

Canadian Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Is interest on Dominion of Canada 5s, due 1952, payable in United States or Canadian money? How about the principal? Can these bonds be registered?—Z. E.

Answer: Both interest and principal on Dominion of Canada external 5s, due 1952, are, according to the indenture, payable in United States gold coin. Since abandonment of the gold standard by the United States payments on this issue in this country have been made in United States lawful money.

The bonds are registerable. They are available in denominations of $1,000 and authorized multiples thereof.

Ship Lines Join Railways in Seeking Higher Rates

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—Fourteen steamship companies have joined with the railroads in asking the interstate commerce commission for permission to increase freight rates. The companies operate from ports on the Atlantic and gulf coasts and Chesapeake bay and participate in joint rail-water and rail-water-rail rates.

GRAINS RECEIVE SEVERE JOLT ON BOARD OF TRADE

Many Factors Lead to Downturn.

Speculative confidence received a severe jolt last week and resultant market operations carried grain prices down sharply on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Reasons for uneasiness were fourfold. Growing apprehension of business over expanding federal expenditures, unsettlement of the government bond market, socialistic fears fostered by violence of the textile strike, and apparent indifference of the administration to imports of grain at prices which hold back domestic levels proved too much of a burden for speculators to throw off.

Actually the threat of importations was more psychological than concrete, as the total that will find its way into the United States will probably be small. But mental hazards which the news engendered were large, as lack of knowledge as to how far Washington will allow the situation to extend could be productive of nothing but apprehension.

Decline Throughout Week.

Except for occasional upturns, declining prices were witnessed throughout the week. Wheat lost more than 3 cents a bushel, corn sagged nearly 4 cents, and oats dropped nearly 2. Rye was the chief sufferer, slumping 8 cents as a result of the import fears plus selling by speculators who felt its price was too high in comparison with wheat.

Despite this, routine news was bullish for the most part. Of chief interest was sustained strength in cash markets where premiums on spot grain available for immediate delivery held at the highest levels of the season. One reason for the buoyant tone was the decrease in wheat stocks at Kansas City and Minneapolis. Furthermore, demand at Omaha is blocking shipments from there to Chicago, and spring wheat in the northwest is sharply above a basis where shipments can profitably be made to this city.

Accumulate on Decline.

Persistent accumulation of futures occurred on the decline, mostly in small lots and for outside investment account, while some buying representing removal of hedges against actual sales of flour made its appearance.

Winnipeg prices narrowed their discount with Chicago, but this was attributed more to support accorded by the Canadian wheat pool than from commercial demand, as country deliveries were extremely heavy and exports small.

The crest of the Canadian crop movement is expected to be witnessed shortly, as marketings have been more than 20,000,000 bushels ahead of last year, when 140,000,000 bushels were delivered from the start of the season to Dec. 1.

Speculators hope that subsiding of the movement will find reflection in higher prices, as attendant hedging pressure will then diminish. But the effect on world markets is problematical. Argentina is selling large quantities of wheat abroad, and this tends to weaken the Liverpool market, despite increasing unfavorable crop prospects in Australia.

Rains Are General.

Rains were general throughout North America during the week. In the southwest these were welcomed by farmers engaged in fall plowing and seeding. Surface moisture is now said to be sufficient, although subsoil reserves are still deficient. In Canada rains and cold weather retarded harvesting.

Ranges of prices in the three principal futures, wheat, corn, and oats, are given in the following table. Wheat prices do not reflect the 30 cent processing tax imposed by the administration for New Deal agricultural experiments, nor the 5 cents a bushel on corn:

Steel Makers Gain Hope as Output Rises

Encouraged by a 2½ point rise in steelworks operations last week to 20⅜ per cent of production capacity, the trade looks more brightly upon the future, especially with indications of substantial purchasing by automobile manufacturers within two or three weeks and more public works in the offing, says the magazine Steel.

During the third quarter, now drawing to a close, consumption has been far ahead of production, resulting in the depletion of many manufacturing stocks. This convinces steel makers that requirements cannot be deferred much longer.

The gain in rate of operation resulted from an increase of 5 points to 13 per cent at Pittsburgh, 1 to 24 at Chicago and Youngstown, and ½ to 16 in eastern Pennsylvania.

Decline in Two Districts.

Cleveland was down 6 points to 18 per cent, while Birmingham was 2 points lower at 23. Detroit operations remained at 77 per cent; New England, 25; Wheeling, 23, and Buffalo, 19.

Business from the automobile industry was slightly improved during the week. With Chrysler, Chevrolet, and others placing orders for parts these makers have purchased material. The car manufacturers themselves expect to be in the market for tonnages by the end of this month or early in October.

Large steel construction jobs within the near future will call for bids on 66,000 tons of steel for the Los Angeles water district, 30,000 tons for the Coulee, Wash., dam, 12,000 tons for the Fort Peck, Mont., dam, 4,472 tons for the Trempealeau, Wis., dam, 4,000 tons for a bridge at Omaha, and 15,000 tons for a New York postoffice. Actual awards of structural shapes during the week declined to 6,894 tons.

Rail Equipment More Active.

There is slightly more activity in railroad equipment, although prospects for the rail mills during the next several months are light. The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific road has purchased 2,000 tons of rails from the Birmingham mill. The Lehigh Valley may repair 1,500 box cars and buy 400 gondolas instead of building them in its own shops, as announced previously by the PWA, with which it has an approved loan of $3,000,000.

There has been little demand for scrap with a resulting drop in prices. The magazine's iron and steel composite has dropped 17 cents to $9.37, the lowest since December, 1933. Spiegeleisen and ferromanganese ore prices have been extended for the fourth quarter, while foreign manganese ore prices in this country have been advanced, reflecting heavier consumption abroad.

Due to the reduction in scrap, Steel's iron and steel composite is down 3 cents to $32.14 a ton, while the finished steel index remains at $54 a ton.

CODE REDUCES FOURTH QUARTER LUMBER OUTPUT

Washington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The national lumber code authority today taxed total production for the fourth quarter at 3,074,000,000 feet, compared with 3,800,000,000 for the present three month period.

This figure included 2,596,000,000 feet of soft wood and 478,000,000 of hard wood, and was designed, the authority said, to allow for an expected 4 per cent seasonal decrease in consumption and to reduce stocks in excess of those on hand at this time last year.

Inventories are expected to be reduced on Jan. 1 by 237,000,000 feet of soft and 91,000,000 of hard wood.

It was explained that no estimate was made of increased consumption to result from the administration housing campaign, but that the full effect was not expected before next year.

Announce Modification in Virginia Electric Offer

Modification of the exchange offers made last May 25 by Virginia Electric and Power company to holders of three issues of underlying bonds was announced yesterday. It reduces the cash payment from $50 to $40 per $1,000 of bonds and extends the offers to the close of business Dec. 1.

LIBERTY BOND OWNERS SHY AT NEW U. S. OFFER

Less Than Half Old Issue Exchanged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—The government's huge Liberty bond refinancing, which has been under way for the last week, is proceeding with abnormal sluggishness, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. revealed today.

Out of the 1 billion 250 million dollars' worth of fourth Liberty loan bonds which the treasury is now seeking to refund into new securities, only 530 million dollars' worth was submitted for conversion during the six business days of last week, Secretary Morgenthau disclosed.

In the past, normal treasury conversion operations have been 50 per cent complete by the end of the first week, it was conceded at the treasury. The close of the first week on the current operations, however, finds it only 42 per cent complete.

Another Sign of Weakness.

Another sign of weakness in the treasury's financing was brought out by Secretary Morgenthau's announcement, which disclosed that by far the majority of those bondholders who did submit their bonds for conversion chose to refund them into the new offering of four year 2½ per cent notes.

The treasury offered to exchange the called bonds for either these four year notes or for a new series of 12 year 3¼ per cent bonds. Only 144 million dollars' worth of the new bonds have been called for thus far, whereas 386 million dollars' worth of the notes has been issued in exchange for the called bonds.

Failure of the new bonds to attract more takers is accepted here as further evidence of the weakness in the treasury's long term borrowing powers. Banks have told the treasury flatly that, although they are willing to take some short term governments, such as the four year notes, they are through for the time being with committing themselves to long term government investments.

May Pay 350 Million in Cash.

On the basis of the first week of the conversion offer, it is now expected that the treasury will succeed in refunding only about 900 million dollars' worth of the called Fourth Liberties. This will leave at least 350 million dollars' worth to be paid off in cash when they become eligible for redemption on Oct. 15.

If only 900 million dollars' worth of the called bonds are refinanced, the conversion move will have been only 72 per cent successful. The treasury does not regard a conversion "normal" or successful unless 80 per cent of the called securities are refinanced.

Treasury Is Relieved.

Despite these definite indications of subnormal government credit conditions the treasury was inclined to be relieved at the end of the first week's operations. This is due to the fact that because of the continually soft bond market the treasury itself approached the refinancing with none too sanguine an outlook.

The treasury now feels, however, that if no more than the present 530 million dollars' worth of bonds are presented for conversion that the redemption of the others in cash will be no insurmountable burden. The treasury is also cheered at its success in refunding 525 million dollars' worth of certificates which matured yesterday. More than 514 million dollars' worth of the certificates were refunded into new two year 1½ per cent notes, leaving less than 16 million dollars' worth to be redeemed in cash.

Federal Housing Official to Address Chicago Group

Ward M. Canaday, director of public relations for the Federal Housing administration, will address the Chicago committee of the better housing program at a luncheon in the Palmer house tomorrow.

To Holders of

Preferred Stock of the Republic Steel Corporation

The New York Stock Exchange has approved the application for listing Deposit Receipts representing shares of the Preferred Stock of Republic Steel Corporation deposited for exchange into Prior Preference and Common Stock in accordance with the terms of the Plan dated August 27, 1934.

Holders of Preferred Stock who have not already done so, are urged to send in their proxies, and to deposit their shares immediately with one of the following depositaries:

BANK OF THE MANHATTAN COMPANY
NEW YORK, N. Y.
CONTINENTAL ILLINOIS BANK & TRUST COMPANY
CHICAGO, ILL.
THE CLEVELAND TRUST COMPANY
CLEVELAND, O.

Depositaries will deliver in lieu of deposited Preferred Stock transferable Preferred Stock Deposit Receipts calling for the delivery of the new stock certificates if the Plan is declared effective by the Board of Directors, or the return of the deposited stock, without charge, if the Plan is abandoned.

Additional letters of transmittal, proxy forms, or further information regarding the Plan may be obtained from Myron A. Wick, Vice President, Republic Steel Corporation, Union Trust Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

CHICAGO MERCHANTS REPORT LAST WEEK'S TRADE SATISFACTORY

Business activity in Chicago held at satisfactory levels last week, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Wholesalers were cheerful with sales and indications of future needs ahead of last year. The demand for textiles was good. Orders from rural districts were heavy, and collections met expectations.

Neighborhood Chicago homecoming celebrations, coupled with the usual last minute school opening purchases, kept retailers busy. The turnover of one west side department store which featured dollar day bargains was 100 per cent ahead of the preceding week.

Steel production trends appear upward, says the commerce body, with demands for farm tractors taking up the slack created by a letdown in automobile orders. Public utility volume was well sustained, with telephone and power companies retaining a slight edge on transportation firms. Final payment of the overdue teachers' salaries and expectations that other unpaid municipal employés soon will be able to cash their overdue vouchers were important factors in trade stimulation, the report concluded.

GERMANY SEEKS TO EXCHANGE GOODS WITH U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—Unable to buy necessaries such as cotton and wool because of trade barriers and other difficulties, including the anti-Nazi boycott, the German government has unofficially approached the state department about the possibility of making a reciprocal trade treaty.

Germany has suggested that her heavy industries could buy large quantities of cotton, as well as copper, gasoline, and other products from us, sending in return machinery, potash, chemicals, dyes, and medical instruments among other products. Conversations between embassy officials and the state department have been unofficial and can therefore be given no public cognizance by either.

The first objection is that, because of the government restriction of cotton growing and the drouth, the United States has no very large surplus of cotton which it is necessary to unload. The second lies in the fact that, with the depression, importation of machinery and manufactured products would glut an already oversupplied domestic market.

In authoritative circles friendly to Germany, it is claimed, however, that sinch the reich has until recently imported from the United States roughly twice as much as she has sent us, a pickup of almost paralyzed business would be to our advantage.

TRADE ADVISER TO ROOSEVELT WILL SPEAK HERE

George N. Peek, special adviser to President Roosevelt on foreign trade, will speak before a foreign trade conference to be held at the Hotel La Salle on Wednesday night, Oct. 17, it was announced yesterday. This will be Mr. Peek's first public address since assuming the office.

The meeting, which includes conferences during the day and a dinner following, is being sponsored by the Export Managers Club of Chicago, with E. M. Fisher as conference secretary. Other coöperating organizations include the United States department of commerce, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Illinois Manufacturers' association, the Chicago Association of Credit Men, foreign credits division, and the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

FEDERAL CREDIT UNIONS ASKED TO LIMIT DIVIDENDS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Mutual Federal Credit unions will be asked to limit their dividends to 6 per cent. This limitation has been written into the rules and regulations which are being drafted by the Farm Credit administration for the credit unions. Exceptions are permitted, however, subject to approval of the administration head.

Gov. Myers said today the limitation on dividends will accomplish two aims for the properly managed unions.

"First, it will enable the organization to build up its reserves, which increases its capacity to loan and strengthens it against occasional adversities," he said; "and, second, it makes it possible, after the association has acquired reserves, to reduce the interest charges on loans to borrowers."

Trade Brisk, But Industry Remains Quiet

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Further quickening of retail and wholesale trade, in contrast to continued quiet in manufacturing, gave the nation's business a decidedly lopsided appearance during the last week. The movement of merchandise has been gaining momentum since mid-August and has reached the best level in months.

The demand for goods within a reasonable time, Business analysts point out, should penetrate to the manufacturer. It embraces chiefly the lighter lines of consumers goods, such as dry goods, clothing, foods, and housewares. The textile industry remains tied up, with the labor controversy still in a deadlock. Rising prices for foods, according to some authorities, are turning the attention of the consumer toward lower priced items when he must buy clothing and housewares.

The heavy goods lines stubbornly hold not far off the depression bottom. Some building supply makers, such as makers of roofings, paints, varnishes, heating and plumbing equipment, are now noting the effect of the home renovation drive. But steel is still in the doldrums, although helped a little by publicly financed projects, and the automobile industry has entered its season of light production.

Cram estimates last week's automobile output at 43,560 units, an increase of 5,394 over the Labor day holiday week, but 4,493 less than the like week of 1933. Cram also says a September production of 170,000 units is now indicated, which would be about 14 per cent under this month of last year. Retail sales have held up well for the season, however, and used car sales, according to Cram, increased over the previous week.

From manufacturing through to retailing, reports indicate considerable activity in groceries, with many consumers stocking up on canned and preserved foods in anticipation of further price rises, and a number of manufacturers working at capacity. There has been a rush in the textile markets to stock up with goods in preparation for any shortage as result of the strike. Inventories are said to be ample for the next few weeks.

SOME SECTIONS HOLD WALL ST. IS TOO GLOOMY

Turn for Better Is Seen Ahead.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 16.—The cloak of gloom continues to hang heavily over Wall street and the stock market. Looking back on a week in which stocks dipped sharply, with a collateral break in government and other bond prices, the trading community registers a new low for despondency, or perhaps it's a new high.

Whichever it is, seasoned observers think it is being overdone; that the markets, as usual, are going too far in discounting dull business and other depressive factors. Seeking to convince the gloom mongers that there is always sunshine behind the clouds, it is pointed out that the street has been in such a state of mind before, and that it has always augured an important change—either a turn for the worse or a turn for the better. And the prediction in more than one quarter is that a turn for the better is on the schedule.

Spirit of Uncertainty.

September has thus far followed the month's customary rule of prolonging the midsummer spirit of uncertainty, with resultant downward tendency in the markets. Not since 1928 has September failed to produce a stock market decline, and the occasional advances before then have not been impressive. Even when the fall upturn has been robust the records show that the notion Labor day is the starting point for the spurt is mistaken.

This is not to say that the present situation is free from troublesome perplexities. Movement of railway freight, though well above 1932, is still below corresponding weeks of last year. Steel production is very low, even if the persistent weekly decline of August has

BRITISH SEEKING SHOWDOWN OVER GERMAN POLICY

Will Ask Modification of Export Restrictions.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The British government is losing no time in getting down to brass tacks with German over the effect of the latter's proposals for the control of business and foreign exchange, and has now stepped in to help its exporters by opening direct negotiations with the reich government to secure modification of the drastic restrictions.

It was officially announced at the foreign office last night that a delegation headed by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, chief economic advisor to the British government, "would proceed immediately to Berlin to initiate discussions on commercial and financial relations between the two countries as they are affected by the new German machinery for the control of imports and the allocation of foreign exchange."

Half of Trade Affected.

The full effect of the latest German decrees on existing trade agreements is not yet clear, but it is estimated as matters stand not less than half of the total volume of British exports to Germany will be stifled under the new restrictions. This would mean a reduction in the export of British manufactured goods by at least $35,000,000 on the basis of last year's trade.

It is presumed here that in any agreement which may result from the negotiations Leith-Ross will insist on a settlement of outstanding frozen commercial debts, valued at about $15,000,000. In an endeavor to preserve some part of the German business for the British exporter, he will be able to use the powerful weapon of clearing house powers given the British government by parliament during the summer, when Germany threatened to default on her debt transfers.

Plan Reciprocal Agreement.

Such a system imposed at the present time, however, would have to be reciprocal in the agreement with the German government, as the British government undertook in the Anglo-German debt agreement last July not to use the clearing house powers before Jan. 1. The balance of Anglo-German trade was favorable to Germany last year by approximately $75,000,000, providing an ample margin for the purposes in view.

Meanwhile, an indication of the extent to which British trade is hit by German import and exchange restrictions is provided by the board of trade returns for August, issued last night. An analysis shows that exports and reëxports of practically every class of goods decreased sharply during the month, the striking exception being cotton waste export, which jumped from $100,000 to $167,000.

FRENCH AWAIT REFORMS

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 16.—Premier Gaston Doumergue's address on the reform of the state next Friday is awaited with high interest in financial circles in Paris, where the foreign exchange market as well as the bourse has entered a period of dullness. The absence of political activity is charged with responsibility for the calm, and hence Doumergue's speech is expected to bring action, or at least indicate the trends that can be expected during the winter.

It is predicted in some quarters that the immediate result of Doumergue's address will be a slight drop in sterling and the dollar against the franc. The premier is expected to affirm France's intention to remain on the gold standard, and to suggest reform measures likely to increase confidence in the French financial situation in general.

Less Talk of Devaluation.

Meanwhile, even discussion of the merits of currency devaluation, which is the current diversion among French experts, has been more or less abandoned, while the action of the dollar and the pound, both of which steadied after several weeks of fluctuation, is no longer the object of special attention.

The announcement in the course of the week that France had decided to redeem the second half of a 50,000,000 florin ($34,000,000) loan obtained from Dutch bankers is interpreted here as further proof of the stability of the French monetary situation.

Stock market activity had no salient points during the week except preoccupation with the situation of Belgium in the first two sessions. Pessimistic reports on the economic plight of France's neighbor became so current early in the week that they had a depressing effect on all bank and heavy industry stocks. Efforts to reassure investors strengthened issues later.

Exports of Cuban Sugars to U. S. Below Last Year

Exports of Cuban sugars since the beginning of the year to Sept. 8 totaled 1,404,543 long tons, raw value, compared with 1,504,819 tons during the same period last year, according to Lamborn & Co., sugar brokers. Shipments to the United States amounted to 829,952 tons, against 958,945 in the 1933 period.

been checked; but a year ago it was falling rapidly in September, and the decrease was not arrested up to the year-end. Takings of cotton by the mills, as reported for August, were below 1933, but above 1932 or 1930, and about the same as in 1931.

The textile strike, however, insures a worse showing for September, and meantime export of cotton has fallen to the lowest monthly figure in four years.

Other Things to Cause Worry.

Another thing still pressing against all markets is the general feeling of uncertainty concerning what the government intends to do about a number of things, which bears down on business minds already taxed with the task of working out of a depression. These minds would like to know what the administration plans to do with respect to currency, taxation, bond issues, relief, and special expenditure, business control, including price regulation, market supervision, and tariffs.

Aside from stocks, the feature of the week was the heavy selling of government bonds, which forced prices down sharply. Alarm over this development was caused by the consideration that an unduly large proportion of banks' funds is now tied up in treasury issues. The treasury announced a conversion scheme for its called Liberty bonds, the terms of which were orthodox enough, but which, nevertheless, threw into relief the rising price the government is having to pay for its money, the difficulty of selling long term bonds, and the growing short term debt.

Watch U. S. Financing.

The fact that, in face of the pending offer for conversion of $1,200,000,000 "called" Liberty 4¼s into twelve year 3¼ per cents, the net price of the called 4¼s and of outstanding 3¼s should last week have declined almost to the exchange price, caused Wall street some perturbation.

That the conversion operation would be seriously affected, however, nobody supposed. The existing premium is somewhat smaller than when the similar conversion offer of $1,000,000,000 was before last April's market, and about $185,000,000 of the 4¼ per cents then under call were not exchanged, but were tendered for cash redemption. But the treasury has now, as it had then, abundant cash funds for the purpose, and the status of supply and demand on the general investment market still gives sufficient reason for conversion.

PRIME WESTERN ZINC DROPS AS BUYING WANES

New York, Sept. 16.—Prime western zinc quotations dropped $3 per ton in the last week as smelters found consumer buying interest indifferent while ore production mounted following a ten day period of mine curtailment. Resumption of mine operations at an active rate despite reports of reduced consumption was said to have unbalanced the statistical position. The lower quotations which resulted failed to attract more than light demand.

Although domestic copper was quiet and unchanged at the basis of 9 cents for Blue Eagle electrolytic, prices for this metal in the European market eased to the lowest levels in about sixteen months, owing partly to poor demand. Buying here was also of small proportions, although hopes were expressed that consumers would soon reënter the market. The mid-summer buying movement was believed to have supplied requirements up to October. In the meantime, the code authority is said to be completing permanent buying contracts with consumers.

Tin moved irregularly in sympathy with London, a feature being the development of a premium for spot over futures quotations. This, however, was not a reflection of any domestic demand for nearby metal as buying remained small and tin plate operations were unchanged from the recent 40 per cent rate.

Lead was quiet and prices unchanged. Buying was said to be marked by more or less caution owing to seasonal influences and uncertainty over the general business outlook. The course of prices was said to be dependent partly upon whether offtake of metal equaled ore intake by smelters.

Antimony displayed a steadier undertone in sympathy with reported firmness in China and a little European inquiry, but domestic demand remained light.

AVERAGE CITIZEN IS CAPITALIST, BROKERS ASSERT

Economic Recovery Rests on His Confidence.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 16.—Consideration of the average man in this country as a capitalist is given in a report on a study of his wealth, particularly his life insurance and savings, made by Frazier, Jelke & Co., members of the New York Stock exchange. The study shows that the average citizen has about $700 in a bank and has a life insurance policy for $1,100.

The report carries at its beginning the following quotation from President Roosevelt's speech at Green Bay, Wis.:

Is Average Man Confident?

The report reads, in part:

"When the President says the confidence of the average man is of first importance he is right. But is the average man confident? Does he feel sure of his job? Sure of his present salary? Sure of the purchasing power of the money he has in the bank? Sure that he can keep up his life insurance? Sure that his life insurance provides adequate protection for his dependents? Sure that business is improving? Sure that he can provide his children with the education he has planned? Sure that he can care for himself in old age? Sure that he can spend the money he has for the things he wants without being improvident?

"If the average man can answer these questions in the affirmative he has confidence. If he cannot, he lacks confidence, and his lack of confidence is an obstacle to economic and social recovery.

"Through forty-four principal life insurance companies the holders of 93,249,042 policies have an interest in $6,739,064,295 real estate and $6,539,604,564 obligations secured either by governmental credit or by corporate properties. Behind the insurance with a face value of $73,916,188,257 there are admitted assets of $18,227,686,544. Of this total about 37 per cent is represented by real estate and 36 per cent by government, municipal, and corporate bonds.

Attitude of Depositors.

"Policy holders and savings bank depositors have been educated to believe they may withdraw their savings in cash at any time. For this reason they seldom are conscious that their funds are not held in cash but are in fact invested to earn the interest allowed at regular intervals. They are not likely to realize how political policies and economic conditions may influence the value of the resources in which their savings are invested, or the credit standing of those who have borrowed indirectly from them.

"The average citizen who understands how closely security is linked with the welfare of mutual financial institutions has ample cause for demanding assurances of protection for reasonable property rights, and should know that elective representatives in federal, state, and municipal assemblies have the power to reëstablish confidence."

USERS OF COPPER SIGN AGREEMENT ON PURCHASES

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The copper code authority announced today that 92 concerns that consume approximately 95 per cent of the copper used in this country have signed buying agreements with the code authority.

These firms, said H. O. King, managing director of the authority, have agreed "to buy no copper other than Blue Eagle copper, and to coöperate with the copper code authority in making the Blue Eagle copper provisions effective.

"Negotiations are under way with almost all of the other known users and it is expected that within the next two weeks a large majority of these will be signed.

"For the consumers who are negotiating buying agreements and who have previously signed temporary agreements, the temporary agreements have been extended to Oct. 10. There will be no further extensions."

Iowa Governor Asks AAA Broaden Buying of Fodder

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 16.—Gov. Herring has wired Secretary Henry A. Wallace at Washington a request for modification of the AAA corn fodder purchase program. The governor said he had been informed that the AAA ruling permits purchases only in the 68 Iowa counties outside the drouth area. Some farmers, however, in the 31 drouth counties also have an excess of fodder, Governor Herring said, and he hopes to obtain a ruling so that these farmers may sell such excess to the government.

COTTON USED IN AUGUST LESS THAN YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—The federal census bureau reports that the consumption of cotton during August in the United States amounted to 420,949 bales, compared with 588,902 bales consumed in August, 1933. Consumption during the year ended July 1 was fixed at 5,700,558 bales.

Cotton on hand Aug. 31 in consuming establishments amounted to 1,081,218 bales, against 1,155,556 bales a year ago. Cotton in public storage in compressors totaled 5,824,025 bales, against 5,799,467 bales. Spindles active during August numbered 24,153,998, against 25,926,374.

Linters consumed during August amounted to 61,228 bales, against 82,736 a year ago. Linters held in consuming establishments totaled 214,789 bales, against 290,743. Linters held in public storage and at compressors amounted to 31,375 bales, against 26,784.

Cotton exported during August totaled 267,562 bales, against 530,627 a year ago. Imports amounted to 10,682 bales during the month, against 12,258 bales.

Huszagh-Musson Committee Ends Reorganization Work

BY AL CHASE.

With the mailing to bondholders of the plan for refinancing the 6320 Kenmore Avenue apartments, the protective committee for Huszagh, Musson & Co. real estate bond issues announces that it has completed its sixteenth and last reorganization. The other fifteen, it was stated, were consummated with the approval of 98 per cent of the bondholders. The sixteen bond issues aggregate well over $6,000,000 par value, all secured by north side properties.

HENRY J. MERLE.
[Walinger Photo.]

The committee was formed on Jan. 2, 1931, and enlarged in July, 1931, by the addition of four members, all of whom were the owners of substantial amounts of Huszagh, Musson & Co. bonds. Coöperation of practically all of the bondholders assisted the committee in avoiding receivers for more than half of the properties.

Only 3 New Mortgages.

"In only three instances were new mortgages placed on properties, it being the policy of the committee to pay taxes and the necessary costs of reorganization out of rentals," said Kenneth Anderson, secretary of the committee. "While this delays an immediate cash return to the bondholders, commission and servicing charges on a new loan are avoided. This results in increased safety for the capital investment of the bondholders and a greater return later.

"Each property is held in a separate trust for the bondholders for that particular property until it may be sold at a price satisfactory to the bondholders. In the meantime the management of the properties is under the supervision of Henry J. Merle, acting chairman of the committee, in the absence of James E. MacMurray, George P. Rinn and Ferd Kramer."

95 Per Cent Rented for 2 Years.

Bondholders in the 6320 Kenmore avenue property are being notified in the letter now being mailed to them that the reorganization plan provides that all income from operations will be used first to pay off back taxes and provide a reserve for accruing taxes, and then distributed to the present owners, the former bondholders.

There are sixty-three furnished apartments of one, two and three rooms in the six story building at 6320 Kenmore avenue. The property is security for a first mortgage bond issue of $218,000. Mr. Anderson states that the building has been 95 per cent rented during the last two years.

Assails Loan Action.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—We notice by your reports that 90 per cent of the applicants for the five year government loan to smaller industries have been refused by the bankers.

The act of congress was to supply funds to those whom the banks had refused to finance. Perhaps these banks have loaned their money to the large corporations of huge capital and do not want the smaller companies competing for business, and that is why they refused applications of the 90 per cent.

Why don't you run an article in your paper and invite private capital to look over the statements of these many applicants. I'll wager they will find 60 per cent of them worthy of an investment loan at a fair rate of interest.

U. S. CREDIT BANK REDISCOUNTS 68 MILLION LOANS

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 16.—Word that production credit associations, during less than one year of operation, have rediscounted $68,000,000 worth of loans with the Federal Interstate Credit bank was brought here by Verne Simmons, assistant production credit commissioner at Washington.

"A production credit association, by virtue of its method of operation," Simmons said, "is able to offer a long-time credit service to a farmer at an interest rate in line with commercial rates offered industry."

The credit association, a unit of the Farm Credit administration, provides a credit service for farmers desiring loans for farm operation and production purposes.

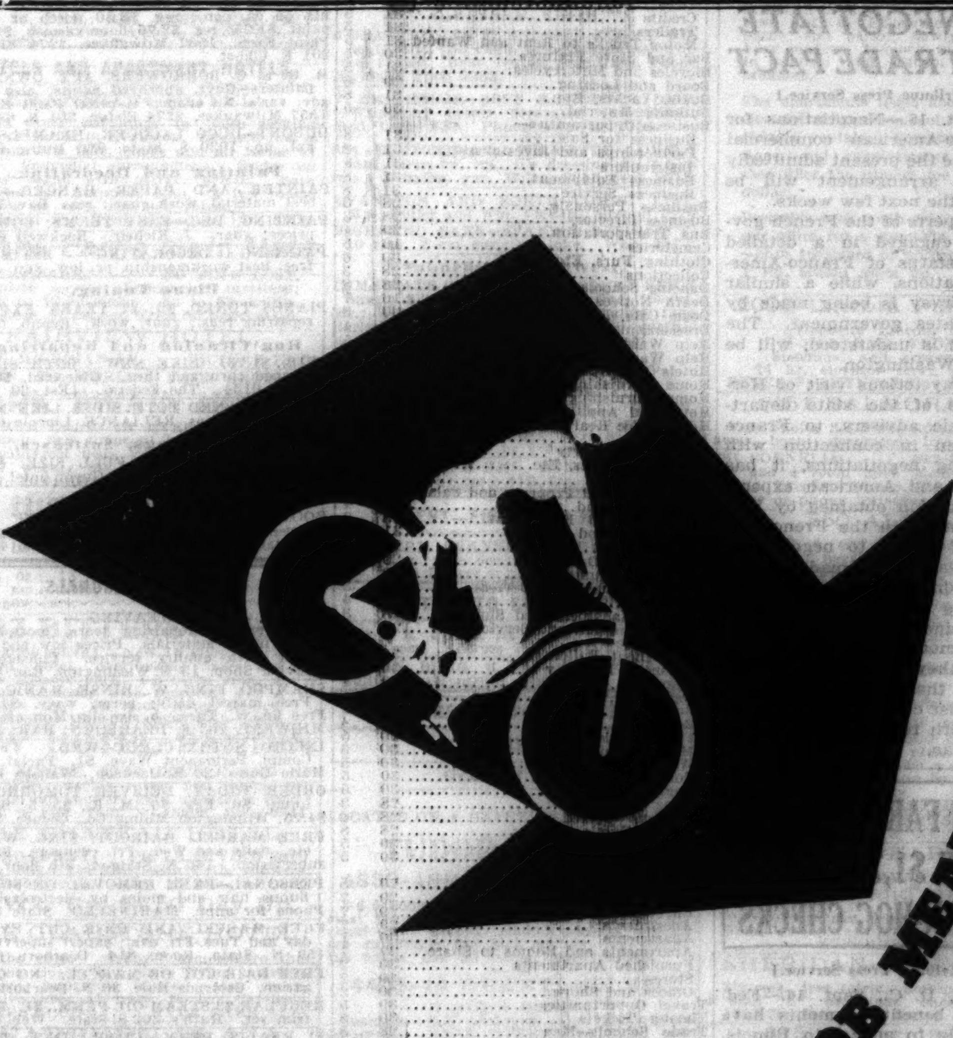
Railroad Fuel Suppliers Open Convention Today

Problems of fuel economy will be the principal subject of discussion before a two day convention of the International Railway Fuel association, which will be opened today in the Hotel Sherman. Members are in the business of supplying railroads with coal and oil, and include both producing and distributing agencies in those industries, according to P. Duff Smith, secretary of the association.

STOCKS ON CURB REACT TO LOW LEVELS OF YEAR

New York, Sept. 16.—The Curb market yielded further ground last week. A lower drift in the early part of the period culminated in rather active selling on Friday, in which many shares sold down around their low levels for the year. Volume increased on the reaction.

In the early sessions the unsettlement centered in metals and specialties, but utilities and alcohols later yielded. Oils were narrow, but recessions prevailed. Average daily sales increased to around 140,000 shares, compared with around 100,000 in the preceding week.



A ROOM CLOSE TO YOUR JOB MEANS MORE TIME FOR PLAY

To live in a place inconveniently situated with regard to your work steals hours from playtime. Time you would otherwise spend in play, reading, or resting is spent in traveling.

A brief daily reading of the offers in the Tribune want ads can help you cut down such waste. Here clean, comfortable rooms in the neighborhoods you prefer are listed. No matter what rental you feel you can pay, you are certain to find an attractive room if you read the offers in the Tribune.

BRITISH INDUSTRY GAINS IN AUGUST, SAYS U. S. SURVEY

Unemployment Less than Year Ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—British industrial activity in August was at a substantially higher level than a year ago, reports to the commerce department, contained in the weekly survey of business conditions, indicated today. Business was retarded seasonally by holidays from the July level, but continued steady.

Unemployment has shown small seasonal increases throughout the summer, but the number of persons registered at employment exchanges is about 250,000 less than in the preceding August.

Exports of British products in the first seven months of the year were about 8.5 per cent above the value for the January-July period of 1933. Total imports increased about 12 per cent, while imports of raw materials and unmanufactured articles increased by more than 25 per cent.

Exceeds 1933 Record.

Industrial production in the first two quarters of this year was considerably ahead of such activity in the comparable periods of 1933, according to the government index. Seasonal influences will no doubt bring the index number down for the third quarter, but indications point to it being higher than for the summer period of last year.

The general economic situation in Sweden continues to show satisfactory improvement. Industrial production figures recently published for June reveal a continuation of the rise in industrial activity. Wholesale prices were well maintained and only 13.7 percent of the members of the trade unions were unemployed at the end of June, as compared with 15.3 per cent at the end of May and 20.3 per cent at the end of June, 1933.

Indian Industry Declines.

With the beginning of the monsoon in British India in July, practically all lines of trade and industry showed the usual seasonal decline, and no definite upturn is expected before October.

The appropriation bill filed in the Philippine legislature Sept. 6, recommended expenditures of 41,187,300 pesos, a decrease of 1,600,000 pesos from the governor general's estimated appropriations for public works.

In El Salvador, midsummer dullness characterized general business in August. Most of the operations connected with the 1933-'34 coffee crop having been completed, and it being too early for major dealings in the new crop, the market lacked stimulation.

U. S. AND FRANCE WILL NEGOTIATE NEW TRADE PACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 16.—Negotiations for a new Franco-American commercial treaty to replace the present admittedly unsatisfactory arrangement will be opened within the next few weeks.

Economic experts of the French government are engaged in a detailed study of the status of Franco-American trade relations, while a similar preliminary survey is being made by the United States government. The negotiations, it is understood, will be conducted in Washington.

The recent mysterious visit of Herbert Feis, one of the state department's economic advisers, to France was undertaken in connection with the forthcoming negotiations, it has been revealed, and American experts will use information obtained by Feis when bargaining with the French.

Unsuccessful efforts to negotiate a commercial treaty were made during the Hoover administration but relatively little has been done since 1932. American business men in France have been clamoring for such an accord, which they believe would do much to end the uncertainty under which they must conduct their affairs, particularly with regard to constantly changing quotas.

ILLINOIS FARMERS RECEIVE $1,766,688 IN CORN-HOG CHECKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—Federal corn-hog benefit payments have begun belatedly to pour into Illinois. The Agricultural Adjustment administration announced today that a total of $1,766,688 in corn-hog checks have been sent to farmers in the state. This is the second highest amount thus far paid to any state.

Up until recently by far the largest part of the corn-hog money was being dumped into Iowa, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's home state. While millions went to Iowa, only a few paltry thousands were paid to Illinois farmers. This disparity is now being gradually narrowed. Iowa, however, still has the lion's share of the easy money, having received $4,251,752.

Thus far about $78,500,000 in corn-hog benefit payments has been mailed to middle western farmers, the AAA announces. The money has gone to over 800,000 farmers in 39 states. With this money paid out, the first installment of the corn-hog program is about 60 per cent complete.

New Dealers, including Secretary Wallace, are frankly expecting these corn-hog checks to buy popularity for the Roosevelt administration in the corn belt. In recent newspaper polls the corn states have been notable in their shift away from the administration, and the New Dealers promptly speeded up their money spending machinery in an effort to buy back popularity with the tax payers' dollars.

Of the 31 counties in Illinois into which corn-hog checks have thus far been sent, Peoria county has received the largest total, $210,526. Tazewell county is second with $178,496. Edgar county is third with $169,499, and Winnebago county is fourth with [illegible]

'TWO-FOR' CIGARS COMING UNDER CODE TINKERING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—A proposal of the code authority for the cigar manufacturing industry that the NRA stabilize the marketing of two for 5 cent cigars will be discussed at a public hearing on Sept. 28.

One of the eleven recommendations is that all manufacturers of cigars, stogies, and cheroots made to retail at two for 5 cents be bound by all the provisions of the manufacturing industry. It is also proposed that the cheaper cigars weigh not more than 18 pounds per thousand, and be packed at least 100 to the container.

Adoption of the proposals would not change the cost of 2 for a nickel cigars to the consumer, it was said.

Why work in air that's Drier than the Sahara?

The new air conditioning system in Tribune Tower promotes better work by protecting health. That's just one of the many advantages of a Tribune Tower office. An ideal location at the right price.

HOUSEHOLD
Lowers Loan Cost

Our new rate schedule reduces the cost of all loans above $100 and less than $300 below the rates we have been charging since July, 1933. Our previous low rate on $300 loans continues.

We have 17 branch offices in the Chicago district and do the largest business because:

1. We make loans of $30 to $300 at reasonable cost.
2. We do not question your employer, your neighbors, your relatives, or your tradespeople.
3. All of our offices are equipped to handle your business in a private room.
4. We give free, authentic information on managing family incomes.
